Doctor Describes 'Third Degree' Killing

PITTSBURGHER HELD IN BONUS ROW

'3RD DEGREE' DEATH TOLD BY DOCTOR

Prosecutor Declares He Warned Police Against Violence

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 18.—(AP.)—Assistant District Attorney Martin W. Littleton, Jr., testified today that he had warned police against using any third degree tactics on Hyman Stark, alleged assailant of a county detective's mother, who died after eight hours "interrogation."

Dr. Otto Schultze, Coroner's physician, who performed the autopsy, testified he found numerous contusions on shoulders, chest, back and front of the torso. They were all in pairs and the indications were that they had been made with a two-pointed instrument. Both eyes were blacked, both lips cut and bruised. There was a laceration on one side of the head and there were bruises on the shins.

ADAMS APPLE BROKEN

All of this, however, he testified, would not have caused death, which was solely due to fracture on both sides of the "Adam's apple," apparently caused by pressure from the front. Edwards asked:

"Did your findings indicate that the deceased had been beaten?"

Schultze replied:

"They did."

"Might his life have been saved by immediate medical treatment?"

"If he had been treated at once and a tube inserted in his throat, his life might have been saved."

Littleton was a witness at the John Doe hearing into the death before Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink. Examination was conducted by District Attorney Elvin Edwards, who was out of town when Stark, a murder suspect and former convict, died.

WARNED POLICE

Littleton testified:

"When I was told that Stark and three companions had been arrested for attacking and injuring the mother of a policeman, I realized what might ensue. I warned both Deputy Chief of Police Frank J. Tappan and an inspector.

"I said, 'Remember that one black eye may spoil a perfectly good murder case.'"

Littleton said both police officers agreed with him that no third degree methods should be used. Stark was questioned by police for eight hours and died late Friday night of a broken larynx. He also suffered a fractured skull and many body bruises.

Deputy Chief Tappen and Joseph Hizenski, son of Mrs. Valeria Hizenski, the woman who was beaten by four robbers who entered her Rosyln home and stole $4 and a cheap ring, have been suspended from the county police force.

Littleton said he himself took statements from Stark's three companions and that these statements and other evidence in the

Private Work on Dwellings, Autos Charged

Starting developments today in the reopened hearings on charges against the county government included this testimony:

1—Joseph Gaussa, former superintendent of No. 5 road division, not only used county labor and material to repair the houses and autos of friends, but also built for himself a 7-room house in Mt. Lebanon.

2—County materials were hauled to the homes of John Fugassi, former superintendent of road maintenance; William Ziefel, former chief clerk in the commissioners' office; Harry Dipple, whom a witness described as a prohibition agent; to Eddie Ray's roadhouse beyond Mt. Lebanon; to a club in the 1200 block of Webster avenue, Hill district; to Sully's grove, near South Park.

Principal witness was a truck driver, who testified the Gaussa house, except for lumber and brick, was built with county material by county employes.

He told of hauling sod to Ziefel's home in Mt. Lebanon; sev-

Bonus Vets Rushing Capitol in Near Riot

TATTERED ARMY STORMING CONGRESS' HALLS IN THEIR VAIN BONUS DEMONSTRATION

Thousands of bonus seekers massed before the Capitol on the last day of Congress in their hopeless fight to obtain cash payment of the bonus. Rushing up the steps against orders and booing the arrest of their leaders, the veterans for a time threatened serious trouble and all Washington police were mobilized. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

2 ARRESTED IN CAPITAL PICKETING

Many Vets Prepare To Quit City, But Thousands Stay

WASHINGTON, July 18—(AP.)—Discouraged because Congress has quit, a good many members of the bonus seeking army had decided today the best thing to do was to go home.

A long line formed this morning in front of the Veterans' Administration, where transportation is available for the veterans. Officials were forced to set up emergency office space in the corridors to handle the applications.

TWO VETS ARRESTED

Meanwhile, two veterans were arrested for attempting to organize a protest meeting outside of police court where four of their comrades were on trial for trying to picket the White House Saturday night. Those arrested today were Alfred Hale, 48, Detroit, Mich., and John Fabroshoski, 39, of Pittsburgh.

At the same time Judge Isaac Hitt cleared the court room of veterans who had congregated to hear the trial of Urbain Ledoux, known as "Mr. Zero," and the others arrested at the White House. The veterans, members of the so-called Left, or radical, wing of the army, came to protest the arrests. There was no disorder at the court.

RUSH FOR TICKETS

When the rush at the bureau started, 2,119 railroad tickets had been issued up until 9 o'clock since the transportation bill passed nearly two weeks ago. Conveyance by auto had been furnished for 324.

Roy W. Robertson, leader of the California group, conferred with his assistants today on what to do next. His group was the one which marched steadily for four days and nights in front of the capitol.

The conference adopted the name of "The Death March Bonus Army" and elected Robertson president.

Robertson said he was making no effort to keep his men from taking transportation from the Veterans' Administration, but he did not believe many of them contemplated leaving.

There was no indication today that attempts to picket the White House, which resulted in the arrests Saturday night, would be resumed.

ALARM FELT FOR ZIEGFELD

HOLLYWOOD, July 18.—(AP.)—Florenz Ziegfeld, New York musical comedy producer, was declared by his physician to be in a "very serious but not critical condition" today.

Alarm was expressed by his wife, Billie Burke, actress, who ordered him brought to a local hospital from a desert sanitarium where he had spent several days. Mr. Ziegfeld suffered an attack of pleurisy 16 weeks ago, and has never fully recovered.

Mary Nolan to Ask Divorce in Reno

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP.)—The Daily News quotes Mary Nolan, screen actress, as saying she plans to bring suit for divorce from Wallace T. Macrery, Jr., her youthful husband of little more than a year. She said:

"We've been separated for several months, and as soon as I can straighten out my business affairs I will go to Reno. He's the nicest man I know, but we are a drawback to each other."

CAROL'S THRONE IN DANGER

BUDAPEST, July 18.—(INS.)—King Carol's regime has been placed in a precarious position as a result of his overwhelming defeat in the parliamentary elections yesterday, and he may be forced to relinquish his throne and flee Rumania, political observers believe.

Carol's failure to cope with the economic crisis since his return from exile in Paris has caused growing unrest throughout his kingdom. A movement is understood to be afoot to have him replaced by a new regency governing in behalf of his son, the young Crown Prince Michael.

The elections gave Juliu Maniu, Peasant party leader who retired after Carol returned, control of 240 seats. Nicholas Jorga, the King's former tutor who displaced Maniu as premier, failed to win a single seat.

Brazilian President Leads Loyal Troops

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 18.—(AP.)—President Getulio Vargas took the field today to lead his loyal federal troops in their southward movement to break up the revolt in the State of Sao Paulo. There were no military engagements, however, except a few reconnoitering brushes.

Dispatches from Montevideo said several groups in the neighboring State of Rio Grande do Sul were recruiting men to join the Sao Paulo rebels.

SEEKING POISON TRACE IN BODY

Exhumation of the body of 12-year-old Steven Allas probably will be ordered by Coroner W. J. McGregor following a conference with Chief County Detective George W. Murren today. The boy died last September presumably from a fractured skull suffered in a football game.

Detectives said Steven was one of three named as victims of an insurance murder plot in the confession of Mrs. Gizelle Young, of Munhall. Previously the body of his brother, Andrew, had been exhumed and examined for traces of poison.

Mrs. Young, in her alleged confession, had named Steven's stepmother, Mrs. Anna Allas, 38, and Mrs. Mary Chalfa, 31, of Munhall, detectives say.

Today Mrs. Chalfa complained to Detective Murren that she was being hounded by detectives and others. Murren promised the annoyances would stop.

Nine Pittsburghers Hurt in Fatal Crash

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 18.—Nine Pittsburghers are suffering from injuries received in an auto collision that caused the death of George Boblick, 30, of Herminie. The Pittsburghers injured are: Earl McMinn, 312 Hillman road; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Testa, 7515 Finance street; five Testa children, and Helen Haley, of 2114 Larkins way. All the Pittsburghers were in McMinn's car.

Bacardi, Rum Maker, Hit by Stray Bullet

SANTIAGO, Cuba, July 18.—(INS.)—Facundo Bacardi, vice president of the famous rum distillery bearing his name, was shot and seriously wounded in the Rialto cafe today.

Police, after an investigation, announced the shot was accidental, and the man who held the pistol was not arrested. His name was withheld.

Magee, Auto Victim, Shows Improvement

HARRISBURG, July 18.—(INS.)—James M. Magee, Pittsburgh, chairman of the Pennsylvania Securities Commission, injured Thursday in an automobile accident, was reported improved today by Harrisburg Hospital physicians. Magee's skull was fractured in the crash.

W. W. WATERS, BONUS ARMY COMMANDER, FLEEING POLICE

At the height of the veterans' rush on the Capitol Saturday, police seized Waters and other leaders of the bonus demonstration. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

DROWNING GIRL RESCUED

Becoming exhausted while attempting to swim the Allegheny River at Denny's camp, near Cheswick, last night, Sarah Brady, 21, of 2117 Carson street, a student nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital, was rescued by Springdale firemen and revived with inhalators.

Police said she had swum the river and was returning to the camp when she became exhausted and sank within a few feet of shore. Firemen were summoned, who dragged her from the water and administered oxygen for nearly a half hour before she was revived. She was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital by New Kensington firemen. The girl's home is in Youngstown, O.

Rescue Effort Vain, Girl, 17, Drowned

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 18.—Helen Dydek, 17, of Plain Grove, was drowned last night in Slippery Rock Creek, near Elliotts Mill. Mary Smiley, of Cleveland, a sister-in-law, almost lost her life in attempting to save Miss Dydek.

Uniontown Vet Hurt In Fight at Capital

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(INS.)—William J. Kingman, 40, of Uniontown, Pa., one of the encamped bonus marchers, was in a critical condition here today following a street fight with two Negroes.

Freigau, Ball Star, Killed in Pool Dive

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 18.—(AP.)—Howard Freigau, 28, of Dayton, O., infielder on the Knoxville baseball team, was drowned early today while in swimming at the pool of the Chattanooga Golf and County Club.

He dived off the tower about 20 feet high and hit his head on the bottom of the pool.

Missing Society Man's Wife Booked as Negro

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—(AP.)—A woman arrested here as Mrs. Allan B Monks, wife of a missing scion of a prominent Boston family, was described on the police blotter here today under the race classification "black."

The first intimation of any question of color in the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Monks over 18 months ago, and the subsequent search for his wife and her supposed uncle, Wiley B. Watson, was contained in the booking.

Albert I. Sawyer, arrested and held three weeks at the time Mrs. Monks was traced to a San Francisco peninsula motor car camp, was arrested yesterday with the woman.

Sawyer's prior arrest revealed Monks' disappearance and the fact San Diego County authorities were seeking his wife for questioning. Officials said they wished to question Mrs. Monks concerning checks drawn on her husband's account.

The woman arrested as Mrs. Monks is dark complexioned. She said her name was Moore and told police she was "white," but refused to answer any other questions.

Section of Cow's Tail Cut Off by Marauder

Wilkinsburg police and Humane Society officials today were seeking some one who late Saturday cut off part of the tail of a valuable Jersey cow, owned by Mrs. M. A. Atkinson, 1842 Graham boulevard, Wilkinsburg.

Mrs. Atkinson told Motorcycle Patrolman Bliss Zenner that when she returned to her home early in the evening she heard the animal moaning, and found more than a foot of its tail had been amputated. Officials said they believed they knew who did the cutting.

Jeannette Arrives At Sister's Bedside

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—(AP.)—Jeannette MacDonald, screen actress and former Philadelphia schoolgirl, arrived here yesterday to be at the bedside of her sister, Elsie, who is in a hospital suffering from an attack of peritonitis.

Miss MacDonald left Santa Barbara, Cal., Wednesday by airplane, but her journey was interrupted in Texas because of air sickness. She continued the trip by train.

Cards Foretold Man's Murder, Widow Says

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP.)—Police shuffled through a slim deck of clues today in their investigation of the slaying of George Carl, storekeeper, foretold, his widow said, 60 hours in advance by "cards of death" she drew from a neighborhood fortune teller's hands.

They held for questioning Ivan Grilec, 38, a brother-in-law of the dead man, who they said they had learned, sold Mrs. Vera Carl, the widow, a $5,000 insurance policy in which she was named beneficiary. Grilec denied this.

Mrs. Carl told police she and her mother had warned Carl that on Thursday she turned up three cards which predicted his death at the home of Mrs. Susie Ballo, who has a neighborhood reputation as a soothsayer.

Carl was found shot to death late Saturday night in his South Side grocery by his wife and son, Dorn, 9. The widow notified police after calling a friend, John Pettek. The rear of the store was in much disorder, the cash register overturned and empty.

First information of the occult turn of the case came from Dorn. He said that Friday his mother asserted:

"Your father will be shot Saturday night. It's in the cards."

Mrs. Carl acknowledged drawing the death cards, and Mrs. Ballo, questioned, repeated that the cards not only foresaw the violent death of Carl, but indicated his widow would "get some money" and would have trouble with the authorities.

GERMANY BANS DEMONSTRATION AS 16 DIE IN RIOTING

DECREE ISSUED AFTER CABINET MEETING

Modified Martial Law May Be Ordered in Emergency

International News Service.

BERLIN, July 18. — Impelled to drastic action by the bloody political battles of Sunday, the government today issued a decree prohibiting parades, demonstrations and open air meetings throughout the Reich.

The decree was understood to be a preliminary measure to be tried out for a week to curb pre-election demonstrations which yesterday took a toll of 16 lives throughout Germany. If the step in that time should prove to be ineffective, even more drastic measures will be instituted.

An official communique said:

"The government is considering an emergency decree providing the death penalty for violators of arms and explosives regulations.

"Offenders may be shot on sight if caught in possession of arms or explosives."

REDS ASSAILED

The announcement concluded with the statement it considered Communists the Reich's most dangerous disturbers of the public peace.

The decree was issued after a meeting of the cabinet with Chancellor Von Papen, at which these possible courses of action were discussed:

1. Proclamation of a "state of emergency," or modified martial law, either countrywide or in the areas threatened with further political disorder.

2. Appointment of a Reich commissioner for Prussia.

3. Prohibition of the Communist party.

In withholding a decree of martial law at this time the cabinet disregarded the threat of Adolf Hitler's followers that they would protect themselves if the government failed to act.

MARTIAL LAW OPPOSED

The democratic press has constantly opposed martial law on the ground that it might seriously interfere with the Reichstag elections, and for the time being this element has the support of the government.

The government decree was issued through the Ministry of the Interior, which indicated that the government was inclined to move slowly. A declaration of martial law would have come from the Chancellor.

The roll of dead and injured in Sunday's rioting between Communists and Fascists mounted steadily today. It is now known that in the last two weeks 64 persons have been killed and more than 500 wounded. Political observers predicted today that in the two weeks before the Reichstag election on July 31 the affrays would increase in number and violence unless the government used the mailed fist.

GREEN PREDICTS FOOD RIOTS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 18.—(AP.) — Declaring Congress failed to enact adequate relief measures, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, predicted yesterday that there will be "widespread food riots" this winter.

Speaking for the federation's executive council, in session here, he expressed its "keen disappointment" that Congress adjourned without acting further toward farm relief or toward modification of the Volstead act to permit 2.75 per cent beer. Green said:

"Rioting and social disorder is the outlook for the winter. It will be bad. There are bad signs. That bonus army in Washington is nothing but an army of unemployed.

"Demand for relief this winter will break community relief provisions. We anticipate a special session of Congress because the unemployment problem will be so acute."

Bulkley in Closing Session as Wife Dies

CLEVELAND, July 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Robert J. Bulkley, 45, wife of United States Senator Bulkley, died early yesterday in Lakeside Hospital from a heart attack. She had been ill for more than a year.

Senator Bulkley was in Washington for the adjournment of Congress.

LAUD HEARST TALK ON DEBT PLOT

Leaders of Congress Praise Publisher's Radio Speech

WASHINGTON, July 18. — (Universal.) — William Randolph Hearst's radio address, "The Debt Cancellation Conspiracy," drew praise from congressional leaders.

Senators and representatives declared Mr. Hearst's views summed up succinctly and vigorously their own views of Europe's attempt to escape a bounded obligation and saddle an additional burden of $11,000,000,000 on the already overburdened shoulders of the American people.

Universal Service's poll of Congress revealed not a member in favor of cancellation. Further, any effort to effect cancellation under the guise of revision of the debts will be strenuously fought, with an overwhelming majority insisting Europe must live up to its contractual obligations.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader in the House, bespoke the Democratic viewpoint when he remarked in a formal statement that the House, in approving the Hoover debt moratorium, added a condition expressly "safeguarding the country against cancellation."

CONVENTION PLEDGE

The Democratic convention adopted a plank opposing cancellation. The Republicans remained silent.

Some congressional leaders were fearful that President Hoover, now that Congress is adjourned and he has a free hand, might make some move toward debt revision downward. It is not expected, however, that such negotiations would be revealed until after the elections.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, has criticized the President as "favoring a policy of debt revision."

Congress in the end will hold a whiphand over the administration if it proposes revision. Any agreement will have to be approved at the Capitol.

Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, declared:

"I agree entirely with Mr. Hearst about the debt conspiracy. I think the whole Lausanne plan was a scheme to load the debts on the backs of the American people and to make us pay for the war. It is outrageous and we will fight it. I think Mr. Hearst has performed a valuable service to the country in pointing out the debt conspiracy."

'GOOD SPEECH'

Senator Shipstead (F.L.), of Minnesota, said:

"I think it was a very good speech."

Senator Howell (Rep.), of Nebraska, said:

"Mr. Hearst indeed sums up the situation as it is. Europe seems to eliminate the remainder of its debt to us.

Eliminate for Europe, yes; but not for us. We must pay what Europe fails to pay. Of course our debtors want to void taxation, but whatever they evade in this connection we will pay.

"Those of us who would nonchalantly forget these debts do not seem to realize we can't. The $12,000,000,000 and more we have already canceled, we still owe. We must pay this huge sum out of future taxation.

"Unfortunately, however, that is not all. Last year we taxed ourselves and paid in interest alone on this twelve billions of cancelled debts nearly 500 million dollars.

"One might want to forget all this but the tax collector just won't let us forget it.

"Our European debtors promised to pay about half the five hundred millions last year, but the moratorium compelled us to pay it all.

"Shall we keep on paying it all?"

GARNER AGREES

John N. Garner, Speaker of the House and Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, in Indianapolis en route from the Capitol to his home in Texas, expressed agreement with the policies expressed by Mr. Hearst.

He declared the United States to be today much worse off in regard to unemployment and in many other ways than European nations pressing for cancellation of debts and said that he would fight every attempt made in that direction.

Mr. Garner said:

"I have been and always will be in agreement with Mr. Hearst's opposition to the cancellation of European war debts, as outlined in his radio address Saturday night.

"The eleven billion dollars owed by the European nations to the United States comprise, not the money sent by us to help them defeat the Germans, but huge sums lent subsequent to the war to aid them in their reconstruction projects.

CITES NATION'S PLIGHT

"Why, in the United States today there are more unemployed persons than there are jobless in the whole of Europe, France and Italy, and the other nations are better off in many ways than we are.

"Why should they object to paying their just debts and strive to saddle them upon the American people?

"You can't make it too strong from me that it is the duty of the United States to collect those war debts. And I do not take any stock in the flim-flamming of the European nations as to their so-called inability to pay.

"Like Gov. Roosevelt, I am backing every word the Democratic national platform says against cancellation of the European war debts."

ROOSEVELT BACK FROM CRUISE

EN ROUTE WITH GOV. ROOSEVELT TO ALBANY, July 18.—(INS.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, was motoring back to Albany today with assurances of Democratic leaders that he will poll a record-breaking vote in the normally rock-ribbed Republican New England states.

Tanned and rested by his six-day cruise in a 40-foot yawl along the New England coast, the Governor is prepared to plunge into an intensive campaign for the presidency as soon as he disposes of some pending state business at Albany. The Governor said:

"I never felt better in my life and I'm ready for a real campaign."

He made a brief stop today at Beverly Farms, Mass., for another conference with Col. Edward M. House, confidential adviser to the late President Wilson.

Akerson to Direct Republican Publicity

CHICAGO, July 18.—(INS.)—George Akerson, of Minneapolis, former secretary to President Hoover, and now a vice president of Paramount Pictures, has been appointed Eastern publicity director for the Republican National campaign, it was announced here today by former Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, director of publicity for the Republican national committee.

Akerson will have offices in New York City.

PROBE 'PARROT' DEATH CASE

OXFORD, Miss., July 18.—(AP.)—Jesse Tatum's story that his bride, formerly of St. Louis, was burned to death last week in trying to rescue a pet parrot from their blazing automobile, had a sequel today in Sheriff S. T. Lyle's announcement of plans to arrest him on a murder charge.

Mrs. Tatum perished in the fire near their home at Oakland, Miss., enroute from a visit to St. Louis. Tatum reported the car burst into flame and both leaped to safety but his wife returned to save the parrot and was trapped.

Sheriff Lyle discredits the story and said he would have the body exhumed with a view to proving death was due to causes other than burns.

The sheriff also said he had been digging into the history of Tatum's life and had found his first wife was killed by a shotgun held in his hands. A coroner's jury decided the shot was accidental.

Tatums bride was the former Mrs. Della Hubbard, a curtain maker, of St. Louis. They were married two months ago.

FRENCH LAUNCH DEBT SLASH CAMPAIGN

Drive to Shift War Cost To U. S. Confirmed In London

By GEORGE W. HINMAN, JR.
Universal Service

PARIS, July 18.—The first gun today had been fired in the French campaign to obtain action from Washington in wiping out Europe's $11,000,000,000 war debts to the United States at a dime on the dollar.

This would mean that American taxpayers would be burdened for a generation with paying more than $10,000,000,000, while the European nation's war debts would be only $1,100,000,000.

It was declared, however, that Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, who agreed to make the $714,000,000 German reparations settlement depend on American debt revision, would have a harder time dickering with America than the Germans had in striking a bargain with their creditors at Lausanne.

FRENCH STAND

Frederick Jenny, in an authoritative article in the usually semi-official Temps, declares the United States must cancel 90 per cent of Europe's debts "to cap with success" the work done at Lausanne.

Otherwise, Jenny foresees complete repudiation of war debts by the European nations following Germany's failure to continue reparations payments.

Should Britain consent to pay the United States money other than that furnished by Germany, Jenny asserts:

"The we would be confronted with a very disagreeable hypothesis."

Stating that the Lausanne accords fail specifically to exclude the prospect of British payment of war debts, Jenny declares that resulting negotiations with Washington would be difficult should separate conferences be held with European debt missions.

WILL REQUEST CUT

LONDON, July 18.—(Universal.)—The big powers of Europe will formally ask the American people to slash or cancel the remaining half—$11,000,000,000—of Europe's original war debts.

This was declared openly by Sir Walter Thomas Layton, chairman of the Layton committee which investigated the resources of Germany and a member of the Balfour mission to Washington which arranged the war loans to Britain which England, together with France, Italy and Belgium, now wants canceled.

In a radio talk broadcast to the United States last night, Layton confirmed the purpose of Europe's "gentleman's agreement" as foreshadowing negotiations for war debt cancellation or revision.

Europe intends to "invite" the United States to discuss revision of war debts, Layton said.

Equal Rights Plea By B. P. W. Board

PARIS, July 18.—(AP.)—The board meeting of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, at its closing session Saturday, went on record as favoring equal constitutional and civil rights for women.

Action on a resolution recommending economic sanctions against aggressors in war was postponed until the next meeting, in Chicago in July, 1933.

HOOVER TO SIGN RELIEF BILL TOMORROW

President's Thanks Given Leaders of Both Parties

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, July 18.—From his camp on the Rapidan, President Hoover issued a formal statement through the White House saying that he would sign the $2,122,000,000 relief bill tomorrow.

The President thanked the leaders of both parties for cooperating in the legislation which he considered "a strong step toward recovery."

However, he took a parting shot at Speaker Garner for some of the "obnoxious features" of the bill which had been eliminated after "they had so long delayed action."

It was indicated the President would sign the home loan bank bill immediatey upon his return from the camp. He directed his secretary, Theodore Joslin, to transmit the bill to the Comptroller of the Treasury today for an opinion on the Glass amendment to the bill providing for the issuance of practically $1,000,000,000 in new currency. Otherwise the bill was said to meet with his complete approval.

The President informed his secretary he was anxious to put the new legislation into effect immediately.

Hoover at Camp Rapidan Enjoys Stroll

LURAY, Va., July 18.—(AP.)—Under a cloudless sky, President Hoover this morning took a brief walk over mountain trails surrounding his Rapidan camp, it being his most vigorous exercise during the first 24 hours of virtually the first complete rest he has enjoyed for several months.

Leaving behind governmental advisors, the President had with him at his camp only Mrs. Hoover and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan, personal friends.

The chief executive enjoyed a long night's sleep in the cool mountain air. Mrs. Hoover strolled with him on his leisurely walk about the camp.

SENATE DELAYS LOAN PUBLICITY

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(INS.)—Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans will not be made public on the Senate side of the Capitol until Congress meets next December, it was declared today by Edwin Pope Trayer, secretary of the Senate.

Thayer explained he felt bound by the wishes of the two Senate leaders, Senator Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, and Senator Robinson (Dem.), of Arkansas.

Both asserted in the closing hour of debate on the $2,122,000,000 general relief bill that the section providing for the filing of statements by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would not permit publicity during the recess. Thayer stated:

"I am merely an agent to carry out the Senate's wishes."

PINCHOT SEEKS U. S. AID DATA

HARRISBURG, July 18.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today sought further information from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation regarding the extent to which Pennsylvania can borrow from the federal government under legislation now awaiting President Hoover's signature.

The chief executive said Pennsylvania would apply for its full share of the loans to state funds if the money is to be prorated among the states.

The letter sent today asked definite information regarding the total Pennsylvania can obtain if the new federal relief bill is signed by the President.

Coffin, Auto Man, Hurt in Car's Fall

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 18.—(AP.)—Howard Coffin, automobile magnate of Sea Island Beach, Ga., and Detroit, was injured last night as his car was crowded off a narrow bridge near here and fell into a gully.

He suffered a deep gash in his left hand and numerous bruises and small lacerations. Physicians said his injuries were not serious.

J USSERAND, EX-ENVOY TO U. S. DIES

Diplomat Long Aimed For Accord Between France, America

PARIS, July 18.—(AP.)—Jules J. Jusserand, former French ambassador to the United States, died this morning. He was 77.

Death came peacefully as he lay ill in his Paris home. It was learned he had been under the constant care of a physician for the last eight days because of a constitution weakened by a series of kidney operations some years ago.

Mme. Jusserand was with him when he died. She said:

"Up to the very last my husband thought and talked of the America, which he loved so dearly.

"He wanted me to tell your people this: 'That he was deeply worried in recent times by the feeling in the United States against France.'"

Norman Armour, charge d'affaires of the American Embassy, presented his government's condolences to the widow this afternoon. Gen. Pershing also called at the home. He said:

"I am profoundly distressed. May his passing be a reminder to all of us of the necessity of keeping forever intact a living co-operation and friendship between our two countries."

For 22 years M. Jusserand was ambassador to the United States, establishing a record for the longest continuous assignment in the history of the Washington diplomatic corps.

He was quiet and unassuming, but those close to him knew that under his administration the French Embassy achieved his ambition to unite his own country and the United States in bonds of firm friendship.

The American presidents from Roosevelt to Coolidge were his personal friends.

He owned a fine collection of Americana and at a banquet recently he exhibited a rare original signature of George Washington, presented to him by President Coolidge when he retired as Ambassador to the United States.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure is centered over Northern Illinois and covers most of the eastern half of the country. Low pressure covers the Rocky Mountain states, with the principal center over Eastern Montana, the western gulf and the Far Northeast. The precipitation for the last 24 hours was limited to light showers along the Gulf coast from Texas to Georgia, at scattered places in the Middle Atlantic states and the Rocky Mountain and northern plains. Yesterday morning light showers were reported in Virginia, North Carolina, and over the Southern Rocky Mountain states. The high temperature condition continued over the week-end. Temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred everywhere except over the lake region, along the Atlantic coast and along the Pacific coast. And 100 degrees or slightly higher was reported from Texas, Oklahoma and North Dakota.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 0.4 foot; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.3; Pittsburgh, 10.2; Dam No. 4, 8.6; No. 6, 7.8; No. 10, 8.5, and No. 12, 7.5. The dams are up.

FieldHeiress, War Hero's Wife, Dies in Sleep

DINGLEY, Leicestershire, England, July 18.—(AP.)—Lady Beatty, daughter of the late Marshall Field, Chicago merchant, and wife of Admiral David Beatty, one of the most noted of Britain's sea heroes during the World War, died in her sleep last night.

She had been ill several days.

Formerly Ethel Field, the internationally known merchant's only daughter, she married Admiral Beatty in 1901 after her divorce from Arthur Tree, son of a Chicago jurist. He was then a captain.

She went abroad after the marriage and never returned to the United States, except for a brief period in 1921, when her husband was a member of the British delegation to the arms limitation conference in Washington. With her on that trip, besides the admiral, were her two sons, Viscount Borodale and Peter Randolph Louis.

She always shunned publicity except last year when she took an active part in the parliamentary campaign of her son, Viscount Borodale, who was elected.

Insull Seen as 'Close' By Paris Tip-Grabbers

PARIS, July 18.—(Universal.)—Samuel Insull, erstwhile Chicago utilities magnate pushed off the niche of multi-millionaires by the economic crisis, is no longer the lavish spender he was on previous frequent European trips.

In fact, Insull in Paris today, has gained a reputation as an economist in his personal budget, and hotel attendants and a few night club employes regard him as uncommonly close with his tips.

Insull and his wife occupy two rooms in a fashionable Paris hotel where they formerly took an entire floor for themselves and their retinue.

The London-born businessman, who once managed all the affairs of the late Thomas A. Edison, takes his meals outside his hotel, usually in the smaller restaurants.

At times, in the evenings, Mr. and Mrs. Insull attend concerts and the theater, sometimes later visiting the Montmarte nightclubs—where prices have dropped considerably.

As Paris life goes, Insull has a reputation as a close spender, notably in the matter of tips, the outstanding feature of Parisian life—to the Parisians.

Those in contact with Insull regard him as nervous, irritable, and difficult to please. There are no indications that he is engaging in any business activity, and he has apparently retired voluntarily from business and public life.

300 COMMUNISTS POISONED AT OHIO STATE CONVENTION

'Gentleman-Farmer' Coyne

SENATOR JAMES J. COYNE AT M'CANDLESS TOWNSHIP FARM

The Oakland political leader, interested this morning in the corn and cabbage crop, before leaving for Harrisburg. His own-appointed Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar told the courts he cannot locate the State Senator. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Just Out to Cut Tax Burden, Hurt Nobody, Coyne Says of Probe

Senator James J. Coyne, the Oakland Irishman, is going to have his legislative committee investigate not only the county government, of which the Senator is no particular friend, but also Mayor Kline's city government, in which he is a political power.

The Senator said so today as he turned the motor of his limousine on his farm in McCandless Township and set out for a five-hour drive to Harrisburg.

Nobody was following him, not even his political appointee, Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, who has told the courts he cannot find Coyne to serve on him a writ in connection with a damage suit based an au automobile accident.

Has Senator Coyne talked with Mayor Kline about his plan to examine the city payroll? Says the Senator:

"Sure! It's all right with the Mayor. He needs help, you know.

"We all want to reduce the cost of government, don't we? It's partly selfish with me, anyhow, because all I have are my properties and the taxes are terrible."

CONSOLIDATION

And what particular branches of the municipal government will the Senator's committee, authorized by the Legislature, look into?

"Well, there's the Bureau of Assessment. The city's got one and the county's got one and what we should do is to consolidate them. Make them into one. And have the people elect them—a board of seven. And reduce their salaries.

"And there's the Fire Bureau. I think that can stand some looking into. Maybe we can reduce the payroll, maybe eliminate some of the fire houses and the police houses. Let the vacancies go without filling them."

The county payroll?

"Did you ever look to see how much money that airport's taking in? I think we can do something with that. And the Bureau of Election, that can be looked into."

Will the Senator scrutinize Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell's office?

"Oh, and is that a county office? . . . I didn't know that."

'SHAKEUP' SATISFIED

Was the Senator satisfied with Mayor Kline's police shakeup?

"Sure! I have to be satisfied."

Does the Senator think Gov. Pinchot may announce for Gov. Roosevelt?

"I hope he does. He's a liability."

Will Mayor Kline run for a third term?

"I think so. He's been getting stronger lately."

Will there be opposition?"

"Oh, sure! The reformers are talking about putting in Judge Gray."

The Senator expects his committee to begin hearings about the middle of August. And, with a few vacations, it will endure until December.

FUND NOT NEEDED

How about the cost, the Legislature having failed to make an appropriation?

"There's another thing I'd like to point to. We don't need $200,000 for my investigation. There'll be no cost. We'll drop over there and ask Sprigle or McGovern for a room and we'll get somebody from the city or county to take the shorthand."

Will the Senator do any questioning of witnesses?

"Sure!"

And will it be a treat when his political opponent, Commissioner C. M. Barr, takes the stand?

"Oh, we'll get along with Barr all right. Barr's trying to do the same thing as I am—reduce the cost of government."

Then there's no politics in this investigation?

"Why, not at all. And there's nothing wrong with politics if you play it right. It's as honest as any other business."

LINDY SEARCH DELVES INTO UNDERWORLD

Pursuit of Kidnapers Never to Be Relaxed, Officials Assert

TRENTON, N. J., July 18.—(AP.)—The light of publicity no longer shines on the search for the murderers of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, but through the dark channels of the underworld the hunt goes on.

Time, and completion of startling early developments, have cast a screen between the law's pursuit and the public gaze, but pursuit has never been relaxed—nor will it be.

HOOVER COMMAND

On May 13, the day after the small body was found in a roadside hollow near the home from which the baby had been stolen on March 1, President Hoover himself issued instructions which ever since have been like a beacon leading the emissaries of the law along a trail which can have but one ending. The President said:

"Make the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby a live and never-to-be-forgotten case."

His instructions were issued to members of federal agencies, but they were accepted as a command by state and city officials as well. The case is still very much alive and there is no possibility that it will be forgotten while the baby killers still roam free.

The state police station at Alpine is still operating as a headquarters for the hunt. Sixteen detectives of the force are on permanent assignment on the case and co-operating with them are members of the municipal police forces of Newark and Jersey City.

TIPS RECEIVED DAILY

Tips are still received daily and every one is run down. State and city investigators who have put aside their uniforms for civilian garb slip away at frequent intervals on secret missions, the results of which are known only to them and their superiors.

Back of this effort stand both Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of state police, who has been in immediate charge of the case ever since the baby was kidnaped, and Gov. A. Harry Moore, who has also from the first been active in spurring every police agency in the state to unflagging effort. They were asked:

"Is the search for the murderers of the Lindbergh baby still a live and unforgotten case?"

Col Schwartzdopf said:

"Is is still very much alive."

Gov. Moore said:

"It will never be forgotten."

possession of police were "better than a confession. He said:

"There wasn't even any need to question Stark."

FEARED BEATING

He said that Isse Stein, one of the prisoners, made a statement, but refused to sign it. Littleton quoted him as explaining:

"It's true, but if I sign it the cops will hit me."

Littleton went home after obtaining the three statements and at that time, he said, police had given no indication that they intending using any force against the prisoners.

After dinner Police Lieut. Jesse Mayford telephoned Littleton and said he had called Dr. Thomas Fearns, a private physician, to attend Stark. Littleton testified:

"I asked what was wrong, but they wouldn't tell me. But I could tell from the tone that it was something serious."

When he went to police headquarters after a second call he was informed the prisoner was dead. He said:

"I was shocked. We just sat there and looked at each other."

As soon as he recovered his composure, Littleton said, he ordered an immediate autopsy to determine the cause of the prisoner's death.

Ban on Prison Camps Urged in Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 18.—(INS.)—A drive to force Gov. Doyle E. Carlton into ordering all Florida prison camps abandoned was launched here today by the congregation of the Calvary Baptist Church after hearing Al F. Gorman, foreman of the Duval County grand jury, charge that Arthur Maillefert, youthful New Jersey prisoner, was murdered by camp guards.

Gorman headed the grand jury which indicted two guards for the "torture death" of Maillefert.

Capt. George W. Courson, one of the two indicted, has disappeared. He was reported to have loaded his furniture on a truck Saturday and to have driven away with his family.

County officials said they would seek to locate his new whereabouts, because he is at liberty under $5,000 bail on the murder charge to appear for trial in September.

REYNOLDS' FEAR OF GANGS TOLD

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 18.—(INS.)—New York racketeers planned to "bump off" 20-year-old Zachary Smith Reynolds, according to information received by Sheriff Transou Scott, investigating the murder of the heir to the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions.

In a letter received by the Sheriff from a man signing himself "Capt. Gene Mazur," dated New York, the Sheriff was told that a "mob" had planned more than a year ago to kill young Reynolds.

There are many indications that Smith Reynolds feared for his life.

Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway musical comedy star and widow of the victim, testified at the inquest that her husband always carried a gun, that he was afraid of kidnapers, that he insisted upon carefully locking the house each night, that they had heard footsteps on the Reynolds estate several times recently, and that he suffered a fear complex upon numerous occasions.

ROBBER SLAIN IN FARM FIGHT

NEWBURG, W. Va., July 18.—(AP.)—Identity of a man shot and killed as he apparently tried to obtain money at the George Orr farm near Newburg is sought today.

He with two others came to the Orr home Saturday night. When Mrs. Orr opened the door for them they started shooting. Orr, 75, came to his wife's aid and was shot in the knee. His son, Dale, 35, was shot in the hip as he apepared.

Henry Orr, 50, another son, fired at the intruders from an upstairs window as they withdrew into the farmyard, firing a fusillade as they backed away. One of the men was wounded in the leg and his companions fled. Henry Orr found his victim crawling in the yard. He shot again and killed him.

RAIFORD PRISON GUARD WATCHING WORKING CONVICTS

An elevated, rifle-armed guard at Raiford, watching with hawk-eyes the laboring convicts, including those transferred from Sunbeam camp after the torture death of Arthur Maillefert, 19, focussed the indignant attention of the nation on prison brutalities. HOSPITALS AID VICTIMS; QUIZ STARTED

Food Probe Ordered For Solution to Mystery

MASSILLON, O., July 18.—(AP.)—More than 300 Communists who became ill after a luncheon at their state convention were recovering today from what physicians believed to be ptomaine poisoning.

The food, served yesterday, was sent to the State Health Department for analysis.

One hundred of the sufferers became so ill they had to be sent to hospitals. All but six, who were reported well on the way to recovery, were discharged during the night.

Hospital facilities were taxed beyond capacity. Those for whom there was no room were treated in emergency stations.

VICTIMS STRICKEN

The luncheon consisted of potato salad, luncheon meats and coffee. Shortly afterward the victims, more than 20 of them women, were stricken.

Confusion fell upon the convention, then nearing adjournment, as the delegates, suddenly made ill and fearing for their lives, began appealing for help.

All available doctors, nurses and ambulances were summoned. Private cars and police wagons were pressed into service to haul the suffering to hastily set-up emergency stations.

The patients were placed two in a bed at the hospital until all beds were occupied. Many of the victims laid in the halls. Some were left on the hospital lawn, while scores were taken to a Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and to the Knights of Malta hall.

Doctors found it possible to discharge between 100 and 150 patients as out of danger, shortly after treatments were given them, but were undetermined as to the exact nature of the illnes. Laboratory tests were ordered today to decide upon the tentative diagnosis of ptomaine poisoning.

AIMEE GUARDED AGAINST SHOCK

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—(INS.)—Armed guards today patrolled a Moorish castle at Lake Elsinore, where Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist of Angelus Temple, lay critically ill with a basal skull fracture suffered in a fall when told by her husband, David Hutton, Jr., that he had lost a $5,000 judgment in a heartbalm suit to Myrtle Hazel Joan St. Pierre, Pasadena "health nurse."

Physicians had warned that the slightest shock probably would cause the noted evangelist's death.

Dr. Edward M. Williams announced her condition was "slightly improved" today, but that it was "still dangerous and the least excitement or shock could bring a sudden end."

Mrs. Hutton's flock filled Angelus Temple during the night, offering prayers for her recovery, and prayers today were continued in relays by the congregation.

Husband Jealous, Film Actress Sues

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—(INS.)—Betty Boyd, film actress, has charged in a divorce action that Charles Henry Over, Jr., wealthy owner of a motion picture investment business, was an unreasonably jealous husband who nagged her continually.

They were married October 24, 1930, and separated June 13 last, according to the complaint.

Released Gangster Object of Search

CHICAGO, July 18.—(INS.)—Arrest of James (Fur) Sammons on sight was ordered today by Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker.

The notorious gangster was released from Joliet Penitentiary Saturday on instructions from Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtleff, of Woodstock, Ill.

Hunt of Passengers On Plane in Andes

MENDOZA, Argentina, July 18.—(AP.)—Violent snowstorms in the Andes today slowed up the search for nine passengers on a trans-Andean plane which disappeared somewhere between here and Santiago, Chile, last Saturday morning.

The pilot, Charles J. Robinson, an American, was substituting for the regular pilot. Two other members of the crew, C. W. Myers, radio operator, and A. Woods, the steward, also are Americans.

GIRL BEATEN ESCORT HELD

Investigating a cry for help in Highland Park early today police in an East Liberty radio cruiser arrested Edward Dribold, 29, of Baum boulevard, when they learned that his companion, Marie Merriman, 24, of 4811 Ellsworth avenue, had been beaten, according to a police report.

The girl was taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital, where she was reported suffering from a probable skull fracture and bruises.

Dribold denied beating the young woman when arraigned before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court. He was held over for questioning by the homicide squad, and to await outcome of the girl's injuries.

Patrolmen Edward Sweeney and William Ruppert said they stopped Dribold's car because it was being driven without lights. The girl was crying, and to police questioning, she replied she had been beaten after resisting an attempted attack, the officers reported.

Husband Jailed, Gets Wife In, Too

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 18.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer, of Follansbee, W. Va., are in the Brooke County jail, and will remain there for 60 days, officials said.

She had him jailed on a charge of beating her. He retaliated with an affidavit charging her with possessing beer.

Baldwin Balks Panic In Fire on Liner

H. M. S. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, July 18.—(AP.)—(By radio.)—Stanley Baldwin, former Premier of Great Britain and president of the British delegation en route to the imperial conference at Ottawa, probably averted panic aboard ship last night when a small blaze broke out in the concert room. The passengers were gathered for a concert when smoke was seen from the stage. Mr. Baldwin, presiding, announced quietly:

"That ends the program."

The crowded room was emptied without disorder.

MONTREAL, July 18.—(AP.)—The liner Empress of Britain, on which the British and several other delegations are en route to the Ottawa Imperial Conference, was in collision with the tramp steamer Briarwood today near Red Island in the St. Lawrence River, it was reported to the head office of the Canadian Pacific Steamships.

Neither ship was badly damaged and they were able to continue toward Quebec.

Wheeling Dancer Takes Death Ride to Lake

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP.)—Helen Johnson, 24, hailed a taxi-cab for a ride to death.

She had left a home at Wheeling, W. Va., seven years ago to make her way on the stage. She had been divorced once, had left her second husband.

Her purse yesterday morning was filled with checks earned as a taxi-dancer. Wandering out from the dance, she called a cab, saying:

"Drive to the lake at Jackson."

When the driver left her he went quickly for a policeman. But she was dead when they came back. They found her body in the lake.

COUNTY BUILT PRIVATE HOME, PROBE HEARS

eral loads of stone to the home of a Harry Dipple near South Park, lime and a county whitewash machine to the home of John Fugassi in Beechwood boulevard, where he said county employes whitewashed the property; the whitewash machine to Eddie Ray's roadhouse, where four county men performed the job; and at Sullys a 500-foot private roadway was built.

County employes cemented the cellar of the Webster avenue club with county material, the witness added.

Another witness, a laborer, testified in Gaussa's home in Wetzell way, South Hills, county employes painted the kitchen and lowered the cellar, that at the home of Nick Torch in Orchard place, eBthel Township, cement steups and a cellar were laid.

CHARGES DENIED

Several witnesses, county employes, denied working with the witness on the Gaussa home.

A mechanic at the No. 5 division warehouse testified he averaged one private car a day for repairs; a painter told of painting Gaussa's car and that of his brother-in-law, one Fusca.

All this occurred in 1926, one witness said. Leo A. Riordan, county investigator, said that the place Gaussa built in Mt. Lebanon was later occupied by a county employe.

One witness said he refused to do certain tasks ordered by Gaussa, and in explanation of how he could refuse his boss, added:

"Joe Armstrong got me my job."

Grand Jury Probing 12th Ward 'Phantoms'

Issuance of tax receipts to phantom voters in the Twelfth Ward apparently was disclosed today, when only half of 100 witnesses, taken from names on tax stub books, appeared to testify before the grand jury resuming its investigations, after a three weeks' recess.

The other half, investigators believed, were fictitious names under which receipts were issued for the purpose of fraud at the September primaraies when Michael DeRosa, Jr., won a bitter fight for the Republican nomination for Alderman against former Alderman William A. Means. The Twelfth Ward is part of the East Liberty district.

All witnesses were to be asked whether they had personally paid poll tax or had authorized others to make payment, thus obtaining indirectly tax receipts which would enable them to register and vote.

Two wholesale buyers of tax receipts, according to the records in the hands of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, were A. Donafrio, stepbrother of Michael DeRosa, Sr., long Republican boss of the Twelfth Ward, and M. Rici.

One hundred additional witnesses have been summoned to testify tomorrow.

Bankers Questioned In Bowser Inquiry

Representatives of two banks were questioned in the office of District Attorney Park today by Auditor M. C. Conick in the investigation of the accounts of Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, as the county audit probe was resumed.

This procedure was adopted so the grand jury's investigation of alleged tax receipt frauds might not be interfered with.

Bowser himself was present, with his attorney, Charles Harrington, of Kittanning.

The bank representatives brought all records of Bowser's accounts, particularly those dealing with Bowser's $200,000 hauling contract for the county airport in which it was disclosed that while he was paid 60 cents a ton he sublet the work at 12½ cents a ton.

Three employes of Bowser's offices in Kittanning have been subpenaed to testify Thursday.

BROKEN MAIN FLOODS BLVD.

Workmen today were repairing a 12-inch water main which burst last night and flooded Bigelow boulevard, near Dithridge street and hampered pedestrians and vehicular traffic in the vicinity.

The break was under the steps leading from the boulevard to Dakota street. Workmen from the water department labored for nearly five hours to stop the flow of water that was flooding the streets at the rate of 800 gallons a minute.

The water was curb high in Center avenue. Sections of Melwood and Craig streets were also flooded. Some of the water seeped into the basement of the Royal York Apartments, but caused little damage.

FLYER'S ENGINE DERAILED

The St. Louis to Pittsburgh express train of the Pennsylvania Railroad was delayed for a short time last night when the engine was derailed in the Panhandle tunnel, railroad officials said.

The train had just emerged from the tunnel and was slowing up when the engine left the tracks. No one was injured. Another engine took the train into the yards.

June Seen as Dry Turning Point By Crusader

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP.)—Rufus S. Lusk, legislative officer of the Crusaders, anti-prohibitionists group, said in a statement today that "June, 1932, will go down in history as the month in which prohibition blew up."

He listed things that happened in that month, enumerating among others the announcement of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for repeal; victories by anti-prohibitionists in Florida and North Carolina congressional elections; the Republican and Democratic prohibition planks; statements by numerous prominent persons favoring either repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or resubmission of prohibition.

Act to Avert Strike Of 27,000 in N. Y.

NEW YORK, July 18.—(INS.)—Acting Gov. Lehman today took steps to prevent a strike of 27,000 workers in the garment industry.

He will seek to bring about arbitration of the dispute over wages at a meeting he called for today of the manufacturers and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union representatives.

WARNS, FREES MOTHER OF 8

Because she is the mother of eight children, one a baby which she held in her arms, Mrs. Elizabeth Haberjack, 38, of 13 Composite street, was discharged in Morals Court today, along with her husband and two boarders. All were arrested after a disturbance in their home yesterday, charged with disorderly conduct.

Magistrate T. D. Jones told Mrs. Haberjack:

"I believe your husband's story that you get drunk and cause more trouble in the home than he does. Unless you mend your ways, I will see that your children are taken from you."

Boy Found Drowned, Kidnap Theory Fails

ST. PAUL, July 18.—(AP.)—The body of Robert Seid, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seid, of St. Paul, missing since Friday, was found yesterday in White Bear Lake, near here. He had accidentally drowned in four feet of water, authorities said, thus disposing of an earlier belief that the child might have been kidnaped.

U. S.-CANADIAN CANAL, POWER PACT SIGNED

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP.)—The long-awaited treaty between the United States and Canada for the tremendous St. Lawrence seaway and power project was signed this morning.

Coincident with this action by Secretary Stimson and Minister Herridge of Canada, President Hoover heralded the accomplishment in a statement as:

"The redemption of a promise which I made to the people of the Midwest."

The agreement, which remains subject to legislative ratification in both countries, calls for splitting in half the estimated $543,000,000 cost for a 27-foot waterway from the sea to all Canadian and American points on the Great Lakes.

HOOVER CITES BENEFIT

The President said:

"Such a depth will admit practically 90 per cent of ocean shipping of the world to our lake cities of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota."

Disposal of the 1,100,000 horsepower which is expected to be realized on the American side of the international section is reserved for settlement by this country.

In that connection, Mr. Hoover recently informed his rival for the presidency in November—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York—that federal authorities would confer with those of the interested states to agree on details once the treaty is finally effected.

MISSISSIPPI LINK

As a diversion of water from Lake Michigan upon the nine-foot waterway from Chicago to the Mississippi, the President was assured by the War Department that the treaty provides sufficiently for maintenance of that waterway.

The treaty question has been hanging fire for 11 years, and officials estimate that once the agreement is in complete effect it will take probably 10 years to construct the waterway.

During that time, Mr. Hoover said:

"Normal growth of traffic in the nation will far more than compensate for any diversions from American railways and other American port facilities."

U. S. DIVORCES AGAIN DECLINE

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(INS.)—For the second successive year both marriages and divorces decreased in the United States during 1931, the Census Bureau announced today.

Marriages declined 6.1 per cent from 1920 to 1931 and 8.4 per cent from 1929 to 1930. Divorces were 4.1 per cent lower in 1931 and dropped 4.9 per cent from 1929 to 1930.

In only five years since marriage and divorce statistics were first kept in 1887 had marriages shown a decline. In 1895, 1904, 1924, 1927 and 1928 there were small decreases. Prior to 1930 divorces had increased every year since 1887, the largest gains having been 10.7 per cent in 1888 and 10.9 per cent in 1923.

During 1931 there were performed 1,060,095 marriages against 183,695 divorces. The number of marriages for each 1,000 of the population was 8.5 in 1931 and 9.2 in 1930 while the ratio of divorces was 1.49 in 1931 and 1.56 in 1930.

NADINE BUNGLE MAY COST $327,000

It will cost Allegheny County $327,000 to complete the Allegheny River boulevard owing to the blunder in failing to obtain rights of way at Nadine.

George S. Davison, executive vice president of the Pennsylvania Water Company, today told County Commissioners that the water company would grant the necessary right of way for $140,000 to cover property damages. Engineers of the Highway Department say $157,000 will be required to complete the road, including culverts, conveyors for unloading from the railroad to the water plant, a fill for the harbor line change and an additional $30,000 for shifting the railroad tracks, switches and sidings.

UP TO MANSFIELD

County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield was named a committee of one to deal with the Pennsylvania Water Company to obtain the company's permission to straighten and widen the section at Nadine. The boulevard has been completed save for that portion.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern had termed the Nadine situation "a $500,000 bungle."

Davison stated he was authorized to agree to a settlement of $140,000 for damages, for the removal of a railroad siding at Nadine, the value of two brick houses, the expense of investigation and plans and compensation for the net area of land taken.

He said this sum is $6,400 more than the original offer made to the County Department of Public Works in 1930.

Removal of the obstructions which has held up the completion of the project for two years, would be at the expense of the county. No action was taken by the commissioners.

ENGINEER ASSIGNED

The Commissioners assigned E. L. Schmidt, engineer of the Department of Highways, to the Planning Commission and adopted a resolution asking what Ole Singtod, engineer of the Holland Tubes, New York, and the Antwerp-Ste. Anne Tunnel in Belgium, would charge to investigate the feasibility of the Wabash Tube and Bridge as a traffic artery.

R. J. Kredel was named special engineer at $300 a month to survey the county office buildings in an endeavor to economize on space.

ARSON CHARGED TO CAFE MAN

Daniel M. Garvin, 69, of 236 Morrison drive, Mt. Lebanon, proprietor of Garvin's Lunch, 826 Liberty avenue, was held for court on an arson charge by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today.

City Detective Joseph Linden, of the bomb and arson squad, testified he was in the restaurant Saturday night when fire started on the second floor, and that he arrested Garvin after finding gasoline sprinkled on the floor.

Fire Chief George Spahr testified he found Garvin on the second floor with two paper cups filled with gasoline in his hands.

Garvin said he was only picking up the paper cups which he had found on the floor.

BOARD URGES FIRM CONTROL OF POWER

By M. L. RAMSAY
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Sweeping new legislation to bring electric power holding companies under Federal regulation was recommended to Congress today by the Federal Power Commission.

Revealing a great concentration of control over the country's water power, as found in a special survey, and admitting that it is helpless to enforce important parts of the law, the commission said:

"The commission from this study and its administrative experience is convinced that public control of holding companies in the power utility field is absolutely essential in the public interest.

REPORTS SOUGHT

"Such control to be adequate would include the service organizations of these holding companies, with supervision of all contracts between holding companies and their operating companies, and would include regulation of accounts with requirements providing specifically for the filing of financial and other reports on prescribed forms with full publicity.

"Adequate public regulation would also include supervision of the issue of securities to the investing public."

This program marks a clean break from the mild Federal action proposals of President Hoover, previous power commissions and the power industry. It is essentially the progressive program.

POLITICAL FACTION

Progressives, however, saw a likelihood of its use in Mr. Hoover's behalf. It can be kept in the show window through the campaign, they pointed out, while action upon it is precluded, by the adjournment of Congress, until after the election.

By relegating the holding company problem to "loopholes" in its own enforcement activity, the commission indicated the much broader powers suggested might be lodged in itself. Its jurisdiction is now limited to energy produced under Federal license and by water power alone.

Forty-eight big water power plants under federal license were reported as "subject to control by 10 top companies," with a degree of "community of interest" among these 10 groups. These groups, it was noted, "serve 12,487 communities with a population of more than 42,000,000."

Slays Man in Row Over Salt Shaker

OMAHA, July 18.—(AP.)—Paul Walton, 33, insurance salesman of Omaha, was shot and killed early today by Sam Pappas, restaurant manager, during an argument over a salt shaker.

Walton, with his wife and two friends, entered the restaurant and ordered sandwiches. As they were leaving, Mrs. Walton told police, Pappas accused Walton of stealing a salt shaker. The argument, she said, ended when Pappas shot Walton.

Robbers Captured When Auto Wrecks

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 18.—(AP.)—Three youthful robbers today held up H. E. Gohn, attendant at the Friedline gasoline station at Jennerstown, and escaped with $34 from the cash register. They were captured in Greensburg when their car was wrecked in the business section.

The youths gave their names as Raymond L. Lowery, 17; George Lowery, 18; his brother, and Thomas Moore, 17, all of Minneapolis, Minn.

Iceland Unveils Statue, U.S. Gift

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 18.—(AP.)—Half of Iceland's 30,000 inhabitants gathered here yesterday to witness the unveiling of a statue of Leif Ericsson, which was a gift of the American nation to Iceland.

The presentation was made by Frederick W. B. Coleman, the American Minister to Copenhagen. The Minister received an address of thanks delivered by Premier Asgeirson on behalf of the Icelandic nation.

Man Saves Family When Home Burns

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 18.—(AP.)—Fire believed to have originated in the kitchen of the Tony Marki home destroyed three houses belonging to the Westmoreland Coal Company yesterday.

Marki groped his way through heavy smoke to awaken his family and lead them to safety. He and two of his four children were slightly burned.

Leaders Welcome Calles, Wife Home

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—(AP.)—Former President Calles and Senora Calles, returned here early this morning and were welcomed by a group of friends, including political leaders and army officers.

Senora Calles, who underwent a serious operation in the United States, appeared to have recovered completely. Assisted by her husband and her mother, she walked from the train to their automobile which took them home immediately.

Col. McCormick's Mother Buried

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP.)—Funeral services were held yesterday for Mrs. Katharine McCormick, 79, mother of Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

The widow of Robert S. McCormick, who was ambassador to Austria, Russia and France during the Roosevelt administration, she died July 4 at Versailles, France. Her father, Joseph Medill, was editor of the Tribune from 1855 to 1899.

Patricia Pitt

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Before I talk about our few travelers, I want to mention a betrothal. The William B. Phelpses, of Newtonville, Mass., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Alice Louise Phelps, to John Knight Reeves, of Patterson Heights, Beaver Falls, son of the late John T. Reeveses.

They are planning a late summer marriage. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Smith College and did graduate work at Radcliffe. For the past two years she's been on the faculty of the Beaver Day School at Brookline.

Her fiance is a graduate of Williams College, and received his master's degree from Harvard. He is just home from two years study at Oxford, leading to the degree of bachelor of literature.

* * *

To hear that someone is going away for the summer is news indeed this year, and to name over some of the folks staying at home is news, too, for never before have there been so many members of the "400" in town during July.

Stay in Town

Some of the mothers are having a restful time, with moments for favorite books, for bridge and sports and just resting, since they have sent their small children off to their favorite camp.

Among the many young folks at camps is Albert Wells, Jr., small son of the Albert Wellses. Mrs. Wells plans to visit him early in August at his summer address, Camp Keewaydin, Lake Dunmore, Vt.

* * *

Enjoying the modern version of wild west life at Eaton's Ranch, Wyoming, are George D. Edwards Edwards and his daughter, Mary, and son, Richard. They'll return in September.

Visit Ranch

Mrs. Samuel Hamilton has gone to Center Harbor, N. H., for the summer, and the Robert Wardrops have been at Jasper Park Lodge, Jasper National Park, Alberta.

Timely Program Discussions Announced in Criterion's Latest Year Book

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

One always opens a new Criterion Club year book with something more than average expectancy. And in a decade's acquaintance with year books this writer has yet to be disappointed with Criterion's choice and arrangement of subject material.

Mrs. Virginia Yeamans and her assistants, Mrs. R. S. Dougall, Mrs. John W. Springer and the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, have compiled a season of timely and particularly interesting programs, the year beginning September 27 with the customary social meeting. The presidential campaign will be discussed in October, George Field MacDonald taking up the candidates and Mrs. William A. Challener the issues. Later in the month Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter will discuss the art of listening to music and Mrs. Alexander Black will talk of Brahms, giving musical interpretations. Elmer Kidney is to talk on Emerson, Mrs. Yeamans will have a book review, the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day will present "The Depression—Will the Outcome be Exolution or Revolution?" as his topic, and F. N. Speller "The Geographical Colossus—Canada" at the November sessions.

* * *

There will have to be a change in the December 5 program for the late Dr. Edward Rynearson, deeply mourned by Criterion, had been assigned "Dickens as an Educator," and this Mrs. Yeamans was slated to illustrate with readings. The Rev. Dr. M. B. Fuller and Mrs. George S. Baton will present the first January program, he discussing "Is the Present Democratic System of Education Feasible?" and Mrs. Baton taking "Rosenwald's Education Program" for her topic.

Program Change

On the thirty-first of January the members will go to Trinity Cathedral to hear Alfred Hamer, the organist, talk on Ch. Marie Widor, illustrating with a recital of the composer's work.

Other topics which are listed for the year are "Chief Justice Holmes," current events, the World Court, what the conference at Geneva has accomplished, the poetry, music and songs of Ireland, birds of Pennsylvania and their habits, "Our National Forests," "Dr. Albert Schweitzer," "The Negro in Art," "The New Signification of May Day" and a review of "Allison House." A social meeting closes the year in May.

* * *

And now the women's clubs are taking up Will Rogers. Quotations from the humorist-columnist will be given in response to roll call at the July meeting of the Bradford Woods Juniors, on the thirty-first. Mrs. J. Charles Runk, district chairman of fine arts in the State Federation, is the speaker for the afternoon and her subject is "Painting With Light." August's program is to be made up of the biography of a famous musician, not yet selected, and illustrations from his works. September will bring a corn roast and October a fashion show with the girls themselves modelling and neighboring junior clubs as guests.

Year is Outlined

The Thanksgiving program will take a practical form, for the members will demonstrate their thankfulness by donating groceries for the needy. There's a Christmas party in December, of course, and again donations for the needy, toys as well as groceries.

Mrs. Runk will speak for the second time in February, taking "Art in the Home" as her topic. March will be given over to a mother and daughter meeting; Mrs. John Daub will tell about European travel when she visits the club in April; five-minute book reviews will feature the meeting in May and play reviews that for June, which concludes the year.

* * *

The Margaret E. Caben Fayette Club is holding a boat excursion on Tuesday, August 2. The members of the club and their guests will leave the Wood street wharf at 10 o'clock that morning, on the Steamer Washington, and return at 6:30.

* * *

A particularly swanky year book has just been sent out by the Monday Club of Carnegie. It is bound in suede paper of a lovely green shade, has an inner binding of moire tissue leaves and is printed on an especially fine quality of paper.

Swanky Book

Its contents reveal that the club will open the season on September 26 with a business meeting, a book review being the only program feature. "Prominent Personalities" (meaning Briand, Justice Holmes, Alexander Bell and Thomas Edison) will make up the program for the first October meeting, while the second one is designated as a political day and will have Attorney J. H. Duff as speaker. The president's day, honoring Mrs. Arba Williamson, is set for November 7, and is to be marked by an address on "Worthy Use of Leisure Time," by N. L. Glasser. An afternoon of music, one devoted to India, a special Christmas program, a travel day, programs on China and Manchuria, Japan and Korea and Russia, one on the theater, another on better homes and gardens, and an antique exhibit are scheduled. The year closes with the annual outing in June.

* * *

H. B. Meller, chief of the Bureau of Smoke Regulation, Department of Health, will speak on fuel conservation over KDKA tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 o'clock, the Congress of Clubs radio period.

VELVET IS SMART FOR SUMMER WEAR

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 18.—The arrival of velvet as a mid-summer fashion was one of the surprises of the recent group of fashion collections shown by the Paris dressmakers to foreign buyers and members of the press. Light-weight velvet, woven in new textures as fine as other silk materials, was used to make dresses designed to wear even in the warmest summer months.

* * *

VELVET raincoats were shown by some houses. Velvet jackets for daytime town wear, long traveling coats of velveteen and many evening costumes were among the velvet fashions introduced during the collections.

* * *

THE NEWER velvets are of two varieties—those which are firm and stiff and those which are soft and supple and fall in deep folds. Mirande shows an evening cape, knee-length, made of the stiff velvet. It is designed to hang without many folds and with no draped effect—the resulting line is a slight flare. Molyneux shows many little jackets and shoulder capes of the softer type of velvet. Mainbocher's trained evening gown is fashioned of yards and yards of black panne velvet.

* * *

LUCIEN LELONG uses velvet in combinations with other materials. Sometimes the velvet trims silks; sometimes the arrangement is reversed. The dress in the sketch, of black crepe de chine, is trimmed with bands of black velvet, appliqued in smooth tailored lines.

* * *

AT THE BACK of the dress the velvet forms suspenders which border the deep V-shaped decolletage and terminate in a bow at the center-back. Further bands of velvet extend from the center-back downwards over the hips—with the result that when the little separate velvet jacket is donned, the effect is one of a longer jacket. The sketch at the left shows how the velvet on the hips falls in line with the jacket.

Miss M'Cracken Is Married to P. N. Grannis

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mitchell, of New Castle, have made known the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Irene McCracken, formerly of Pittsburgh, to Paul N. Grannis, of Ellwood City, which was solemnized at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 25. The ceremony took place in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Robert Little, pastor, officiating. The chancel was banked with roses, ferns and crotons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, and carried tea roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Fen-Nell Snyder, of Pittsburgh, was maid of honor, and wore flax blue and white with a white hat, and carried talisman roses. Frank C. Mitchell, brother of the bride, served as best man.

After the dinner and reception, Mr. Grannis and his bride left for New York, and are at home in Ellwood City.

Mrs. Grannis is a graduate of Beaver and Westminster colleges.

By SALLY MARTIN

Bad Breaks, Booze Wrecking Many Young Lives

He couldn't make money straight. So he started to make it crooked.

That is a tragically common story in these upside-down days of ours. Once he was a decent kid, had a good job, did the fine, right things—and Babe fell for him hard.

Then the bottom dropped out of the workday world and away went his job—

And because he couldn't get decent work to do, he went in for bootlegging. It didn't seem very wicked at first, just a sort of watchman's position. But of course he had to be a "good fellow," and that meant wild parties, so the slide down the toboggan began.

DRINKING INCREASED

Babe stuck to him as long as she could, but finally—

"I couldn't stand his fast line. It just wasn't Al," she moans, "and I couldn't stand to watch him drinking more and more every day; so finally we fought, and now my heart is breaking, for I can't forget him, no matter how hard I try. What shall I do?"

Do you know a story like that? It is a common one just now. Many a decent kid has stepped off into the muck—because he had to eat, and couldn't find three squares any other way.

"Dear Sally—

"I am in an awful fix. Please help me. I went steady with a boy for six months and I learned to love him. I have never been in love before. I was too busy having a good time. Men didn't thrill me. But I fell awfully hard for Al. He was such a fine chap.

"I am 23 and he is a few months younger. Everything was just perfect. I didn't give up all my other boy friends, however, because Al lost his job, and he couldn't take me around; so he told me to go ahead and enjoy myself.

"He looked for work, and I tried to help him in little ways, like buying him a tie, or sox, or a shirt, because he was having such a hard time, and I loved doing it, for he appreciated everything so. Then he met two boys who asked him to answer their phone. They were bootleggers. He was down and out, and they gave him a bed, his meals, his laundry and a few dollars a week. Well, he went into it—and then it started.

"He was in that apartment all day and most of the night, with 'rounders,' if you know what I mean. He had to listen to their 'fast line' and see the way they 'charmed' the ladies. Well, the change was gradual, but terrible. I saw him more often, but I couldn't listen to that new 'line.' It just wasn't Al. I couldn't watch him drink more and more either. So we fought terribly. The break was ugly.

"It has been two months since I've seen him, and, oh, I want him so! I can't get him out of my mind. I still go out and seem cheerful and full of fun, but, oh, will I ever get over this terrible ache? Can you get over love? All I think of is Al, Al!

"Don't think I'm just a fool. I'm trying darn hard to forget, but as soon as I am alone I can't keep back the tears. I wait for the phone to ring. He did call once, a month ago, but he had been drinking, and I wouldn't be nice to him, though he was sweet. I haven't heard from him since. I have too much pride to call him. He isn't in that 'business' any more. The other two were caught.

"Please, what can I do?

"BABE."

A COMMON STORY

Not a pretty story, is it, stranger?

But it's a typical story of bad breaks and booze, which are wrecking thousands of young lives. What are we going to do about it—you and I? Are we going to keep on letting things slide, kidding ourselves that everything will come out all right somehow?

Or are we going to get together, face facts and organize this world so that a decent kid can have a decent chance?

And as for you, Babe—well, so long as he is "out of the business" now, why not try phoning him or writing him a note? Maybe he has waked up. Maybe he is different now and ready to understand how fine and right you were and how far off the track he went.

But if he isn't, then put him out of your life, honey. It will be hard, I know, for I know just how your heart aches; but if you go on bravely, as you have been going, that ache will heal and you will find happiness—happiness you never could find with him if he still hangs onto his drink and his "fast line."

A Happy Home Surpasses the Best Job, Fay King's Advice to Girls

By FAY KING

As I go about I contact so many gracious lovely girls, and find myself wishing that they were all married and established in homes of their own.

I suppose many of them are married, and for some reason continue to work.

And surely those who are not married could be if they would say "yes" to one of their admirers.

If you pass the stores at closing time you see more young men lined up waiting for their girl friends than you see at the stage doors.

Loyalty to one's work takes a great hold, and women are naturally loyal. But when love comes along she should not let loyalty to work decide her against marriage.

A happy home beats the best job.

His Photograph.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been going with a boy for almost a year, but now we have parted for good, I think, but I am not sure. He has given me a beautiful picture of himself. Please tell me if I should give it back to him, or should I keep it? TRUE BLUE.

It isn't necessary, and I think it wouldn't seem particularly gracious, for you to return this photograph. Especially since you are "not sure!"

Church Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct to wear a nose-veil to church?

2. Is it correct to shake hands with the minister after church with your gloves on?

PUZZLED.

1. Yes. 2. Yes.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

A Baby's Skin Requires the Gentlest Care

An infant's skin is extremely sensitive to all irritations, both external and internal. That is why baby's first bath should never be a soap and water bath, but rather of good olive oil. Subsequently bathing should be done with warm water and a good quality soap.

Dr. Copeland

Dry the skin thoroughly with a very soft cloth, preferably of linen. A liberal powdering should follow the bath, and for this purpose use a good grade of baby powder. Cheap, highly scented talcum should not be used, for the ingredients may prove to be impure and harmful to the baby's delicate skin.

Babies frequently suffer from irritation where two surfaces of skin touch each other—between the thighs. This complaint is most common in fat babies. Lack of care in keeping the baby clean, failure to remove promptly any wet or soiled clothing, and use of coarse soaps in washing the baby or his clothes, are frequent causes of skin irritations. The baby's garments should be rinsed in several tubs of clear water before drying, to make sure all the irritating soap is removed.

To relieve irritation around the buttocks, oil may be applied. A useful mixture is one part of castor oil and two parts of olive oil. After this has been applied, the parts should be dusted with a good talcum powder, preferably one containing zinc oxide. In a few days marked improvement is usually noted.

Prickly heat is another torment of babies during the warm weather. It may appear, too, in cooler weather if thick woolen underwear is worn. The swelling of the skin shuts off secretions of the sweat glands of the affected parts.

The treatment is frequent bathing and the application of talcum powder. Your doctor may advise a laxative and plenty of water should be taken between feedings. If flannel garments irritate the affected area, a thin muslin shirt should be worn next to the skin.

Delicate, ill-nourished infants may have boils, particularly on the scalp. In that case the general health of the baby should be improved, and great care should be exercised in the baby's bathing, in its feeding and in giving it an abundance of fresh air.

Boils are caused by germs penetrating the skin. Internal treatment should be prescribed by a physician, while a solution of boric acid may be used on the diseased skin. At times an excess of sugar in the feeding formula may help to induce this condition. In breast fed children it had been traced to the mother's excessive candy eating.

During teething, especially in nervous children, various abnormal skin conditions may develop. A prudent mother will be careful to give her child only the simplest food and will see that the bowels and kidneys, as well as the skin, are acting normally.

THE DRINK THAT MAKES A PAUSE REFRESHING

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

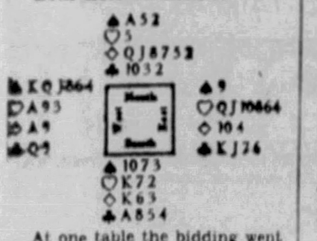
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Inhibiting Information.

While the Approach principle of bidding is now generally accepted by players of all degrees of skill, occasionally you will find, both in Rubber and Duplicate play, a player who believes that the purpose of the bidding is to inhibit rather than promote the exchange of information. This policy is usually a losing one. When the hands are dealt and the Dealer picks up his cards, he is entirely in the dark as to the location of honors not in his hand and the suit distribution at the table. His Opening bid on all hands not of commanding honor and distributional values is a tentative feeler—an effort to establish communication with his partner in order to determine the best final declaration on the hand. For this reason, on the great majority of hands, the ideal Opening bid is the suit bid of one.

Recently, in a Duplicate game at the Tower Bridge Club in New York, the following hand was dealt:

West—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



At one table the bidding went as follows:

South	West	North	East
	3 ♠ (1)	Pass	4 ♠ (2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) The only bid justified by this hand is an opening bid of one spade. The hand does not measure up to the requirements for a bid of three, which guarantees a much more solid and longer trump suit. Actually, as far as West is concerned, the best declaration on his hand may be either spades, hearts, or conceivably notrump. The bid of three is designed to prevent, not promote, the exchange of valuable information.

(2) Even here East might save the situation by bidding four hearts, but, misled by partner's bid, which has prevented the exchange of information at low levels of bidding, the Raise to four spades appears best.

Played at four spades, North chose as his Opening bid lead the singleton heart, reasoning wrongly, as the cards showed, that West was probably weak in hearts and that an immediate ruff in that suit might be the best defense. The 10 was played from Dummy, and South refused to cover. The singleton trump was then led from Dummy, and North won with the Ace and led the club 10. A low club was played from Dummy, and South refused to win with the Ace. This was a very beautiful and accurate play, and with its sequel hopes of game for West vanished. West now drew the remaining trumps, and sought to re-enter Dummy by leading his remaining club, but South won with the Ace, correctly sensing the distribution, and game was now as unattainable for West as the moon itself. South led a small diamond, which West won, but he was eventually compelled to concede, in addition to the club Ace and trump Ace already lost, 1 trick in hearts and 1 trick in diamonds.

While it is true that South's defense was very fine, no defense would have been adequate had East and West, through proper Approach methods, reached the correct final declaration, which would have been four hearts.

The correct bidding of the hand should have been:

South	West	North	East
	1 ♠	2 ◇ (1)	2 ♡ (2)
Pass	2 ♠ (3)	Pass	3 ♡ (4)
Pass	4 ♡ (5)	Pass	Pass
Pass

(1) Whether North bids two diamonds or passes makes no difference to East and West in the exchange of information leading to the correct final declaration.

(2) With a partner strong enough to open the bidding, East has a hand of great potential strength.

(3) Showing Rebid strength in the spade suit.

(4) Also disclosing the length of his suit and the inadequacy of support for spades.

(5) The correct game declaration now has been reached.

If the hand is played at hearts, as in fact it was at a majority of tables, four hearts is certain and five hearts an extremely probable result. The difference between making and losing the contract is only the difference between correct and incorrect bidding.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Would the following hand justify any response to an Opening bid of one spade?

♠ — ♡ Q J 10 9 8 4 3 ◇ 5 3 2 ♣ J 7 5

Answer: Yes. The freakish nature of the hand would warrant a two heart Takeout.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Astounds Madge By Her Confession

"Car-o-lyn Brix-ton!" Marion sputtered, patently angered and astonished by Carolyn's suggestion that she and Mary should "put on a scrap of 10 rounds, the winner to take that moth-eaten old Owen, the loser to quit crabbing about him." But I did not wait to hear any more of the colloquy, which had come to me over the open transom during my progress down the hall.

I had reached the door, and even if I had not planned to summon Mary, I should have made some pretext for going into the room and separating the combatants, for such I realized Marion and Mary were. Carolyn was simply an outspoken and impudent commenter from the sidelines.

I knocked loudly, and at the sound I heard a simultaneous gasp from two at least of the girls. Then Mary's voice called "Come in," and I opened the door and confronted them.

"Oh!" exclaimed Marion and Carolyn together, and Marion added a choking "Auntie Marge! Did you—?"

"Mary, will you please come over to my room for a few minutes?" I asked, with a casual air that I fondly hoped gave the impression of complete ignorance of what had been going on. "I'll give you plenty of time to dress for dinner; that is, if those two youngsters—" I smiled at Marion and Carolyn impartially—"will finish their primping now, so as to be out of your way when you shall come back. I want you all on time for dinner tonight," I went on. "Katie is preparing something extra for you."

GIRLS HUNGRY

"We'll be ahead of time," Carolyn said, with an expressive little moue. "I'm so ravenous now I could begin on Marion, if she weren't so cranky she'd spoil my teeth."

"You won't have to waste any time in making her digestible," I told her with a smile. "If you'll hurry and get dressed, I'll promise you that dinner will be ready almost as soon as you are. I have private advices from the kitchen."

"Just watch us hurry!" Carolyn's call followed me out of the room. "Send your astral eyes back, and you'll witness such energy on the part of two small girls as you have not seen in years and years."

"I hope she doesn't stir Marion up any more," Mary said worriedly, once we were safe inside my room with transom securely closed—I saw to that—and door locked.

"Why?" I asked slyly. "Do you think you've already accomplished all that is necessary in that direction?"

Mary's lovely eyes met mine candidly.

"Yes, I think I've given her all she ought to have for now," she said. "I suppose that's why I'm here, to give an account of all the devilment I've been perpetrating for the last few days. Poor Aunt Lillian! I'm afraid she thinks I'm very bad medicine."

TELLS ABOUT OWEN

"I'm sure she doesn't think anything of the kind," I said, devoutly trusting that the recording angel had a temporary attack of deafness. "She's simply puzzled, as I am; but I'm sure she agrees with me that you have some very good reason for what you've been doing. We may not concede that the reason is a wise one when we hear it, but we are not questioning your sincerity."

"Oh! What a perfectly damning indictment!" Mary said, laughing, but with a distinct touch of both impatience and irritation in her merriment. "'You mean well, little girl, but your judgment's rotten.'" Her mimicry of a bored, patronizing, elderly person was perfect. "But honestly, Auntie Madge, I really think I've accomplished quite a lot with old Uncle Charlie."

"You must remember," I said warningly, "that—he's a—a—"

"Downy bird, who's been kidded, also vamped, by experts," she interposed, when I hesitated. "But you sadly misjudge me if you think I've been vamping him in the sense you mean. Uncle Charlie thinks I'm the best friend he has in his scheme for winning Marion. He's counting on me."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Girls and women who travel along the beauty trail, eager to display complexions of fine texture and healthy color, should be rainy-daisies, get out when the air is moist, walk briskly to kick up a lively circulation of the blood streams. The human hide loves moist air, as it loves oil. Women who live in foggy countries have better complexions than those who live where the air is dry. So don't be a fair-weather darling, but have the umbrella at hand and skip out when the downpour starts.

Do you know that there is a special and proper way of treating the end of the orange-wood stick, the most important and necessary tool in the manicure kit? With a sharp knife, flatten both sides, giving the end of the stick the form of a chisel. Then slice away at the sides, until the chisel end is small. In that form the stick cleanses the nail eaves without injuring the delicate inner flesh. It attends to the business of lifting cuticle away from the nail better than if the end were pointed.

How to Be Fit At Any Age

Youthfulness Due to Feeling and Looking Well.

Look in your mirror—Smile. Do you have good teeth? Even the school children are taught the importance of good teeth for health.

Bad teeth disfigure any mouth and cause disease in all parts of the body. Loss of teeth is the chief cause of wrinkles and hollows in the face. The individual without good teeth also ages prematurely.

Stop in, when downtown, at Dr. Walls Clinic, Pittsburgh's Only Physician-Dentist, on 5th Ave. at Market St.

Don't fear Pain or High Prices. You'll get the Best Dental Service obtainable at less cost than elsewhere, and on easy payments if you wish.

85 MILLION PEOPLE will see this..

WHY will this advertisement appear in more than 1,800 newspapers, reaching over 85,000,000 readers?

BECAUSE we want every smoker throughout the length and the breadth of this country to know that Chesterfield cigarettes are milder . . .

The tobaccos are the mildest that money can buy. Ripened and sweetened in the sunshine . . . cured by the farmer . . . then aged for two years in wooden hogsheads.

We want to tell every smoker from coast to coast that Chesterfield cigarettes taste better . . .

Chesterfield's way of blending and cross-blending fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos brings out better flavor and aroma.

We want every man and woman smoker to know this:

Chesterfield cigarettes are pure—just as pure as science can make them—just as pure as the water you drink.

We want every one to know that you can depend on a LIGGETT & MYERS product.

Wherever you buy Chesterfields, you get them just as fresh as if you came by our factory door

Famous Blues Composition Arranged as Classic on Program Tonight

A novel idea in the arrangement of modern music is introduced to the radio audience during the Contented Hour, broadcast over an NBC network, including KDKA, tonight at 8 o'clock. The experiment consists of an attempt to make an American classic out of one of the first popular jazz compositions heard in this country—W. C. Handy's famous "St. Louis Blues." The well-known Chicago a Capella Choir, under the direction of Noble Cain, combines with Harold Stokes and his orchestra to present the fantasy, for which additional music and words have been written. Many unusual orchestral and choral effects and combinations of both are created in the arrangement to convey the varying moods of the selection.

Mr. Cain

Prof. Henry McLemore makes his debut over a Columbia network including WJAS tonight at 8 o'clock in a new three-a-week series of broadcasts during which he will expound on various subjects including pharmaceutics, blacksmithing, dynamo-thermal metamorphism, daisy chain designing and deuces wild. The series is presented by the young New York sports writer who was heard in a series of "Football Forecasts" over a Columbia chain last fall.

Phillips H. Lord's "Country Doctor" programs, heard three times weekly over an NBC network including KDKA since they were inaugurated June 20, go on a five-a-week schedule beginning tonight. The programs will be presented from Monday to Friday, inclusive, at 10 p. m.

The 15-round bout between Kid Chocolate, the junior-lightweight champion, and Jack (Kid Berg, at Madison Square Garden's new bowl at Long Island City tonight, is scheduled to be broadcast over a nation-wide NBC network including WCAE from 10 to 11 o'clock. Charles Francis Coe, ace commentator, gives the ringside account.

Program Pointers

Songs of the rockbound coast of Maine are featured during the Parade of States program on WCAE tonight at 9:30 p. m. Carolyn Andrews, soprano, and Alden Edkins, bass-baritone, are starred with an orchestra under the direction of Frank Black during the broadcast, which also includes Bruce Barton's tribute to the Pine Tree state . . . The story of a young city girl who went into the desert to fight an uphill battle against ill health is told by the Old Ranger during the Death Valley Days dramatization on KDKA at 8:30.

Miss Andrews

Big Bill Childs sings the old favorite, "I'm Afraid To Go Home in the Dark," as a highlight on the Minstrel Show on KDKA at 9 p. m.

Ben Alley, tenor, Peggy Keenan and Sandra Phillips, piano team, Barbara Maurel, contralto, and the comedy team, Reis and Dunn, are starred with Freddie Rich's orchestra in the "Surprise Package" on WJAS tonight at 10:15.

The city of Canton, O., is saluted in a mythical parade broadcast from KDKA tonight at 6:15. Music by the Westinghouse Band and an address by Frederick N. Broda, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, comprise the program.

The delightful Romberg selection, "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise," is sung by Frank Parker, tenor, with the Gypsies under the direction of Harry Horlick on WCAE tonight at 9. A concert arrangement of "Moonlight and Roses" also is included on the program.

Mary and Virginia Drane, youthful New Orleans violinists, and Theophil Wendt, widely known conductor, will be heard on WCAE tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. when the second of a series of Toscanini Fund Concerts is presented.

Fan Fare

Life is complex for a 13-year-old radio star, according to little Roslyn Silber, who for the last two years has played the role of Rosie in the Goldberg series on WCAE. The biggest complexity, Roslyn finds, is the fact that she has a real brother at home, and another as Sammy on the air . . . But, she says, when she has an argument with her brother, Alvin, at home, she always knows exactly what to say, because she's had good experience with her brother, Sammy, on the radio.

Roslyn Silber

Haven Haas, Harry of WWSW's "Behind the Kitchen Door," has been taking a vacation from his duties as announcer, but drives every evening from Meadville to play in the skit.

While returning to Manhattan by motor the other day, Ted Husing saw a blimp in the air and remarked, "I'd like to be up there." An hour later he received a telephone call to go up in the same ship to give CBS listeners an eye-witness account of the Coney Island fire.

The first day Guy Lombardo returned from his tour, he disappeared for six hours while music publishers, radio officials, friends and business associates continually tried to reach him . . . He was found racing up and down Long Island Sound in his speedboat.

Irene Beasley is thinking about taking her first trip home to the South in three years . . . Lowell Thomas is becoming more and more of a country gentleman . . . He has added 72 acres to his farm in Putnam County, N. Y., and raises, among other things, mink and other fur-bearing animals.

Hugo Mariani has a tiny Siamese cat, which receives the greatest of care . . . It reposes in his pocket while he conducts the orchestra during his broadcasts.

Indian Hitch-Hiker Fears Wife Kidnaped

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 18.—William Perkins, an Indian, 46, has enlisted the aid of police in this district in a search for his wife, Anna, 45, whom he believes to have been kidnaped yesterday in Centerville, Pa.

Perkins and his wife were hitch-hiking from Detroit to Cumberland, Md. In Centerville a motorist volunteered to take Mrs. Perkins to Brownsville, where she was to wait for her husband. She was not in Brownsville when he arrived there a short time later, Perkins told police.

Noxzema...Used for Years at Beach First-Aid Hospitals

Ends Pain—Doesn't Stain

NOXZEMA USED AT FIRST-AID HOSPITALS at Coney Island, Atlantic City, Asbury Park, Revere Beach, Miami, Chicago and other beaches

THERE'S really no need to suffer from sunburn torture. Over a million people now use Noxzema Cream to end sunburn pain. For seven years this famous medicated cream has been used almost exclusively at Beach First Aid Hospitals from Maine to Florida. It has been selected after having been tested in comparison with the best ointments available.

Here's how to use Noxzema. As soon as you realize you are burned, apply it generously—notice how wonderfully soft it is, how cooling and soothing. The first application takes all the fire and soreness out of your skin.

In severe cases of sunburn, apply Noxzema thickly and bandage. Two or three applications of Noxzema may be necessary to keep you comfortable until Nature heals up the burned skin tissues.

Noxzema Cream is greaseless—it will not stain bed sheets or clothing. You can apply it freely and go on with your work.

Don't suffer needlessly. Get a jar of Noxzema at any drug or department store.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: I see that the Harry Bannister thing was confirmed half-way, at any rate. She admits the betrothal Well, just as you thought—that lad who was given costly clothes, a home, money and a job at Lindy's restaurant by sympathetic Broadwayites, one hour after he landed here, resigned yesterday! . . . He said it was too hot to work, so how've y'been? . . . Seems to me the people needing sympathy are those who have to work in this weather . . . I hear that Phil Baker's new show looks like a hit even with him in it . . . Ray Miller's crack is amusing—he says a restaurant displays a sign on its cash register reading: "We know your check is good—it's the banks we can't trust!"

Ralph Holmes, drama defender for the Detroitimes, wants your version of the expression "torch song" — he's probably doing a piece on it after reading the Holman-Reynolds affair . . . I always thought it was coined by Tommy Lyman and that it meant a wail—a song—a ditty over a lost love. In fewer words, when one "carries the torch," one is letting the world know about it—calling attention to one's plight and so forth . . . Inquiries are coming in about your line on a soon-due fourth radio chain which will feature only transcriptions. But the thing is now indefinitely deferred because of a run-out powder on the part of the heaviest "angel" . . . Did you hear anything about Caryl Bergman, of "Show Boat" being blinded, for at least 6 weeks, because some jealous person put acid into her eyewash? . . . Sounds like a story.

Talk about what the depression has wrought—the composer of the score for "Cyrano de Bergerac," which was such a hit in France a few years ago, was imported to score some shows . . . So what happened? . . . So the poor chap got weary of going hungry, and is now a "stooge" for Jack Pepper's act . . . Obviously the real burglars don't think E. G. Robinson is so tough. They burgled his home when he wasn't looking . . . Jeff Machamer has a broken heart, again . . . You were wondering what became of Valentino's first wife, Jean Acker. Well, she'll be in the new Lenore Ulric troupe . . . Ruby Shaw has quit the stage and was married in Chicago last week . . . Bill Hollingsworth is now taking Martha Sleeper out—what's happened to Randolph Scott? . . . Tommy Lee and Helene Rosson are Like That—and Virginia Cherrill is dueting with Charles Feldman. What! No Raquel Torres? . . .

John Halliday's British accent got him the job with Gloria Swanson for her new flicker . . . I thought Glora announced that her husband would play opposite her. It was a good publicity trick while it lasted, what? . . . Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, one of your raves two seasons ago, will be in the Gordon-Dietz "Flying Colors" . . . The Roxey's new name may be The Century . . . One of the boys, who hasn't been able to click in Wall street has let his pride go hang, and is now prospering in another manner. He rented a fashionable house at Sands Point, and it has 25 rooms. His friends and their guests, who cannot afford stiff prices anymore, now make it their rendezvous over the week-end. The tariff is $5 for a lovely room. $2 for a dinner you couldn't buy for ten—and $1 for a drink this tall! . . . And the night clubs wonder what's happened to their best customers! . . . Fred Levy's pappa got weary of writing checks and made Freddy come home to Louisville, where he will have to read about Broadway instead of making Broadway news, for at least a year.

Pretty Collette Francis, the "Vanities" darling, still has a tough time with her shapely legs—because of that accident when her horse got balky . . . The Buffalo News, which runs your stuff, called . . . To check on a party-thrower, who registered under your name . . . And said he was you when confronted by sceptics . . . The cops are standing by.

Heard a new tune, very lovely, by Harold Arlen and Ted Koehler. They call it "Another Night Alone"—and it is unusual because it has no verse—starts right in with a chorus—then a brief interlude and into the refrain again . . . Wasn't that the way "Without a Song" was patterned? . . . Heard what some practical jokers did again the other night and it's a shame . . . Funny, but a mean trick . . . One of the boys spoke in falsetto and with a dialect, and phoned a cafe owner that "she" was the wife of the man sitting in the corner with a blonde—and that if the couple weren't put out at once, a brick would crash through the window in an hour . . . Well, there happened to be a blonde sitting near a corner with a guy—and the boss warned them to leave as he had a call from a mysterious and irate woman . . . And the poor things, apparently sinners in their way—left immediately! . . . The Grant Withers-Camille Lenier romance is hotter than the weather.

The Don Dilloway-Dorothy Jordon pash has cooled—Joel McCrea is the reason . . . The Walter (Helen Wilson) Lissburgers lost their baby, poor things. But they've adopted a week-old child to fill the void . . . Ray Stilley, the chorus boy from "Rosalie," who is now a detective, and is giving the speaks more gray hairs, has been joined by another chorus boy from the same show, Jack Mulder . . . Barbara Bristow, only here from Beverly Hills a little while, has found an admirer, who gave her diamond bracelets and bar-pins, already! . . . Gail Borden is planning to wed a Chicago heiress, I hear . . . Jack White, the grass widower of the movies, and Vee Allen are veddy, veddy much in love . . . The inside story why King Carol and Queen Helen first parted is that he went for one of the better blonde importations now in Hollywood . . . I found the Pancho Club recipe you misplaced. Here it is: Two slugs gin (one, if it is home made); two tablespoonfuls of pineapple ice; white rock (pour to please)—shake until creamy, drink three, and leave a call for Wednesday—Ay tank ay go hum, now.

This verdict, one of the strangest on record, is on file in the Floyd County Courthouse here.

It was given in the trial of a returned Confederate soldier 70 years ago, who was charged with stealing a pig to provide food for his family.

Hindenburg to Move, Palace Needs Repairs

BERLIN.—(INS.)—President Paul von Hindenburg, Germany's "grand old man," has to move from the "White House" in time-worn Wilhelmstrasse for six months, because his 200-year-old palace needs thorough repairing. The aged field marshal-president will temporarily change over to the German Chancelry a few buildings further down Wilhelmstrasse, where he will occupy the historic rooms once inhabited by Prince Otto von Bismarck, the Reich's first and "Iron" Chancellor.

Circus Giant Mourns For Midget Friend

LONDON.—(INS.)—A touching friendship between Yaroslow March, a 7-foot 2-inch Russian giant, and Andre Suchanoff, a midget, ended in tragedy when the midget, riding on his baby bicycle, collided with a motor van here and died of injuries. March, a professional strong man and circus performer, wept at the hospital when told that the midget had died.

Scotch Ship Gets $100,000 Business

MONTREAL.—(INS.)—More than $100,000 worth of orders have been written and sold by the Scottish trade ship which recently visited Montreal in the interest of developing trade between Scotland and Canada. More than 200,000 persons visited the exhibits aboard the ship carrying the 100 delegates who represented 87 Scottish exporting firms.

Brook Revives Holmes in Talkie

HOLLYWOOD, July 18. Thanks to another player swap, Fox will have Clive Brook to play Sherlock Holmes in the newest talkie adventure of Conan Doyle's famous sleuth.

Mr. Brook, it has been agreed, will even up the loan of Elissa Landi for the De Mille picture at Paramount. He also will remain on at Fox to take an important part in the deferred production of Noel Coward's "Cavalcade."

Clive Brook

Under present plans, the new Sherlock Holmes film will be a modern, original story by Bayard Veiller, author of many successful melodramas. It's only debt to Conan Doyle will be the use of the central character of the detective and, of course, of his faithful shadow, Dr. Watson.

SECOND TIME

The picture will be Brook's second portrayal of the role. He did one Holmes story for Paramount a few years ago.

A lot of film people will echo El Brendel's retort to a youthful admirer the other day.

"Gee, Mr. Brendel," said the kid, "I wish I had your money."

"Yes," said El, who was in that bank crash, "I wish I had it."

SING ON THE HILL

It's very human, the story they tell of young Douglas Fairbanks and his father. Both like to sing, but neither Mary Pickford nor Joan Crawford admire their voices. So the two of them drive to a hill top near Pickfair and give full vent to the suppressed desire. . . . Advance sales indicate that "Strange Interlude" will top all Hollywood premier records. Grauman's Chinese Theater was sold out a week before the opening. One reason for this is the care that M. G. M. takes to keep film people away from previews. To see the picture Hollywood has to go to the premiere . . . Saw Jean Harlow yesterday lunching at Levy's. She's getting a fine coat of tan and isn't too anxious to start another picture . . . Authors Corey Ford, Rupert Hughes and Rian James were guests of honor at the Westside Asthma and Riding Club this week. . . . The S. S. Playa, offering gambling and any-kind-of-drinks-you-want is attracting many Hollywood folk. Among those taking the six hour cruise the other evening were Arline Judge and Wesley Ruggles and Skeets Gallagher and his wife.

Jean Harlow

People in Hollywood, says Gwili Andree, are not happy. The Danish beauty who left an artists model career in New York to come out here for a try at the talkies, made this confession recently to friends. She also said she doesn't find film parties very amusing. In spite of this, she likes the stars she has met and intends to stick at her career.

BLONDIE OF FOLLIES

Marion Davies' new picture, "Blondie of the Follies," is an original story of a New York footlights queen, written by Frances Marion.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Some of the serial thrillers that were the most popular thing on the program in the early days, when crude "features" were beginning their course of development, will be remade as talkies. Talkies, but still serials. To the younger movie-fan the name of Pearl White, Ruth Stonehouse, Edith Storey are unknown, but they drew the patrons of another day. Especially Pearl White, who played the heroine of "The Perils of Pauline," one of the serials that will be filmed again as a talkie. Others will be "The Exploits of Elaine" and "The New Exploits of Elaine." Possibly "Robinson Crusoe," a serial that is only 10 years old, that gave Harry Meyers prominence in its silent version, will be made again as a speaker.

* * *

Henry Glance and James Moore, of Pittsburgh, have written a war play, "The Unknown," which will be produced in the fall for Father Cox. Joseph L. Walsh will direct it, according to Mr. Glance, one of the authors.

* * *

Geoffrey Kerr, husband of June Walker, has been engaged as a featured member of the cast of "Domino," a play in which it has been announced Rod La Rocque will play the lead . . . Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, reported previously as writing a revue, have decided to call it "Forward March" . . . "The Thirteenth Guest," which has 13 people in its cast, is to be released for the screen on August 13 . . . Warren William and Bette Davis are due in New York today to begin a personal appearance tour . . . In "Bill of Divorcement," announced as a film for Billie Burke, the star will have John Barrymore as the leading man.

Samaritans

HERE'S A TRUE STORY of Broadway that's as up to the minute as one of Winchell's last lines.

Two young ladies of Broadway, both very pretty and both very charming, had accepted an invitation from two young gentlemen of Broadway. They were to go to a roadhouse on the outskirts of New York, dine and dance to their hearts' content, drink as much as they thought they could stand—and then be escorted homeward. In other words, it was to be as harmless a party as you could possibly imagine.

And that's exactly what it was. The four of them went to the Club Calais, on Long Island, danced until they were tired, partook of some mysterious chop suey—and then were more than willing to call it a night. Shortly after 4 a. m., then, they arrived in front of the house in which both young ladies lived. May I tell you at this point that they were both brunettes? There's no particular reason for it—but may I? Thank you.

"Good night, Miss Smith," said the first Broadwayite.

"Good night, Miss Jones," said the second.

I hardly think they were quite that polite, but it sounds well. So what difference? Sufficient to relate that, as if by a given signal, both young women went into tears. And when I say tears, I don't mean sniffles. They began to cry as though their hearts were breaking.

The two wise men looked at each other with perplexed expressions.

"What's the matter with you dames?" asked the first man. "Why all the sobs?"

One of the girls looked up.

"We haven't paid our rent," she cried. "We owe the landlord a lot of money. He swore he wouldn't let us in when we got home tonight. We would have told you when we started out, but we didn't want to spoil the party.

"He'll be right at the door to keep us out. Oh, what are we going to do?"

The perplexed expressions on the faces of the Broadwayites turned into looks of the most acute wisdom. What type of saps did these girls think they were? There they sobbed—and, at the same time, tried to pull one of the oldest games that had ever been introduced by golddiggers.

Yet, in all, there was something more here than met the eye. These girls were not tramps by any matter of means. They had decent reputations and they had never been known to do anything like this before. If they had, it would have been all over town long before this.

So the first Broadwayite jumped out of the machine. He drained the remainder of the quart of brandy and threw out his chest.

"The landlord's waiting, is he?" he asserted. "Well, you just follow me, girls. We'll see if he wants to keep you out."

The four of them marched to the front door. There wasn't the slightest bit of trouble. They walked into the girls' apartment—and these sat the mother of one of the damsels. She, too, was crying as though the world was rapidly approaching an end.

"Oh, Lord," she was sobbing, "what's going to happen to us? We've never done anything wrong. Oh, Lord, send us someone who will deliver us from our troubles."

As the second Broadwayite tried to comfort the girl and her mother, the first one drew his damsel into the kitchen.

"Listen, kid," he chirped, "I like you. You know that. But I've been around a long time, and I hate to be taken. If you need groceries and food, I'll be glad to hop over to Dave's and buy you plenty of stuff. But this rent gag; what is it all about?"

The girl looked into his eyes. She bit her lip.

"It's true," she replied softly. "Do you think I'd fool you at a time like this—or at any other time? We need food, yes. But we need our rent ever so much more. After all, we can always manage to get meals somewhere. But where is our rent coming from?"

The wise man seized the girl by both arms. He looked deep into her eyes. He released her suddenly. He dug into a pocket.

"Okay, kid," he muttered, "I'll take your word for it. But do me a favor, will you? Don't tell anybody about this. I'm afraid I'd look like one of the worst chumps in the world."

Out of the pocket came $30. He regarded the cash sadly.

"Honey," he said, "this is all the cash I've got in the world at the moment. Thirty bucks—no more, no less! You take it, and add it to your rent. I only wish I could give you more. Times being what they are, however, that's the best I can do."

He handed over the $30. The girl took his arm and they both walked inside to the living room . . . .

I needn't describe the scene that had taken place in the living room because it was practically the same. This chap had listened patiently as the mother and daughter outlined their troubles. And he, in turn, had dug into his pocket.

"All right, mom," he had muttered. "And you too, Gracie. Turn off the weeps. I'm going to give you ladies every dime I have in my pockets. And here it is—$60. You take this sixty bucks and put it on your rent. If I had any more, I'd glady give it to you."

So the two girls and the mother now had $90. Deep in their hearts, the two Broadwayites felt just a trifle foolish. Among their proudest boasts was the fact that they had never been taken by anyone on Broadway.

You couldn't say that they had been taken exactly, but it all did look a trifle fishy. And when a thing looks a trifle fishy to the outside world, I want to guarantee you that it becomes an entire aquarium to the average Broadwayite.

Nevertheless, they had given their $90—and that's all there was to it. They might talk it over on the morrow and kick each other around for having been so foolish. But not right now."

"Good night, Miss Smith," said the first Broadwayite.

"Good night, Miss Jones," said the second.

As if my prearrangement, both girls—and the mother—flung themselves at the two men who had done a very good deed. They cried and they howled and they shrieked. They were more hysterical than they had been before they received the money.

It was all too much for one of the men.

"What's the matter now?" he growled. "Didn't we slip you some dough?"

The mother clenched her fists.

"That's just it," she cried. "You're cheap skates! That's what you are—cheap skates. Here you give us a measly $90 and our rent is $110!" . . . .

U. S. ATTEMPTS TO KILL ARMS ENTENTE

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

GENEVA, July 18.—American disarmament delegates went into conference with the French delegation today in an effort to smash the Anglo-French entente regarding arms and to have American aims embodied as prominently as possible in the resolution adjourning the conference until November.

Four big questions remained to be settled as Premier Edouard Herriot, of France; his war minister, Joseph Paul-Bouncour; his minister of air, Paul Painleve, and his minister of marine, Georges Leygues, sat down with Ambassador Hugh Gibson, Senator Claude A. Swanson, and Norman Davis, diplomatic advisor.

The two groups intended calling in British leaders later after making some headway toward a suitable text for the adjournment resolution. Sir John Simon, British foreign minister; Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary; and Lord Londonderry, were the Britons to sit in on this conference.

Following are the four questions remaining to be settled before any definite progress can be made:

1—Whether the existing naval truce, expiring November 1, will be extended, and if so, upon what terms.

2—The abolition of large mobile guns, a move opposed by the French until the caliber of battleship guns is decided.

3—The abolition of air-bombing, which the French will accept only on the condition that civil aviation is internationalized.

4—Substantial reduction of effectives.

CHARGE THREAT TO 'DRYS'

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N. Y., July 18. — (AP.) — Relations between the residents of this summer resort and federal prohibition agents were not improved today by the statement of an Alexandria Bay resident that he overheard a dry agent threaten to "come back and wreck the town."

As a special representative of Amos W. Woodcock, commissioner in charge of prohibition enforcement, continued his investigation into the feud between natives and the enforcement officers which has caused five injuries, G. H. Savage, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said he would send a report of the "threat" direct to Woodcock.

Robebrt Gibson, a stockbroker, claimed he overheard the dry agent's comment a few hours after a raid and mob scene in which two agents were beaten by an angry crowd. Savage said:

"Gibson was in Watertown afterward. He heard a conversation in which a dry agent said, 'We'll come back and wreck the town.'"

Mysterious Injury Of Man Investigated

Police are investigating the injuries of Charles Simon, 43, of West North avenue, who was found on Arch street, near West Montgomery avenue, last night, suffering from a cut on the head. At Allegheny General Hospital he first told police he had fallen and, later, that he had been struck by an automobile.

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

Tanker Fire Put Out After 3-Day Fight

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 18.—(AP.)—A three-day fight to extinguish flames enveloping the oil tanker Rawleigh Warner aboard which five were known to have died in a series of explosions was ended today, but the heat of its plates prevented search for four members of the crew still missing.

The tanker, loaded with gasoline, exploded and burst into flames Friday.

Finnish Minister's Abduction Foiled

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 18.—(AP.)—An attempt by Finnish Lapua men (farmer fascists) to kidnap Defense Minister Lahbensuo, an anti-Lapuan, was thwarted, it was learned today.

The minister was at his country home in Lapua parish with friends when a group of Lapua men appeared and ordered the company to hold up their hands. A fusillade answered them and the Lapua men withdrew.

Work Keeps Walker From Olympic Games

NEW YORK, July 18.—(INS.)—Mayor James J. Walker today decided he would be unable to attend the Olympic games in Los Angeles this summer, owing to the pressure of official business.

The Mayor told members of the German and Austrian Olympic delegations, whom he officially welcomed, of his disappointment at being unable to watch the contests.

White Women Who Wed Indians Sail

COLON, Panama, July 18.—(INS.)—Mrs. Cora D. Brown and Mrs. Gladys Hill, of Akron, O., who thought it would be romantic to marry Indians, are homeward bound today, convinced that life in civilization is better than romance among the savages.

The two women, rescued from an island in the San Blas region by a naval transport plane, sailed for the United States yesterday on the steamship Ancon.

COLLINS REFUSES TO QUIT P. S. C. ON DEMAND OF PINCHOT

SCHEMPP FLIES 65 MILES IN GLIDER

U. S. Distance Record Far Surpassed by Pittsburgher

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 18.—(AP.)—Pilot Martin Schempp, Pittsburgh, who took off in a motorless glider in an attempt to break the American distance of 17.6 miles, landed late yesterday nine miles south of New Milford, Pa., 65 miles away.

Schempp's record-smashing performance surpassed that of John O'Meara, of New York, who during the afternoon glided to Binghamton, N. Y., flying 55 miles.

Both men were flying in the national gliding and soaring meet on the wind-swept hills near here.

Schempp came down at Gellatt, Pa. his airplane distance was nearly twice that travelled by O'Meara, who astonished airport crowds at Binghamton by dropping down out of the sky 38 air miles from where he started.

The American record was made here last year by W. Hawley Bowlus, of California.

Dr. Frank Gross, of Akron, O., piloted by J. C. Funk, kept a two-seated glider aloft more than three hours.

O'Meara announced he believed he had broken, unofficially, the altitude record for American gliders. He maneuvered his plane to an altitude of approximately one mile, he said, more than 2,000 feet above the record.

O'Meara said his altitude claim would not be recognized because his barograph did not function. He was certain, however, he had climbed between 5,000 and 5,500 feet.

ROBBERS BIND, GAG VICTIM, TAKE $10

Pet Hospital Owner, Taxi Driver, 'Gas' Stands Held Up

Dr. L. D. Barrett, proprietor of a cat and dog hospital at 711 James street, was bound and gagged by robbers who fled after taking $10 from his cash box, according to a detective report.

Emil Mack, of 614 Sherman avenue, a taxicab driver, reported that robbers stole his cab, shirt, cap and $5 near his home.

Robbers took $25 from J. H. Wallace, night manager of a gasoline service station at East Ohio street and Troy Hill road, after kidnaping him, according to a police report.

Two men were being sought in connection with the robbery of a gasoline station at 3520 Bigelow boulevard, in which $18 was taken from the manager, Jerry McCarthy.

Burglars who user drills from the repair department rifled two safes on the second floor of the B. F. Stout Automobile Company, 4721 Baum boulevard, and escaped with about $300, detectives said.

Three youths with guns leaped from an automobile and snatched a coinholder from the belt of George Schmittle, 22, attendant at a service station at 4621 Penn avenue, early today, according to a police report. The container held $8, it was reported.

Yeggs who visited the B. F. Stout Automobile Company, 4721 Baum boulevard, forgot to bring along their tools, so they took drills from the repair department and used them to open the safe. They fled with approximately $300. The firm had a night watchman until three days ago. Mr. Mullen and Mr. Gluckson, employes, are inspecting the rifled cash box. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

LYCOMING MAN HOPES TO SOON REGAIN HEALTH

Term Continues for Year; Control of Board at Stake

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 18. — (INS.) — Emerson Collins, Public Service Commissioner whose resignation Gov. Gifford Pinchot asked because of ill health, will not voluntarily resign immediately.

In a formal reply to the Governor, Collins said he was hopeful his condition would improve shortly and enable him to resume his work on the commission. In this hope he has been encouraged by his medical advisor, he said.

Collins asserted that in view of the request, and notwithstanding the fact that his term expires in a year, he will accede and tender his resignation if his hope of recovery is not realized.

The Commissioner pointed out in his letter, however, that he has been in the service of the state 23 years and said he felt this long service entitled him to "reasonable consideration" during the period of his illness.

Battle Over P. S. C. Snarls Assembly's Session

By MARK SHIELDS
Political Editor

HARRISBURG, July 18.—The special session of the Legislature called to enact unemployment and business relief measures could adjourn Friday of this week with as much or as little accomplished as it intends to accomplish, were it not for a struggle between Gov. Pinchot and the regular organization for control of the Public Service Commission.

Pinchot has said he would veto the $23,000,000 economy program passed by the House and now before an anti-Pinchot Senate. The latter body will reduce these cuts, but the planned slice in appropriations to the executive departments will be refused by the Governor.

NO SUDDEN VETO

But Mr. Pinchot will pen no sudden veto. He will take the full 10 days for consideration given him by law, forcing the Legislature to recess for two weeks if it wants to try strength with the executive on a veto.

The Governor will delay because of his determination to oust Emerson Collins, of Williamsport, as a member of the Public Service Commission. He has demanded the resignation of Collins because of "ill health."

It has not been received. On Tuesday at the latest the Governor will prefer formal charges against Collins of inefficiency and neglect of duty. Collins must be given 10 days to answer these charges, and then the entire matter of Collins' removal must be referred to the Senate.

Should the Senate adjourn Friday, Pinchot would be unable to force action against Collins until the regular session of the Legislature next winter.

DILEMMA FOR SENATE

The episode puts the Senate up against a dilemma. It wants nothing to do with the Collins case at this time, nor do the public service corporations, which have powerful friends in the upper branch of the Legislature. On the other hand, it wants to force a curtailment of expenditures in the executive departments.

STRATEGY BOARD MEETS

A course of action will be decided today by the regular strategy board, State Chairman Edward Martin and Senators Baldwin, Scott and McClure, who may be joined by James M. Hazlett, Republican city chairman of Philadelphia.

If Pinchot within the next month can force the removal of Collins, which would be probable in a Senate hearing should he not resign, he would gain control of the Public Service Commission.

Already there are two Pinchot commissioners, George W. Woodruff and Frederick P. Gruenberg, in service. A third can be named to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration July 1 of the term of J. W. Brown, who has not, and probably will not, be reappointed. A Pinchot man in place of Collins would give the Governor four of the seven commissioners.

VOTE MACHINE AID COSTLY

One thing more the county needs is a moderate-priced voting machine repair expert, the County Commissioners agreed today as they heard letters read from leading colleges and technical institutes.

The letters were received in response to a query sent out in search of a man who could aid in getting Allegheny County's $1,000,000 worth of voting machines into shape for the November election.

Yale University has a man for $100 a day and expenses. So has the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Princeton can supply one expert at $100 and another at $150. Harvard will send the right man for $1,000, plus expenses.

Lehigh University has a man for $100 and another for $75 while Rensselear Polytechnic Institute will provide one for $50 a day.

Chairman C. C. McGovern commented:

"If those are the prices, I am going to recommend a man from Iron City College."

None of the offers was accepted. The Bureau of Elections was instructed to submit a detailed report of repairs necessary.

Pinchot Cites Waste In Assembly Outlay

Criticises Failure to Curtail Judiciary Expenditures

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 18.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, whose executive department expenditures the Legislature demands be cut 25 per cent, today in a letter pointed out that the lower House was cutting its appropriation only one-fourteenth of 1 per cent, and cutting the judicial branch of the government, "not one penny."

The letter, addressed to Joseph G. Steedle, pointed out specific instances. Steedle, head of the House Appropriations Committee, sponsored the economy bill, which cuts drastically at the executive and administrative functions of the state.

Points outlined by Pinchot were:

That only the executive branch was ordered to economize.

That the Legislature could abolish the "loot" packages, costing $49.50 each for 360, although the House roll call totals 208. Such packages contain hair brushes, knives, pencils, etc.

That members' mileage allowances, the last bill carrying $11,700, be cut. A Harrisburg reading clerk got expenses for 374 miles, and a house page living there got 732 miles, he said.

That many House employes, of the 127 on the rolls, never appear except to collect their pay.

That every last cent of House appropriations is used. An instance was of $12,000 allowed Steedle's Appropriation Committee. The amount was all spent, while a similar one allowed the Senate had only $6,111 spent. And of this, Arthur P. Townsend, who gets $5,000 a year from the State Treasury Department, received $3,225.

That the House failed to cut the judiciary appropriations, the letter charging that Judge James R. Barnett, of Juniata-Perry counties, one year received $15,450, although his salary was fixed at $9,000. Pinchot criticized the system which allowed judges $30 a day and expenses when sitting in districts outside their own.

Pinchot also urged that the Department of Revenue take over collection of mercantile and inheritance taxes, which would save $3,000,000 a year by increase in collections and economies.

HELD IN THEFT AT CHURCH

Mrs. Bella Reber, 26, 2410 Carey way, was in custody in connection with the robbery of worshipers in St. Henry's Catholic Church, Clover street and Arlington avenue. While Mrs. Amelia Reber (no relation), of 1528 Fernleaf street, knelt in prayer, the accused, from a seat behind her, took a purse containing a small sum of money, police said.

John Gilbert, sexton of the church, said he had been watching for a purse thief, following complaints, and detained Mrs. Bella Reber until the South Side police arrived. Police said she confessed taking several purses. She was held on a suspicious person charge pending a hearing in Morals Court tomorrow.

HUNT 3RD MAN IN 27c SLAYING

Police today were seeking a third Negro in the alleged 27-cent holdup and killing of Ralph P. Miller, 39, unemployed World War veteran, near his home, 6245 Hamilton avenue, Saturday night.

Mr. Miller

Two in custody, George Dillard, Auburn street, and Edward Burse, Larimer avenue, are said to have divulged the name of the third.

Miller died of a fractured skull, caused, police declared, by an iron pipe. Dillard is said to have admitted fighting with Miller, a brother of Capt. David Miller, of the State Highway Patrol.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

E. BAKERSFIELD, Cal., July 18.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Was up to Stanford, Saturday, to see the American athletes try out for the Olympic Games. Talk about different nations competing, say, they were competing here, the white race against the colored. Why, all you had to do there to win a race or a jump was just to have a dark complexioned man show up as competitor. In fact, I got to believing that I could "black up" and go in there and win something myself. Talk about the Finns running. You watch Booker T. Washington's boys.

Will Rogers

I never saw a country as happy as the U. S. was yesterday when they read Congress had adjourned. People just felt that the depression couldn't end till those birds quit appropriating and got home.

Yours, WILL.

Parrots Outlive Our Statesmen, And Here's Why

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The Republicans are going to relieve us the Hoover way.

That means you can't starve if you are a Belgian.

The money goes to the boys whose pouches are already as tightly packed as a mother kangaroo watching the neighbor's children.

The lawmakers certainly have leaped from pillar to column in their efforts to bring disorder out of choas. And we can say with Shakespeare.

"For this relief, many cranks."

Yes, sir, the corporations get richer and the retailer takes bicarb of soda.

We wouldn't have minded so much if the august Senators had clung to any one of the many good ideas offered.

But they discarded everything like a poker player drawing to a lone deuce.

It explains why parrots live so long. A parrot learns one statement and sticks to it.

Paroled Man Held Here in Slaying

Samuel Wiseberg, 33, of 1718 Colwell street, is being held by police in connection with the murder of a Madison, Wis., policeman, May 15. According to police here, a photograph of Wiseberg, paroled from the Western Penitentiary, has been identified as one of a gang that held up a Maj. Woods in Chicago May 14 and stole his auto. It was while trying to intercept the auto in Madison the following day the patrolman was killed.

19 Held in Cutting Under B.&O. Station

Nineteen men were arrested, charged with vagrancy, early today, under the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station after George Davis, a Negro, of Memphis, told police he had been stabbed in the head and chest near the station. He was removed to Allegheny General Hospital, where his condition was reported serious.

Boy, 9, Injured When Fence Falls

Josept Detentle, 9, of 2712 McCord street, was slightly injured yesterday when a section of fence fell 25 feet from the residence of Tony Nagres, 2706 Arlington avenue, into the yard where the boy was playing, according to a police report. The child was treated by a physician and taken home.

School Pension Fund Cut Bill Protested

The Allied Boards of Trade, today had forwarded a protest to Legislature against a reduction in the school employes' retirement fund. Senator H. B. Scott, of the Senate appropriations committee and Representative J. G. Steedle, of the House committee, were told in a telegram the directors urge the defeat of House Bill No. 106 unless it is amended to guarantee the later payment of any sums not paid by the state now.

SCHOOL VACATIONS? "WE'D RATHER COME BACK TO SCHOOL AND LEARN GARDENING"

1,200 Children Work School Gardens Here

Vacation time may be play time for many youngsters, but for 1,200 school children of Pittsburgh, it means plenty of work in their "school gardens." And they all seem to like it.

Seventeen of the city schools have these gardens. Formerly many varieties of flowers were grown, but since the depression, the Board of Public Education, which supervises the work, finds it best to specialize in the growing of vegetables. According to Dr. John A. Hollinger, director of natural science of the public schools:

"Fifteen hundred children of our 17 schools produced in 1931, nearly $5,000 worth of vegetables. Their products were not sold, but distributed for use in their homes. The West Liberty School alone was responsible for more than 10 per cent of the total product."

The West Liberty School garden has now 75 children working three days a week and is under the direction of Mrs. Henrietta Taylor.

Mt. Sewickley Camp Meeting Scheduled

The sixty-fourth annual session of the Mt. Sewickley Camp Meeting Association will begin at the organization grounds, near Leetsdale, Friday for a 10-day session. The Rev. Burr R. McKnight, general superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the main speaker. The Rev. J. C. Brown, of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, New Brighton, will be in charge. A program of music will be presented under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Miller, of the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church.

CAPONE IN 'PEN,' FACES NEW CHARGES

International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 18. — Al Capone, at present manufacturing pants in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, appears to be facing still more trouble.

Federal prosecutors, it was learned today, will seek prohibition conspiracy indictments against the deposed gang chief and 200 members of his syndicate. The indictments will charge the syndicate with doing a $100,000,000 business in beer and hard liquor, it was said.

Evidence for the indictments was garnered in a year's investigation by 15 special agents in eight states.

The chief lieutenants whose indictment will be asked include Johnnie Torrio, Jack Guzik, Ralph Capone, Joe Fusco and Michael R. "Bon Bon" Allegretti, according to reports.

W.C.T.U. SPURNS BOTH PARTIES

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP.)—Women's Christian Temperance Union leaders generally hold that neither Republican nor Democratic party platforms offer a solution to the liquor problem.

The W. C. T. U. officers "do not share the optimism of the Republican plank that the gains of national prohibition can be conserved with the United States part wet and part dry," said a statement from national headquarters today. They expressed no faith in platform protestations against the saloon, believing the saloon will return under any change of national liquor policy and bring with it political control by the brewers and distillers.

The position of the W. C. T. U. in the political campaign, it was announced would be determined by the membership of the organization through delegates at the annual convention in Seattle, August 12-19.

Mrs. Constans was a member of the Christ Methodist Episcopal Church and treasurer of the Louise Home for Babies. Besides her husband she leaves a daughter, Mrs. John A. Robinson, of Chicago; her mother, Mrs. Melissa M. Locke, and a sister, Mrs. Benjamin J. Horton, of Porto Rico.

STATE GIVES WEST PENN HOSPITAL $20,325 CHECK

Institutions' Officers Say Sum Only Half Amount Expended

A check for $20,325 from the State Department of Welfare has arrived at West Penn Hospital, the second for the quarter just ended to reach Pittsburgh. The money represents state aid for free hospital care of needy children. The Presbyterian Hospital received the first check. According to officials of West Penn Hospital this check represents payment for hospital treatment which actually cost $40,296.

HEAT CLAIMS 50 MORE VICTIMS

Associated Press.

Southwestern and North Central states still perspired today under a heat wave which had abandoned the East and Midwest after causing 50 additional deaths over the week-end. Drownings caused 33 of the deaths.

Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Arizona thermometers were read in three figures, while those in the Great Lakes region, Eastern Gulf states and Ohio Valley fell toward the normal 80's.

Texas had four fatal prostrations as temperatures rose to 106 at Corsicana and Beaumont, and 105 at San Antonio, Gainesville and Wichita Falls. At Ponca City, Oklahoma, the mercury soared to 104 and at Oklahoma City, 99.4. Phoenix, Ariz., recorded 108 and Kansas City, 94.

Chicago's highest reading was 79 and New York's 82.

Shanghai Heat Reaches 102 Mark

SHANGHAI, July 18.—(AP.)—Shanghai sweltered in a temperature of 102 degrees yesterday, the highest mark in five years, as a heat wave persisted. Cities in the interior reported even higher temperatures, with 104 degrees at Nanking and 106 at Hankow.

A cholera epidemic, which already has carried off thousands, is continuing.

7 Farm Buildings Destroyed by Fire

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 18.—(AP.)—Fire, believed to have originated in the attic of a brick dwelling, yesterday destroyed seven of eight buildings on the E. J. Sybrant farm, 12 miles east of here. Amage was estimated by Sybrant at $12,900.

BANDIT LOOT HUNTED

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 18.—A motley horde of "treasure hunters" today followed in the tracks of state police and Justice of the Peace L. W. Carson as they began a search near the abandoned Bentleyville Brewery for a cache of bandit loot estimated at between $400 and $700.

The money and a quantity of jewelry was taken by Robert Chisholm, 28, of Homestead, and Raymond Alberts, 18, of McKeesport, in a series of holdups here. When captured last Thursday, the pair confessed the crimes and admitted they had buried the money in a field near the brewery.

Another long, long pull--

South Negley Avenue Hill, Pittsburgh, is another grueling test for motor and gas. Yet Ab Jenkins rolled smoothly up in high at 26 miles an hour. Mr. Jenkins drove a new Pierce-Arrow 12, fueled with Amoco-Gas, and weighted down with seven people.

THAT'S hill climbing power for you! And it takes power! The kind of power you get in this great, new Pierce-Arrow...and in every gallon of Amoco-Gas. For this was a stock car and the same Amoco you get at any pump.

Amoco-Gas means more power in any car...and it costs you less per mile!

ARCTURUS SEEN NEAR ZENITH AFTER DUSK

By DR. FRANK C. JORDAN, Director of Allegheny Observatory

The bright star Arcturus may be seen now just after dark well up toward the zenith, but somewhat south and west of it. It cannot be missed, as it is the brightest star in that region of the sky, and shines with a yellow light. It is a giant sun about 20,000,000 miles in diameter, with a bulk nearly 14,000 times that of our sun, and a brightness about 100 times as great.

The star is of interest just now, because its light will be used next year to start the machinery in the Science Building of the Chicago Centennial Exhibition. The great 40-inch telescope of the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., will be trained on the star, and the light focussed on a photo-electric cell at the eyepiece of the telescope. This will create a small electric current which will be amplified, and sent by wire the 75 miles to the Science Building in Chicago, where it will again be amplified sufficiently to throw the switch which will start the machinery.

It is well known that light travels 186,000 miles per second, and hence about six trillions of miles in a year. This is called by astronomers a light year. The distances of many stars have been measured, and they are so remote that the unit light year is used instead of mile in giving their distances. For example, a star 60 trillions of miles distant is said to be 10 light years away. Arcturus has been found to be 40 light years from us. That is, the light which we see tonight left the star 40 years ago, and has been on its journey through space ever since. The light to be used next year in starting the machinery at this exposition left the start in 1893 when the Columbian exposition was in progress. It is very fitting therefore that the light from this particular star should be used.

9-ALARM FIRE RAZES PIERS

BALTIMORE, July 18.—(AP.)—In a spectacular nine-alarm fire that for a time threatened an important industrial section of the city, three piers of the Pennsylvania Railroad, valued at half a million dollars, were burned late yesterday. Merchandise worth $100,000 was destroyed.

Seven firemen and one spectator were injured during the battle with the flames that brought out almost all Baltimore's land fire-fighting equipment and its two fire boats.

Fanned by a brisk wind from the Chesapeake Bay, the fire swept from Pier No. 4 on Clinton street, to two adjacent piers while firemen were powerless to stop its advance. The orgin could not be determined.

SODA FOUNTAIN BATTLE FATAL

MADILL, Okla., July 18.—(AP.)—A peace officer was killed and three men were wounded in a revolver fight before the soda fountain of a drug store here yesterday.

Crockett Long, state operative, was shot to death in a duel with Wiley Lynn, acquitted in 1924 of murder charges in the slaying of Bill Tilghman, pioneer peace officer. Lynn and two soda fountain customers were injured dangerously.

Grady Neal, deputy sheriff, said Long and Lynn had been enemies for years, their hatred climaxing in a race for the draw when the latter entered the drug store and called out the officer's name. Lynn's first bullet felled Long, who fired as he dropped.

Rody Watkins, a farm youth, and John Milburn, were struck by stray bullets. Watkin's spine was fractured.

BAPTISTS PRAY FOR DRY LAW

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—(AP.)—Prayers for their resolutions program, which includes a declaration against repeal or modification of prohibition laws, were offered by delegates to the National Northern Baptist convention here yesterday.

The prohibition resolution adopted included an expression of hope President Hoover "may declare himself afresh" in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act and commendation for Congress members who have blocked efforts to modify the dry laws.

The Rev. C. O. Johnson of St. Louis was chosen president of the denomination Saturday.

RUNS HIS FERRY, DEFYING POLICE

BEAVER, July 18.—Capt. William E. Young, veteran riverman involved in a court fight over the operation of his ferryboat near the Montgomery Allen dam, under construction in the Ohio River, today still held his ground, having enlisted government aid in his battle against Beaver County authorities.

The battle with the Monongahela Land Company, in which a suit is now pending in Beaver County courts, followed an order to him to abandon operation of his ferryboat.

Armed with his marine license as captain, authorizing him to operate the boat, and with the opinion of the United States Attorney General that river frontage is government property, Young held off detectives and deputy sheriffs, the latter armed with a machine gun, when they attempted to arrest him last Thursday night.

Following the reports by police that Capt. Young was operating without a license, C. W. Strickler, marine clerk of the United States Customs Department, issued a statement declaring Capt. Young had violated no navigation laws, nor had he, as far as Strickler could learn, violated civil or criminal law.

The case eventually will be fought out in court. The Monongahela Land Company leased the land and moved in court to have Young, as operator of his ferry, adjudged a trespasser.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

OLD LINE RAIL BONDS LEAD RECOVERY

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP.)—The bond market closed out its second week of price recovery with price levels for corporate securities at their highest point since last June 8.

After an early setback, foreign governments recovered irregularly. The United States government group registered a number of gains although these were partly tempered on Saturday when selling appeared in the Treasury 3¼s.

Notable among the week's advances were those scored by a number of the old line first mortgage railroad bonds. Fairly strong investment demand appeared for underlying liens of the Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific companies. In addition, second grade bonds enjoyed a substantial rally.

UTILITIES ADVANCE

Ability of the utilities to move quietly ahead was made doubly conspicuous because of the offering during the week of a total of more than $70,000,000 of new public utility notes and bonds. Moreover, the market was called upon to face considerable conjecture over the Wisconsin move in preventing certain operating units in that state from paying dividends on common stocks largely held by holding companies.

OILS, PACKERS STRONG

In the industrial group, striking gains were made by oil, pipe line, packing and some of the tobacco company issues.

Heavy selling appeared at times in some foreign government bonds, predicated partially, no doubt, on the tempest that grew out of the statement that negotiators at the Lausanne agreement on reparations had entered into a gentleman's agreement regarding debt due to the United States. But this liquidation was absorbed in later trading and the list staged an irregular recovery.

Ontario's Mining Output at Record

TORONTO, July 18.—(AP.)—Ontario mines set an all-time production record for the six months ended June 30, 1932, according to figures released by the Provincial Department of Mines.

A value of $23,205,663 was placed on the output of 2,684,166 tons as compared with the 2,402,481 tons, valued at $20,402,090, in the first half of 1931.

Pirate Stars Signing 'Retirements'

CALVIN BOLSTER

STEVE SWETONIC — LARRY FRENCH

2 STAR PIRATE PITCHERS BUY ANNUITIES

Steve Swetonic and Larry French, two of the Pirates' star pitchers, have found another use for their pitching fingers. Steve's good right hand and Larry's equally good southpaw have wrapped themselves around a fountain pen and signed annuity documents which will insure them an income when their pitching days are over.

Steve, 27-year-old North Side boy, who pitched for Allegheny High School and University of Pittsburgh and tied with Walter Betts, of Boston, with 10 victories this year, said:

"I know that any pitcher's days are numbered. The span of my earning power is limited. This Equitable Retirement Annuity plan is the best saving plan I have ever been approached with and I'm starting to save right now."

Larry French, youthful California southpaw, said:

"If it's good enough for Babe Ruth, it's good enough for me. The Babe says he likes the idea of looking forward to a life-long income when the balls and strikes and home runs are but pleasant memories. And I think he's right. Everyone has to look out for the future, whether he's a ball player or a business man or what. And here's one little boy who's not going to be left out in the rain when the slow days come."

The Pirates' two boys were signed up by their friend, "Cal" Bolster, well known local basketball and football official and insurance underwriter for the Edward A. Woods Company in the Frick Building, local branch of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Cites Standards

J. S. HAMILTON

CEMENT VAULT STANDARD HIGH

For the protection of the public, a high standard of specifications for the manufacture of cement vaults for burial purposes have been set up by the National Association of Concrete Vault Manufacturers, according to J. S. Hamilton, president of the Harley Burial Vault Company, Banksville avenue, Pittsburgh. Recently returned from a national convention in Cleveland, Mr. Hamilton said:

"The qualities of strength and waterproofness were the chief concern of the Board of Specifications consisting of one undertaker, two cement products men and two vault men. By strength we mean durability under weight."

One of the Harley vaults has been sustaining more than 10 times its own weight for more than a year in a strength test at the Harley plant, Mr. Hamilton said.

Hamilton Watch Cutting Capital

LANCASTER, July 18.—A special meeting of stockholders of Hamilton Watch Company has been called for September 14 to vote on a reduction in stated capital applicable to common stock to $1,000,000 from $5,000,000 at present. If the reduction is approved the $4,000,000 difference will become capital surplus. The number of no-par common shares will not be changed, nor will equity of holders of common be altered in any way, the company states.

Coast Oil Umpire Warns Operators

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—California State Oil Umpire Pemberton in a letter to operators says that "with production exceeding curtailment allowables for 10 days, a crisis is approaching in the industry, and the price of refinable crude is in jeopardy unless all fields reduce their output immediately."

COPPER MARKET UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, July 18.—Copper was quiet and unsettled last week. Domestic sales for July-August shipment were reported at 5¼ cents, Connecticut Valley. The export situation is weak, with Japanese selling at 4¾ cents C. I. F. European ports. Consuming interest is small, demand coming in small lots. Surplus stocks of copper in the United States were reported sufficient for 18 months consumption.

Tin was irregular, showing renewed firmness after a setback.

Lead was easier and demand quiet. Occasional inquiries were restricted to carlots, but fair tonnages are expected to be covered for August. More price stability is expected now that leading sellers are on a single basis.

Zinc was dull and easier, with lower prices failing to stimulate buying. Further smelter curtailment is expected unless ore prices are adjusted.

Antimony was stagnant with interest limited to carlots.

Wholesale and Jobbing Trade Conditions

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP.)—Tabloid review of wholesale and retail business conditions and the state of crops as reported to Bradstreet's this week from the following centers, on the basis of comparisons with conditions in the same areas in the corresponding week last year:

	Whole. and Job. Trade	Retail Trade	Mfg. and Industry	Collections	Crops
Pittsburgh	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good
Chicago	Fair	Fair	Quiet	Fair	Slow

Pittsburgh—Coal trade continues dull; low-priced apparel volume fair; lumber and hardware sluggish.

Chicago—Steel industry down to lowest level in years; summer dullness features wholesale and retail trades.

Cleveland—Steel mills in seasonal slump; low real estate prices stimulate market.

STEEL OUTLOOK IMPROVING

CLEVELAND, July 18.—(AP.)—Although depending on "more hope than proof," steel producers believe they are approaching a turn for the better after experiencing the lowest level of operations in modern times during July, says Steel in its weekly trade review.

The magazine points out that consumers next month will be "more nearly stripped of supplies than at any time in recent history, that July was the lowest month of the 1921 depression, and that after Labor Day some quickening is regarded as inevitable, if for no other reason than a new harvest will be coming in and farmers will glean a new money crop."

Each week recently has seen the improved market for livestock generating power in territory tributary to Chicago, lifting hopes for fall business in wire, implements and other lines. It is not believed the railroads can handle fall crops or go into another winter without some work on the rights of way and equipment. After Labor Day, a number of automobile manufacturers will be releasing steel for new models.

Lake Head Grain Storage Reduced

FORT WILLIAM, Ontario, July 18.—(AP.)—There was a reduction of more than 1,000,000 bushels in the quantity of all grains in store at the head of the lakes during the week just past, stocks being now at 58,769,366 bushels compared with 63,568,829 a year ago and 63,076,412 in 1930.

A drop of nearly 5,000,000 bushels is shown in visible wheat in the western inspection division, which is now 109,929,349 bushels, compared with 94,773,634 a year ago.

Utah Copper Opens Big Mining Plant

SALT LAKE CITY, July 18.—(AP.)—Officials of the Utah Copper Company announced the reopening the major copper camp of the state, the Bingham mine and Garfield smelter.

About 1,500 men will return to work there after a month of idleness. Officials said duration of operations is subject to the trend in prices of metal.

Business

Westinghouse Saving Over $3,400,000 Each Month.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC and Manufacturing Company has continued to show increased operating economies, but the sharp decline in sales has kept these economies from becoming apparent in earnings.

Constructive economies to reduce indirect expense initiated by the company during the past two years have resulted in monthly savings exceeding $3,400,000. The organization's last statement declares that the full effect of this program of economy has not yet been realized. The volume of new business has been so small during the past six months that the company operated a loss not withstanding these economies.

The company showed orders received in the quarter ended June 30 at $20,343,216 as compared with $20,388,658 in the quarter ended March 31, making a total of $40,731,874 in the first half of 1932.

* * *

Sales Billed Also At Reduced Level

SALES BILLED in the second quarter were $21,014,770 compared with $20,377,948 in the first quarter, a total of $41,392,718 in the six months ended June 30.

In the three months ended June 30 the loss of $1,881,979 compared with a loss of $1,320,148 in the three months ended March 31, a total loss of $3,202,127 for the six months ended June 30.

In the second quarter of 1931 Westinghouse Electric showed a net profit of $926,604, or 33 cents a share. In the first six months of that year a loss of $1,959,341 was shown.

* * *

Current Position Remains Strong

THE BALANCE SHEET at June 30 showed the company was in a strong position as to cash and other current assets. On that date current assets were $94,024,736, and current liabilities were $5,780,668 indicating a net working capital of $88,244,068. The company has outstanding no bank loans, no notes and no bonds.

The employes retail sales campaign of May and June has an important financial bearing on Westinghouse, not only at this time, but also in the future. During these two months the employes sold household electrical appliances having a retail value approximating $3,000,000. Employes interested prospects. Dealers completed the sales, delivered the goods and received payment. Prices were not cut. Buyers were given no discounts. Employes received no commissions, but were rewarded with prizes of merchandise based on the value of goods sold.

Sales were made by dealers out of their stocks on hand, so that this business was not reflected, to any great extent, in the earnings of Westinghouse for the six months ended June 30; however, the dealers to replenish stocks, which are now at the lowest point since last fall, have begun to re-order from the factory to meet current demand.

RESERVE'S LOAN POLICY SET

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Federal Reserve System has determined upon a general policy for making direct loans under a provision of the relief act which will cause a minimum of antagonism on the part of member banks, it was stated here. This policy, it was declared, will be to find, if possible, a member bank which will be willing to make each loan for which application is made to the reserve banks and then to make the loan only if another lender is not found.

A provision of the relief act authorizes reserve banks upon approval of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington to make loans themselves in cases where an application for a loan has been refused by a bank and there are exigent circumstances. The paper offered must be eligible for discount if offered by a member bank.

American Ice Plans Chain of Laundries

NEW YORK, July 18.—Completion of the first large unit in what will ultimately be a chain of laundries operated by the American Ice Company and its subsidiaries in the larger cities of the Atlantic Seaboard, was announced yesterday by President Charles C. Small of the American Company.

The new plant is located in Long Island City. Employment will be afforded to several hundred.

Following successful operations in this plant, it is the plan of the company to start similar units in other cities of the Atlantic Seaboard.

ROAD OFFERS BUCS HOPE AGAINST CUBS

TWO-THIRDS OF THE neat gain made by the Pirates on Saturday was wiped out yesterday, when the Cubs took advantage of the Bucs' idleness to grab a doubleheader from the Giants and whittle Pittsburgh's margin of pennant leadership to two and a half games. It's proving a hard matter to pick up any ground on Roger Hornsby's pesky Bruins. They stick right at the Rovers' heels. You couldn't reasonably ask for any more than the Corsairs have accomplished in the present home stand against the East. Up to today they had won 11 out of 15 games—three out of four from Brooklyn, four out of five from New York and four out of six from Boston.

Rogers Hornsby

And yet they failed to gain an inch. They were just two and a half games behind the Cubs when the East-West series started on July 5, and they were exactly the same distance ahead of them today, because the Bruins during the same period won 10 out of 13 contests. Evidently there's no stopping the Cubs at their own park. They won 31 games there while losing only 15, a percentage of .674. The Pirates at home have won 28 and lost 18, a mark of .609. The road will be Pittsburgh's hope, if Chicago is the club to be beaten out. The Bucs promise to have an advantage there, as they have won 20 out of 35 abroad, a percentage of .571, whereas the Bruins have won only 16 out of 38 away from home, a gait of .421.

IN THE OPINION of Burleigh Grimes, big league players are inclined to overrate the batting ability of some pitchers, and have the wrong idea in crowding around their own hurler and warning him to be careful when one of these flingers comes to bat.

"From what I've heard every pitcher in the league is a good hitter," Grimes remarked, "provided that somebody on the club has seen him make at least one baseball. It makes me very ill to listen to that. I get a severe pain in the neck when some cluck pitcher comes to the plate and all the infielders gather around and caution me to be very careful with this fellow.

"EVEN IF THEY were not exaggerating the man's hitting ability, it strikes me that the psychology of the thing is all wrong. Other players on the team are forever cautioning the pitcher to be careful of this guy or that guy. What they say tends to magnify the actual ability of the batter.

"What they ought to do is to minimize it. They ought to say, 'Old boy, old boy, you're going to get out of this all right, because that fellow coming up couldn't hit a touring car with a shotgun.'"

HERE WITH HIS Braves during the Forbes Field series that ended Saturday, Judge Emil Fuchs expressed the opinion that the National League championship is waiting on a platter for some one to come along and grab it. He considers the Boston club to have as good an opportunity for the flag as any other candidate. Fuchs said that in spite of outside belief that the Pirates and Cubs have something on the Braves, he feels that his club has so good a chance that he is ready to spend $100,000 right now to bolster it. According to the Boston owner $40,000 has been offered for an outfielder and a like sum for a pitcher, both in Class AA leagues. Their clubs want Boston to wait until the end of the season, but Fuchs says he hopes to land the players very soon with some extra financial persuasion.

Kid Chocolate

IN HIS BOUT of 15 rounds with Jack (Kid) Berg in New York tonight, Kid Chocolate will be fighting to regain the rating he once held as being worthy of comparison with some of the greatest battlers of the past.

When he first came here from Cuba, Chocolate's speed, smoothness of action and general fighting qualities caused him to be called the best little Negro battler since George Dixon and Joe Gans. Then the Keed went into reverse. Berg gave him his first defeat two years ago, and later he dropped decisions to Tony Canzoneri, Battling Battalino and Fidel LaBarba.

THE EXPERTS CONCLUDED that they had overrated the Cuban, that it was only mediocre opposition that had made him look exceptional. Chocolate will be making a new start for the high places tonight, and he has got to be conceded a chance to get there.

A few setbacks do not necessarily ruin his possibilities for greatness. There still is plenty of time for him to reach the top. Gans was almost 28 when he won the world lightweight championship from Frank Erne. Chocolate is only 25.

ONE OF THE most famous boxing men of the old days was Jim Buckley. He managed Gunboat Smith, Tommy Murphy, Spike and Dave Sullivan and many more, gave Gene Tunney and Johnny Dundee their first fights, and refereed Joe Gans' last bout, which was with Jabez White in 1909. Buckley, now 70, was in Cleveland the other day and James Doyle asked him: 'You've seen them all, Jim. Who was the greatest of the heavyweights?' "Oh, that would be among John L. Sullivan, Sam Langford and Bob Fitzsimmons," Buckley replied. "John L. in his best day was such a man that Jim Corbett would have been careful not to get within a hundred miles of him. But, pound for pound, Fitzsimmons was the greatest that ever lived."

WHEN THE ITALIAN Olympic team arrived in New York, Primo Carnera called to greet his countrymen and was surprised to find in the group a gent bigger than himself. The man to top Carnera was Giulio Gaudini, champion fencer of Europe, towering 6 feet 8 inches above sea level. Primo stands 6 feet 7.

The Italian athletes are a likely looking lot and bid fair to make things interesting for all opponents in the Olympics. One in whom his mates have particular confidence is Luigi Beccali, middle-distance runner. He is tipped to make trouble for all entrants in the 1,500 metters, including Hallowell, Crowley and Cunningham in their efforts to win that event for the United States for the first time since Mel Sheppard captured it 24 years ago.

THE UNITED STATES Olympic track and field team that was determined by the final tryouts at Palo Alto last Friday and Saturday looks like a world beater on paper. The thing to be worried about now is whether it will be on its best edge at the time of the big meet.

Christopher Brinke

Too often in the past, America's Olympic runners burned themselves out in numerous earlier meets. Too much competition caused them to leave their best stuff on the preliminary tracks and they did not have enough in reserve to shine in anything longer than the sprints in the real games. Success this time depends on whether that has been avoided.

THE LONGER THEY ponder over the grade of golf that Christopher Brinke uncovered at Oakmont in winning the Pennsylvania state amateur championship, the more strongly inclined are local fans to rank the Philadelphian as a possible dark horse for future national honors. Though he had won the Kentucky state amateur championship four times, including a string of three in a row, and the Michigan state, Detroit city and Huntingdon Valley titles once each, Brinke came to Pittsburgh as a comparative unknown. The ability he showed here, however, convinced many that he has big possibilities in top-flight golf if he elects to take a shot at the national amateur title.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Wesley Ramey, of Grand Rapids, who put a crimp in Battling Gizzy's rise to popularity in Michigan rings some months ago, meets the Donora Battler again in the windup of 10 rounds at the Meyers Bowl's reopening show in North Braddock tonight.

It is not by his own choice that Gizzy is boxing the hard-to-fight, clever Ramey again. Gizzy was matched with Lew Feldman, of New York, but Feldman suffered a broken nose in training last Saturday, and, time being short, the Bowl grabbed off Ramey, a stablemate of Feldman, under the management of Pete Reilly, of New York, and it was up to Gizzy to take him or do without a bout and the pay that goes with it.

GORNICK BOXES HAYES

This Ramey fellow has been in there with a lot of good ones and has messed up not a few. He is one of those ring-smart fellows who outguesses and maneuvers around his opponents and can make most of them look bad, or worse. He's a swell fellow to stay away from if you value your prestige. All of which means that the substitution may be a break for the fans and a break of another sort for Gizzy.

Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, a great puncher, boxes Johnny Hayes, of Philadelphia, in the EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: THE SHORTEST FIGHT ON RECORD—Shortly after Battling Nelson whipped Cyclone Johnny Thompson in March, 1902, he became very self-confident. When he was matched with William Rosser for the night of April 5, 1902, he expressed a firm belief that he could win the fight in one round. As the timekeeper rang the bell, Rosser rose from his chair and, before the bell ceased ringing, Nelson shot a terrific right hand swing flush to Rosser's jaw for a knockout in two seconds! It was hours before Rosser regained consciousness. This shortest fight on record was refereed by Malachy Hogan, who officiated at the famous Martin Flaherty-Dal Hawkins fight at Carson City, Nev., March 17, 1897, which lasted only four seconds.

U. S. OLYMPIC SQUAD SET

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 18.—(AP.)—Still feeling the emotional reaction to the record-shattering as well as heart-breaking features of the final tryouts, the American Olympic track and field team, its complexion slightly changed by two removals and three additions, was complete today.

Exactly 68 athletes occupying 71 places in 23 separate events, ranging in ages from 17 to 40 and representative of every major athletic center of the nation, compose the squad.

Two Californians were added to the team and one removed. Hec Dyer, of the Los Angeles A. C., and Bob Kiesel, University of California sprinter, both defeated in the 200-meter final, were selected to run on the 400-meter relay to which Emmett Toppino, of New Orleans, and Frank Wykoff, of Southern California, already had been named. In the hop, step and jump, Sol (Happy) Furth, of the New York Athletic Club, was substituted as third entry for Levi Casey, of Los Angeles.

The Olympic committee confirmed the selection of the 1,600-meter relay team from the last four finishers in the 400-meter final.

The relay selections were Edgar Ablowich, of Southern California; Ivan Fuqua, of Indiana; Arnold Adams, of Bates, and Karl Warner, of Yale.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The beginning of another week that finds our Pirates still in first place and going strong . . . It's a long, long trail that leads to the pennant, but the fighting Buccaneers are getting closer and closer, and winning these tough ones that are a test of a team's courage . . . Almost all of the skeptics now are on the band wagon, yelling, "Come on, you Pirates!" If only we don't wake up and find it all was only a pleasant dream.

Whoever it was that designated the qualifications for the United States Olympic team "trials" knew his Webster. . . . When men like Wykoff, Venzke and Toppino cannot make the grade you know the going is a real trial. . . . Then there's Babe Didrikson, the Texas girl, who won the team championship of the women's track and field trials all by herself. . . . Quite a girl, that Babe child.

Pittsburgh comes out of the women's swimming trials with two members of the Homestead Library squad on the team, Miss Lenore Kight and Miss Anna Mae Gorman, and with Miss Mae Cutnell the better for her experience in trying to win a place as a backstroker. . . . Miss Kight's chase of Helene Madison, the super-mermaid of Seattle, in the 400 meters free style, in which she finished second in world record time, was the classic of the trials at Jones Beach.

The local chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America will stage its first annual picnic at a place appropriately called "Writer's Cramp" next Sunday afternoon.

Take it from Gus Camp, former local boxer, now managing Davy Grove, welterweight boxer, there are just as many second guessers and grandstand managers in the boxing game as there are in baseball . . . Camp recently matched Grove for three fights, with Jimmy Belmont, Paulie Walker and Tiger Joe Randall . . . His friends told him he was crazy on each occasion, but Grove upset the dope to defeat Belmont and got a draw with Walker . . . Then, when he was knocked out by Randall, of the kibitzers came around with their "I told you so's". . . . "Why, there even was one fellow who was in jail when I made the Randall fight," says Camp. "I didn't see him until a couple of days after the fight, and what do you suppose he told me? . . . 'Gus, I BEGGED you not to take that fight,' he moaned. 'I BEGGED you!'"

Back in 1906, at Athens, Greece, W. Jarvinen, of Finland, won the discus throw in the Olympic games. This year three of his sons are representing his country in the Olympics at Los Angeles . . . They are Akilles, holder of the world record for the discus throw; Matti, holder of the world record in the javelin throw, and Kelle, a got shotputter.

Now that the hubbub over the Sharkey-Schmeling fight is dying down, what does the great big Boston Strong Man do but come out with a statement that it wasn't a punch and it wasn't a butt that gave him that closed left eye in the battle . . . No, my dears, it was the old thumb . . . That's what Mr. Sharkey says, and it was his eye, and he says, Herr Schmeling's thumb Speaking of eyes, we have the old Three-Eye League going the way of all flesh, but the Mid-Atlantic League, with all of its troubles, still hangs on. . . . Back in 1920, there were more than 50 minor leagues in organized baseball This year, about 20 opened the season and not a

CLUB ON TRIAL AT BECKLEY

BECKLEY, W. Va., July 18.—(AP.)—Baseball fans in Beckley have been given five days, the balance of the Black Knights' present home series, to demonstrate whether they desire to keep Middle Atlantic baseball here.

If attendance does not improve in that period, Doff Daniel, club president, said he will make a road team of the Black Knights, first half pennant winners and leaders in the league's second half race.

Daniel referred to poor support of the team that has resulted in financial difficulties and said ordinarily no more than enough is taken in at the gate to pay expenses of the club. He expressed willingness to turn the club over to a boosters' organization if better support could be obtained under such a plan.

Chocolate Battle On WCAE Tonight

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP.)—With Charles Francis Coe at the microphone, WEAF-NBC is to broadcast a round-by-round report of the Kid Chocolate-Jack (Kid) Berg fight from New York at 9 p. m. (eastern standard time) tonight.

The Kid Chocolate-Jack (Kid) Berg fight broadcast will be heard over WCAE at 10 o'clock (daylight saving time) tonight.

GERMAN RACER WINS

ADENAU, Germany, July 18.—(AP.)—Rudolf Caracciola, of Germany, won the German automobile Grand Prix for unlimited class cars in four hours 47 minutes 22 seconds, yesterday. Novari, of Italy, was a close second and Borzacchini, of Italy, third.

KEED TO BOX SHEA

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP.)—Matchmaker Nate Lewis, of the Chicago Stadium, today expected to close a title bout between Kid Chocolate, junior-lightweight champion, and Eddie Shea, of Chicago, for August 4. Shea already has signed.

COMMY TAKES HERO'S ROLE WITH BUCS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The league-leading Pirates were greatly refreshed today as they assembled at their clubhouse to make ready for the invasion of another Eastern foeman. Burt Shotton led his Phillies into town to inaugurate a five-game series with the Buccos this afternoon, when a single contest will be staged. A doubleheader is carded for tomorrow.

There was a little note of regret in the Freebooters over the activities of the Cubs over the Sabbath day. The Bruins downed the Giants twice and therefore made a gain of a full game on the pacesetters. They are now two and one-half games below the Pittsburghers. The Braves defeated the Reds in both ends of a bargain bill, but the Pirates are not deeply concerned over the Tribe at present in comparison with the Cubs.

COMMY IN FINE STRIDE

Despite their list of injured players, the Buccos are filled with hope as regards the future. Lloyd Waner may have to remain out of action for another week or more, but there is a chance that Pie Traynor will swing into action today. When Pie injured his index finger of his throwing hand it was stated he would be back in a day or two, but he has been out for 10 days now. The bruise was more serious than was first supposed. The same may be said of Brother Lloyd. Instead of losing three or four days, Lloyd was lost indefinitely to the club when he injured a tendon in one of his legs.

The new hero of the Pirates is Adam Comorosky, who is playing like a combination Cuyler-L. Waner in centerfield. The good-natured Pole has found his batting punch and his fielding sparkles. His all-around brilliance was a big feature of the Pirate double win of Saturday. Commy came through with six hits and his fielding was great.

NEW STARTING TIME

Big Jim Elliott seems to be groomed to face the Buccos today. Manager Shotton generally save the powerful southpaw to open against the Pirates. The Buccos, on the other hand, will be out to give Big Jim the shellacking which they feel he deserves. Either Larry French or Bill Swift will twirl for the Pirates. Steve Swetonic still suffers from a stone bruise.

The new starting time for week-day games becomes effective this afternoon. The contest will begin at 3:15 o'clock. The knothole gang will enjoy another holiday as the series is begun.

CHILLYSAUCE

The Pirates have cleaned up on three Eastern rivals in a consummate manner. They have won 10 decisions in 14 battles, without considering a triumph gained in Brooklyn one week ago yesterday.

Many a Forbes Field fan is well convinced that Adam Comorosky is a ball hawk in centerfield. Adam gets the jump on the ball and covers the vast range beautifully.

Commy's unusual punch seems a little strange for the leadoff position, yet the coal miner is a speedboy and hence he lends much to the scoring machine.

Walter Maranville's attempt to sprint from first to third on a sacrifice Saturday proves his head is up always on the field. He likes to josh the fans, but there is no quicker thinker when smart plays are necessary.

The Pirates and their supporters sing the praises of Earl Grace for his smart rebuff of Maranville. Grace covered third on the sparkling double shuffle. It also would seem fitting to pin a rose on Gus Suhr, who made a perfect throw to the third bag. The shot had to be timed perfectly.

Pie Traynor stated yesterday he would like to play today. If he can throw properly he will return to the lineup. Tom Thevenow's understudy trick has been illuminating, to say the least.

Eastern League Gives Up Ghost

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP.)—One more baseball circuit has been wiped off the fast-dwindling minor league list.

The Eastern League, a class A outfit organized 16 years ago, threw up the sponge yesterday after the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers had elected to surrender the Bridgeport and Hartford franchises, respectively.

When the two parent major league clubs withdrew their support, directors of the league quickly decided they could not continue and wound up the season with yesterday's games.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 18.—(AP.)—Management of the Fort Worth baseball club has been turned over to the Texas League for the remainder of the 1932 season by the club owners, S. S. Lard and Ted W. Robinson.

U. S. BOASTS GREATEST OLYMPIC TEAM IN HISTORY

GREAT RESERVE POWER ADDS TO STRENGTH

By LAWSON ROBERTSON
Head Coach U. S. Olympic Team.

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 18.—The United States cannot do other than view with pride the team that has been assembled to go to Los Angeles and seek to thrust back the attempt of foreigners to shatter Americans supremacy in track and field.

As contestant, adviser or coach, I have been identified with Olympic squads for a quarter of a century, but never have I known a team like ours of 1932.

Four years of intensive development; four years of fine tutoring and four years of advancement in athletic prowess has brought to us finally a team that is aglitter with champions and record smashers. Unlike the past, we now have what might be called a secondary squad seemingly as great as that which actually won the championships here Saturday.

RESERVES STRONG

In years that are gone we have had squads that embraced eight or 10 dazzling satellites, but none great enough to substitute for them if an emergency arose and the great ones injured.

But today, in all events where the U. S. A. is reckoned as having a real chance for conquest, we have secondaries as great as our main dependencies. For instance, Ralph Metcalfe, because he won the 100 and 200-meters dashes in the finals Saturday, is the main arrow in our quiver, but if Metcalfe goes wrong or if the breaks go against him in one or both races, Eddie Tolan or George Simpson, beaten little more than an eyelash by Metcalfe, are capable of going on to victory.

In the 400-meters, Bill Carr is the main hope, due to his dual triumph over Ben Eastman, but Eastman could substitute brilliantly for Carr if occasion demanded. In the mile, if Pen Hallowell falters, there would be Frank Crowley or Glenn Cunningham, beaten by him only by a slight margin, to carry on.

THREE STAR HURDLERS

The 110 meters hurdles finds us with three men capable of shattering a world's record any time they run—Jack Keller, George Saling and Percy Beard.

The same thing goes in most of the field events. Here we will find stiffer alien competition than in the sprints and dashes, nevertheless, we are fortified as never before in the high jump, shot put and pole vault. As usual, however, we are not in a very good position in the races beyond 3,000 meters. This is a nation where we stress sprinting and place but little stress on track durability. It is unlikely that we will do any better in the distance races than we did before.

Our strength always has been in races up to one mile and in the field. The same is true today, in more pronounced fashion. Where once we had only a handful of great ones to spot at the enemy in the short runs, the hurdles and the jumping, throwing and vaulting affairs, the Palo Alto finals uncovered three men in each of these events capable of rising to the majestic heights of world champions.

As I have said before, the U. S. A. supremacy perhaps will come to an end or be seriously challenged by 1936, but the laurels, I am sure, will be retained for us this year at Los Angeles by the greatest track and field combination the world has known.

RUTH PRAISES VAUGHAN

By BABE RUTH
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

About this time each season I discuss the young players who are making their first bids as regulars and name the two who stand out in the two leagues as the outstanding newcomers of the year.

Last season, you may recall, the two players rated as the best youngsters of the season were Joe Vosmik, Cleveland left fielder, and Johnny Vergez, third baseman of the Giants.

Babe Ruth

Of course, my choice of the National League player is based mostly on information I gather. In our own league I have more frequent opportunity to see the various players and compare them.

I believe Harry Davis, the Detroit first baseman, is the most promising of the younger players who have come to the front in the American League this season. And from what I have been able to learn about the new crop in the National League, the honor belongs to Floyd Vaughan, shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

These two men have been outstanding performers in the unexpected success which their teams have enjoyed. As I always mention when making these choices, another month may show some other players out in front as the best newcomers of the year. But with the pennant races half completed, I believe these two hold the places of honor.

HARRIS VINDICATED

Davis was obtained a day or two before the season opened and some critics thought Bucky Harris was making a mistake in benching such a strong hitter as Dale Alexander for a player who never had performed in the majors. Davis today is far from the hitter that Alexander has been. But he is without doubt one of the finest fielders that the league has seen in years. With a little more experience I believe they will be singing his praises as one of the best defensive first basemen of all time.

Davis, like Vaughan, had practically no major league training before stepping in and making good as a regular. Often the way is made easy for a player who remains on the bench with a big league club for a time. By getting into a game now and then he gradually becomes accustomed to big league play. It is a bit different when a player is brought in from the minors and put to work as a regular. The strain is heavier.

VAUGHAN PRAISED

Vaughan, they tell me, was not seriously considered as a regular at any time before the season got under way. But once in the game he showed so much allround skill that there was no getting him out of there. He has hit above the .300 mark, has played brilliantly at short and is credited with a big part of the club's unusual success. George Gibson, manager of the Pirates, insists that Vaughan is the best first year player in the league and that estimate is good enough for me. However, others tell me the same thing.

I am not overlooking the fact that two other young players—Tony Piet and Earl Grace—have done a lot to put the Pirates where they are. I regard both as first-year men since neither figured as a regular through an entire season. But I feel that the top honors, on accomplishments to date, belong to Vaughan.

THREE LINKS EVENTS TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

With the Caddie Masters Association holding its monthly tournament at the Uniontown Country Club; the annual tournament of the Left Handers' Association at Shannopin, and the anual Inter-City match of the Bowlers' Association at the Pittsburgh Field Club, a full golf program is on tap for the district today.

At the Field Club, teams representing this city, Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo are fighting it out for the inter-city championship. It is an eight-men affair. The event was held at Detroit last season.

SOUTHPAWS PLAY

At Shannopin, the boys that swing from the portside finally get a break after being sadly neglected all these years. The event, sponsored by R. A. McDowell, of Shannopin, is going to be an annual affair.

A national lefthanders' movement got under way at Cleveland early in the spring with Babe Ruth as president. The vice president, E. G. Livesey, of Columbus, a sound golfer, is here to play in the tournament and also speak at the dinner following. Practically 100 golfers are competing.

A Kiwanis tournament is under way at the Butler Country Club.

Andy Marine, of Duquesne, won the 72-hole medal play tourney over the lengthy golf course at Buena Vista yesterday. His scores for the tournament were 81-77-74-79, for a total of 311. Joe Campano was second with a 346 score.

Syria Temple will hold its second annual golf championship over the Alcoma Country Club links August 8.

WEPPNER SETS MARK

Fred Weppner, of Stanton Heights, established a new course record at his home course yesterday when he toured the layout in 34-31—65. The old mark of 66 was held by Fred Baroni. W. F. Marsh led the field in the regular Sunday sweepstakes, finishing 6 up in the match play against par competition under seven-eighths handicap.

Playing in an all-star foursome, Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, defeated Vincent Eldred, state open champion, by a single stroke at the Summit Hotel course at Uniontown yesterday. Luther took a 73. Sam Parks Jr., pro at the course, had a 76 and Horace Brand took an 80.

At Edgewood, four tied for honors in the first division sweepstakes with net 71s. W. E. Thunhurst had 76-5—71; A. E. Eisenbeis, 79-8—71; H. E. McBride, 80-9—71 and E. B. Brandt, 80-9—71.

T. W. Martin and E. W. Patterson tied for low gross honors at South Park with cards of 77 in the 18-hole medal play sweepstakes. Warren Hartzell, H. A. Snyder, W. A. Hopkins and C. Keally tied for the first prize in the kickers' handicap with net 78s.

PHILS WIN EXHIBITION

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 18.—The Phillies, of the National League, stopped off here for an exhibition game yesterday with the local club, of the Mid-Atlantic League, and won, 4 to 2. The locals were held to four hits by Jones and Dudley and did not score until the final inning. Murdock was on the mound for Charleston.

TUNNEY DENIES OFFER

NEW YORK, July 18.—(INS.)—Gene Tunney today said he had not been offered a place on the New York State Athletic Commission and did not expect any such offer. It was reported that Tunney would succeed James A. Farley in the event political duties compelled him to relinquish the boxing post.

GREENSBURG WINS

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 18.—The Greensburg Tennis Club defeated the Washington (Pa.) netters, 6-2, here yesterday in a special one-day invitation tournament.

W. R. Hearst, Jr., To Present Pistol Team Trophy

NEW YORK, July 18.—William Randolph Hearst, Jr., will take off in his amphibian plane tomorrow for Plattsburg, N. Y., where he will present to the La Salle Military Academy pistol team the gold-bronze plaque for marksmanship donated by his father.

The presentation will take place at a battalion parade at 4:30 p. m. Mr. Hearst will be the guest of Col. George A. Herbst, commanding officer.

The team of La Salle Military Academy, of Oakdale, L. I., was made up of Francis A Consullo, Ernest F. Zaloom, Joseph A. Ryan, William A Connolly, Andre E. Mountenont and John F. Murphy. Seven other R. O. T. C. units competed.

The plaque, designed, engraved and completed in record time, becomes the permanent property of the winning team.

YOUNG STARS NET VICTORS

Those astonishing young graduates of Harvard and Pitt—Frank Broida and Irvin Goodman—yesterday added trophies of the Fox Chapel invitation turf court net tourney to their Westmoreland County dual laurels by dint of an 11-13, 2-6, 6-2, 6-0, 7-5 victory over the P. A. A. pair, Dr. Billy McEllroy and Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, 1931 premiers of Western Pennsylvania.

Broida, twice winner of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh public parks men's single crown, proved hero of the engagement, his raking ground strokes, spectacular volleying, and devastating overhead swaying the balance as he and his blond partner repeated their Greensburg title-copping feat of breezing home ahead after dropping the first two sets.

LOTT WINS TITLE

DENVER, July 18.—(AP.)—George Lott, of Chicago, won the men's single title of the Colorado open tennis tournament in a fast match here yesterday, defeating Harris Corgeshall, of Des Moines, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2. Dorothy Workman, of Los Angeles, downed Elizabeth Deike, also of Los Angeles, for the women's singles championship.

other 10-round bout. Hayes recently broke in here against Ted Yarosz at Hickey Park, but had to give away a lot of weight in that battle and wound up with the only knockout of his career, a technical affair. However, he came out of the battle with the distinction of putting Yarosz on the floor just at a time when Ted thought he had him set for the final punch. He believes he will be able to show to much better advantage against Gornick, with whom he will be better matched in the matter of weight. He has been training with Young Firpo in Philadelphia for the battle.

THOMAS MEETS VAUGHN

Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight stablemate of Gizzy, boxes Jimmy Vaughn, of Cleveland, in the eight-round second bout, and Sammy Burns, of the Hill, and Dominic Mancini, of this city, are in the opener, a featherweight affair, set for 8:45 o'clock. The Bowl anticipates a good-sized crowd following its shutdown of several weeks.

Between Rounds

Ted Yarosz again is getting 35 per cent of the gate for his bout with Lope Tenorio, the Filipino, at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night. He rates as the highest priced boxer in the district, although he has not shown drawing powers commensurate with his ring ability in recent battles.

With four straight losing shows under its belt, Greenlee Field hopes to finish on the right side of the ledger for the first time when it offers Billy Jones and Natie Brown, heavies, in a return bout Wednesday night. This pair fought a thrilling draw at Hickey Park last summer, and, if their return battle is as good as their first meeting, it will deserve the patronage of the fans in liberal numbers.

The following bouts have been arranged for the third benefit amateur boxing show at St. Peter's A. A., arena, on the North Side, tomorrow night: George Lupinacci vs. Tubby Mills, Frank Kindidick vs. W. Sliskowiski, Pat Powers vs. Elmer Wilson, Mike Picciano vs. Jimmy Lugar, Joey Chemes vs. George Martzo, Al Martzo vs. Lenny Burkenelly and Matt Oznak vs. Frankie Wingo.

Canadians Name Olympic Squad

HAMILTON, Ont., July 18.—(AP.)—Canada's team for the Olympic Games at Los Angeles will number about 120 men and women, the Canadian Olympic Committee has announced.

The men's track squad will number 21; women's, 11; fencers, 5; cyclists, 8; boxers, 7; wrestlers, 7; lacrosse players, 20; yachtmen, 7, and an undetermined number of oarsmen and swimmers.

The men's track team includes:

Sprints—Percy Williams, Vancouver; Bert Pearson, Hamilton; Harold Wright and J. R. (Buster) Brown, Edmonton.

400 meters—Alex Wilson, Montreal; Jimmy Ball, Winnipeg, and Ray Lewis, Hamilton.

800 and 1,500 meters—Phil Edwards and Eddie King, Hamilton.

5,000 meters—Robert Rankin, Preston, Ont.

10,000 meters—Cliff Bricker, Galt, Ont.

Dud Powell, Toronto sprinter, and Doral Pilling, Cardston (Alta.) javelin thrower, may be added to the squad later.

FAVORITES WIN IN JUNIOR NET PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The boys in the upper half of the day completed their first round matches and six contests in the competition for juniors were disposed of as hostilities in the annual Western Pennsylvania junior and boys' tennis championship were inaugurated on the clay courts at Carnegie Tech this morning.

Edgar Carson, of Greensburg, the first of the seeded stars to swing into action, was extended to take the measure of Gerald Barry, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, in the junior competition. Other favorites survived for later competition almost without exception.

Fifty-two up-and-coming netters are striving for the junior crown, and 24 young gentlemen who were handed a racquet at an early age are competing for the boys' championship. The summary of first round matches played today:

JUNIOR COMPETITION

Robert Madden defeated Frank Hillgardner, 6-2, 6-2.
Byron Dillon defeated Dick Sunstein, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.
James McGraw defeated Richard Jenkinson, 8-0, 6-4.
Roy Heckler defeated W. B. McKenna, 6-3, 6-2.
Edgar Carson defeated Gerald Barry, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.
John Bald defeated J. G. Hincke, 6-3, 6-3.

BOYS' COMPETITION

John Burke defeated David Bolotin, 6-3, 6-4.
Dudley Weiss defeated Ralph Morcroft, 6-3, 6-4.
William Fay defeated Robert McMorran, 6-4, 6-4.
Robert Madden defeated J. M. Shields, 6-0, 6-0.
Robert S. Henderson defeated Brainerd Schaal, 6-3, 6-2.

KAYE DON SETS SPEED RECORD

LUSS, Loch Lomond, Scotland, July 18.—(AP.)—Kaye Don, British speed boat racing king, today won back for England the world's water speed record, setting a new mark of 119.81 miles per hour, the average of two runs over the mile course on Loch Lomond in his boat, Miss England III.

The new mark tops by more than eight miles an hour the previous record held by Gar Wood, of Detroit. Wood's record, set in Florida waters, was 111.726 miles.

DETROIT, July 18.—(AP.)—Within a few hours after Gar Wood had given his newest and most powerful boat, Miss America X, its first public trial, developing a speed estimated unofficially at 100 miles an hour "under wraps," he found himself faced today with the most serious threat yet to his title of speedboat king.

He has refused consistently to estimate the maximum speed of his current Harmsworth trophy defender, with its four engines delivering 6,400 horsepower. Nor has he set any date for trying to better the new record of 119.81 miles an hour, which Kaye Don set this morning in Loch Lomond, Scotland.

SHARON, Pa., July 18.—Win Walker, of Somerset, won the 100-mile speed car race here yesterday. Walker, driving a clever race, was timed at 1 hour 47 minutes and 50 seconds. A field of 18 started.

Ollie Kley, Pitcairn, was second, half a lap behind; G. C. Berry, Akron, finished third, and L. H. Reed, Latrobe, was fourth.

READING, Pa., July 18.—(AP.)—Billy Winn, Kansas City, rode to a spectacular victory in the feature Centennial sweepstakes 20-mile auto race at Reading Fair Grounds track yesterday. He defeated Bryan Saulpaugh, of Rock Island, Ill., and a field of eight other pilots. His time was 19 minutes 49 4-5 seconds.

CLEVELAND, July 18.—(AP.)—Driving for the first time in a car he had bought only three days ago, Ira Hall, 80-year-old Terre Haute, Ind., garage owner, won the 50-mile auto race at North Randall Speedway here yesterday on a program that was without spills or mishaps.

The car, an eight-cylinder Miller, placed fourth at 101 miles an hour in the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway races.

Sport Vignettes

few have popped . . . A sign of the times?

Some time ago in these columns appeared pictures and a story about a nephew of John T. and James R. Taylor, who was carrying on the family rowing tradition as a member of the Cornell freshman crew in the Poughkeepsie regatta. . . . A copy found its way into the hands of David Adams, Lord Mayor of Newcastle-Upon-Tyne, England, candidate for Parliament and full cousin of the Taylors. . . . Mayor Adams writes to Jim Taylor, swimming coach of the Keystone A. C., as follows:

"Dear Jim—We were very glad to receive the clipping from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and to note therefrom that the swimming and rowing mantle of the Taylor family has fallen upon the younger branch of it. . . . The illustration and notes of the old Tyne champion oarsmen of 1870 (of which the father of the Taylors was a member) were quite interesting . . . You may remember that my father, John Adams, went to Canada and the States as their spare man. . . . Many a glowing tale he related of those visits when America and Canada were much less developed than today. . . . I am passing on the clipping to the Newcastle Daily Journal, and, if republished, will send you a copy."

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—The way Jimmy Foxx is going lately, he isn't satisfied with being a home run king. He wants to be a Mussolini. And they had better lock up Babe Ruth's record in the Bank of France vault, or Jimmy will be grabbing it.

This has been the slambangingest season for homers in quite a spell. With all the boys plopping circuit slaps into the stands, it's got so just watching a ball game in the center field bleachers is a hazardous occupation.

Both leagues have maced out more than 725 homers so far, and the S. P. C. A. is thinking of issuing a block of summonses for extreme cruelty to the horsehide.

With the leadership of the City League at stake, Dormont, headed by Billy Fuchs, invades Bloomfield this evening, seeking to topple the leaders, the J. L. Thomas nine, from its lofty perch. Bloomfield fans are getting the pennant bug, but they must remember that the second-half has a long way to go.

The Thomas club is trying a new plan. In years past the Bloomfielders were notorious slow starters, and would come on with a bang at the finish. The second-half of the City League race finds the Kennedy outfit getting away fast, and with its fighting spirit, will have to be watched.

The Crawfords ran their winning streak to nine straight yesterday when the Greenlee outfit defeated Camden in a doubleheader. Satchell Paige pitched his third straight shutout in the first game, 4 to 0, while Double Duty Radcliffe won the second game, 8 to 5. Gibson caught both games.

STOCKS RECEDE UNDER LIGHT PRESSURE

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP.)—The adjournment of Congress, for which Wall street had long awaited with manifest lack of patience, brought more profit-taking sales than fresh buying into the stock market today.

The brightest aspect of the securities turned downward, after some hesitancy in the morning, particularly those issues which had enjoyed fair advances last week. Selling, however, was in extremely light volume.

Among issues losing a point or more were American Tobacco B, Liggett and Myers B, Consolidated Gas, Du Pont, Public Service of N. J., Coca-Cola, Case, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Sante Fe, and American Telephone. Gotham Silk dropped 3 points. The United States Steel shares held up fairly well, and Westinghouse Electric sagged only a fraction, despite its adverse second quarter earnings report. Union Pacific was firm for a time, and McIntyre Porcupine rose to a new peak for 1932. Detroit Edison and Homestake Mining mounted about 5 points, but the latter lost much of its gain.

Some quarters were disappointed at the market's failure to respond with enthusiasm to the ending of legislative uncertainty, but brokers pointed out that the actual event had been well discounted by the fair recovery of last week, and that, with adjournment out of the way, there was little in the immediate outlook to inspire fresh buying, what with industry still in the grip of midsummer stagnation, and a number of second quarter earnings statements about to make their appearance.

The second quarter report of Westinghouse Electric appeared over the weekend, and as a sample of second quarter earnings that may be expected from a number of important industrials, it was scarcely encouraging. The company's net loss for the period was $1,881,979, or somewhat larger than the loss of $1,320,148 of the first quarter. Nevertheless, the balance showed that this company had been able to maintain a strong financial position, in common with many of the leading corporations, despite diminished business. Next week will bring the quarterly meetings and earnings statements of United States Steel and Bethlehem.

Reports of foreign buying in this market, particularly from London, have been gratifying to the more bullishly inclined in Wall street, although it has been difficult to determine any reasonably accurate estimate of the amount of this buying. At any rate, it is reported in some usually well-informed quarters that a number of European investors, who sold out their American securities some time ago, are now manifesting considerable interest in replacing their lines in this market. One group is said to have sent representatives here to carry out an investigation, including visits to a number of plants. The bullishly inclined say that a turn in the stock market should come in anticipation of improved corporate earnings, rather than await the actual improvement, if the market is to live up to its traditional reputation of forecasting business trends in advance. Since 1929, however, the market's reputation as a forecaster has been pretty thoroughly ruined.

OIL MEN SEEK OUTPUT CUT

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., July 18.—(INS.)—Oil production in the United States will be reduced to 2,000,000 barrels daily if plans being discussed at the meeting of oil men here today are carried out.

The committee on production of the American Petroleum Institute and its sub-committees met here today to thrash out production problems.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 18.—A movement will be started to further stabilize oil production in Oklahoma by endeavoring to get operators to approve plans for a reduction of 10 per cent in allowable output when the statewide proration committee of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association meets in Tulsa.

Thurman Hill, member of the Kansas Public Service Commission, conferred with operators here and reported Texas operators have assured him they will do their part to bring down production.

Hill said two major companies have assured him they would raise crude prices 25 cents a barrel. Unless production is cut Hill believes a crude price reduction will be in order around September 1.

FOES OF SALES TAX CONVERTED BY RESULTS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

JACKSON, Miss., July 18.—The most remarkable aspect of Mississippi's new experience with the sales tax has been the breakdown of the intense opposition, which was articulate before the Legislature adopted the law.

Numerous urban and country merchants, who constituted the backbone of the opposition, have been converted to advocacy of the sales tax principle, to which students of public finance in other states and in the federal government are increasingly turning their attention. All groups here now concede that the black predictions of resistance and disaster, which the adversaries had conjured up, had failed of fulfillment.

Mr. Rukeyser

ACCEPTED BY PUBLIC

R. E. Kennington, outstanding department store owner, who was the leader of the opposition, told me the consumer public had accepted the tax much better than anticipated. He was frank to say that the dramatizing of the issue by the opposition had gone far toward preparing the consumer public for the 2 per cent impost on his retail purchases.

Mr. Kennington concluded:

"The sales tax, which was adopted for two years, is here to stay. Mississippi unquestionably needs additional sources of revenue. Instead of the consumers' tax, I would have preferred a tax of ½ to 1 per cent on the gross income of all factors in business, including wholesalers and manufacturers.

"I must, however, take off my hat to Gov. Conner, who was not my candidate. I think he deserves praise especially for getting the Legislature to reduce operating expenses of the state government by one-third. I think that the opposition mass meetings, at which we demanded a showdown on retrenchment, helped to build up public opinion for the new program of balancing the budget."

WON'T AID ATTACK

Mr. Kennington, chairman of the Mississippi committee co-operating with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, indicated the Anti-Sales Tax League was now moribund, and that he refused to support a movement—since apparently dropped—to attack the sales tax law in the courts, because he thought to do so would adversely affect the state's credit.

Mr. Kennington said that, inasmuch as the chains, dealing in low-priced articles, were absorbing the tax, he thought it would tend to keep them from opening new units in the state. The merchant disclosed that most stores were now passing along the tax to consumers, and that his own store, which had been absorbing the tax since May 1 on cash transactions, would fall into line and pass on the tax to consumers beginning August 1. Gov. Conner has indicated from the first that it was intended the tax should be passed along.

Mr. Kennington added that another constructive result of the opposition was to include public utility services under the tax, and to make it impossible for the utility companies to pass along the tax to their patrons.

Rails at Present Prices Show Big Percentage Improvement

With the majority of railroad shares moving at such extremely low levels the scope of recent appreciation in that part of the list is perhaps not realized. Reduced to a percentage basis however, the showing is quite impressive. It is revealed that among the more active speculative issues such as B. & O., Pennsy, Central, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Atchison common and preferred and Southern Pacific, the open market appreciation from the late June lows to the current high levels has averaged from 25 to nearly 75 per cent with the extreme advance recorded in Baltimore and Ohio.

Past experience since the advent of the bear market naturally leaves Wall street at large a bit skeptical as time for publication of second quarter corporation statements draws near. The market's reaction to such news since early 1930 has invariably been in the nature of sharp decline. But there are some in the speculative community who are not inclined to be apprehensive of the effect of forthcoming statements or such remaining dividend adjustments as may be made. Rather the feeling in such quarters is that recent developments of more far-reaching scope, such as the Lausanne reparations agreement and the Franco-British accord hold more than enough constructive significance to serve as an offset.

Armour and Company is again on a profitable operating basis after a year and a half of deficits. Along with others in the packing field as a result of considerably-appreciated inventory values and greater price stability, it appears in a position to earn a fair profit through September at least. Combination of money-making operations and an outstanding cash reserve easily assures interest and amortization requirements on its funded debt. Interest requirements for 1932 are estimated at between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 compared to $7,484,228 in 1931 and $9,331,119 in 1930.

The most competent analyses of finance and industry lean to the view that the United States will be compelled to concentrate its readjustments within its own borders, if nearby prosperity is to be experienced. This means a scaling downward of corporate capitalizations and productive capacity, along with the essential readjustment in labor's working hours, etc. The process of capital and productive curtailment has been under way for years. The market has deflated the corporate capital of the country, even if balance sheets have not yet become adjusted to this actuality. Balance sheets as of December 31, next, will probably more accurately reflect this condition. In the meantime, the stock market is enjoying a respite from pressing liquidation and speculators seek to catch the turn. In bonds the buying is of a longer-term nature.

There has been considerable buying of American securities of all kinds by Europe during the last month, and cables from London indicate that England has been an especially heavy buyer. Many Europeans took advantage of our markets in 1929 and 1930 and sold heavily and some of these have been buying their favorite stocks and bonds. Several London exchange firms have been advising their clients for some time past to buy American securities. England has been in a steadily-growing optimistic frame of mind and many in Throckmorton street regard the American attitude on its own securities as far overdone in view of the present and future.

Enactment of legislation to put utility holding companies under government control is strongly urged in a report by the Federal Power Commission which is to be sent to Congress. The commission states that such control, to be adequate, would include in its scope the service organizations of holding companies with supervision of all contracts between them and their operating companies and regulation of accounts with requirements providing specifically for filing of financial and other reports on prescribed forms with full publicity and supervision of security issues.

COTTON SAGS ON REALIZING

NEW YORK, July 18.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 3 higher on reports of high temperatures in Texas and on absence of rain over Sunday aside from scattered thundershowers in portions of the eastern belt.

Opening demand was attributed to trade buying and covering, but it was readily supplied and the market sagged under realizing or liquidation and scattered selling. By the end of the first half hour, active months were about 8 to 9 points net lower with December selling around 5.79.

No special trading feature presented itself later in the morning and after the early decling from 5.89 to 5.79 for October contracts prices fluctuated within a narrow range. The market at midday was quiet and steady at 5.83 for October, the general list ruling about 3 to 5 points net lower.

Sicilian Sulphur Trust Ordered Dissolved

ROME, July 18.—(AP.)—The government ordered the dissolution of the Sicilian Sulphur Consortium into its component companies today because of financial difficulties and accumulation of 200,000 tons of products.

Underselling by the Montecatini sulphur deposits, which were discovered after the Italo-American cartel of 1923, also was a factor in the dissolution. The 1923 cartel divided world distribution between Italy and America, with Italy keeping 30 per cent and the United States 70 per cent.

Forbes

Widespread Optimism Has Developed Suddenly.

—By B. C. FORBES—

OUT OF THE NOWHERE has suddenly developed widespread optimism.

Visitors from different parts of the country, letters from many states, contacts with various classes in financial and social New York — all reveal a sudden ebullition of revived faith that better days are dawning.

Mr. Forbes

What is the explanation of this somersault in sentiment?

CHIEF CREDIT perhaps should go to hogs—the four-footed species. Their market value has increased scores of millions of dollars. Corn, favorite hog food, has likewise recovered substantially. Butter and eggs, other important farm products, have also advanced. So have hides. Beef, too, has become firmer. Wheat has had reverses price wise. Cotton is appreciably above last month's low quotations.

This doubtless has had something to do with the more cheerful sentiment in many agricultural regions.

Rising confidence throughout the banking and financial world is not hard to understand.

Regardless of the significance of "gentlemen's agreements," financiers interpret events at Lausanne and other recent European developments as making distinct progress towards the restoration of stability. Europe's trumped-up scare over the soundness of the American dollar has, as was inevitable, vanished, and instead of heavy withdrawals of gold from America, our stock actually gained $17,000,000 at the week-end. Moreover, European exchanges, notably the French franc, are moving in our favor, with the possibility that gold may shortly start re-crossing the Atlantic.

Not only so, but European investors have been quietly absorbing American bonds and stocks, as recently noted in this column.

AT HOME, too, monetary developments have been reassuring. Hoarding has dwindled, nervousness over the safety of banks has subsided, the Reserve Banks have resumed furnishing facilities for expanding bank credit, the responsibily-sponsored movement to increase the use of trade acceptances, is making practical headway.

Underwriters, sensing the cheerier attitude, last week offered substantial bond issues for the first time in many moons. The response is described as encouraging.

THEN, TOO, relief was generated over events in Congress, and the increasingly definite signs that adjournment was near. The truth is that, although Congress has talked wildly and alarmingly, it has acted more soberly and sensibly than was feared. On the whole, Washington has contributed invaluably to furnishing facilities to meet acute emergencies.

Trade and industry still lag.

WHAT EFFECT has the sudden lifting of sentiment had upon securities? Both domestic and foreign bonds have substantially gained in strength. Stocks, long wobbly, have lately been in moderate demand, and the influence on prices has been quite pronounced in many instances. Most stocks have been selling at such low figures that the gain, although not at all sensational when measured by the number of points, nevertheless has represented a big percentage, as the following illustrations given in round figures reveal.

AFTER SO MANY false starts during the last 30 months, people are chary about drawing dogmatic deductions from rallies. Happily, either now or later recovery will not be undone by relapse.

IRISH BOYCOTT BRITISH GOODS

DUBLIN, July 18.—(INS.)—The retaliatory tariff war between the Irish Free State and England took two steps forward today when the cabinet meeting with President De Valera determined upon a list of reprisal duties the government believes will do most harm to Britain, and the people of Dublin put into effect a boycott of British goods.

While the boycott is not sponsored by the government, it is understood that no action will be taken to stop the movement, expected to spread to all sections of the country.

While these economic moves were in progress, the only legislative act necessary for a formal declaration of a tariff war was the passage of the Irish reprisal bill by the Senate. While the supporters of De Valera are in the minority in the Senate, it was expected the measure would be passed, it having been made a money measure by the government.

'CHUTE STUNT PERILS WOMAN

AKRON, O., July 18.—(AP.)—Tangled in the cords of her parachute, Mrs. Babe Smith, an aviation exhibitionist, plunged headdownward 2,200 feet from an airplane here yesterday, but extricated herself when only 300 feet from the ground, and landed safely.

More than 3,500 spectators watching the exhibition of parachute jumping at Akron airport were horrified with the appearance of impending tragedy.

Just when it seemed as if death was certain, the big parachute opened and Mrs. Smith landed in the dense automobile traffic of Triplett boulevard.

Astonished auto drivers hurriedly applied their brakes and traffic was snarled until the woman and her parachute were removed to safety.

MAN ADMITS ARSON PLOT

Vincent Prato, alias Preti, 34, of Rankin, pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today to charges of arson, felonious assault and battery and conspiracy to defraud an insurance company of $19,000.

Prato, arrested two weeks ago in New Orleans as the leader of a Rankin arson gang, admitted firing his home at 311 West Braddock avenue, Rankin, and a building at 2112 Collingwood street, Swissvale. In the first fire an explosion injured two.

Six co-defendants on some of the charges have not yet been arraigned.

Political Leader Sought by Sheriff

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—(AP.)—Deputy sheriffs today were looking for Arthur Sellers, deputy coroner and Republican congressional nominee from the Fourth District. They wanted to serve a bench warrant.

The warrant was issued in Orphans Court last week after Sellers had failed to produce the assets of a $50,000 trust fund, as directed by the court. His administration of estates has been under fire since Congressman Benjamin M. Golder, whom he defeated at the last primary, made charges of this nature against him.

Manager Kidnaped, Night Club Robbed

CLEVELAND, July 18.—(INS.)—Lotus Gardens, popular dining and dancing resort in downtown Cleveland, was robbed of $3,900 in cash here today by three armed bandits who kidnaped Charles W. Tend, the manager, at his home and forced him to return to the night club and open two safes.

Tend was bound hand and foot by the robbers before they made their escape. He managed to free himself an hour later and notified police.

Loans to Rumanian Government Blocked

VIENNA, July 18.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Bucharest say the French expert of the Rumanian National Bank has issued orders prohibiting further credits to the government.

At the same time, the dispatch added, the government was asked to repay loans outstanding. It was recalled that the French expert brought the fall of the Jorga cabinet in May with criticisms of Rumania's financial policy.

50 Crusaders Held In Bethlehem Jail

BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 18.—(AP.)—Fifty of about 69 religious crusaders, who carried banners reading "We Believe Only in the 'Kingdom of God,'" today were in jail here in default of payment of fines of $2.50 each.

They were accused by police of campaigning too vigorously for new recruits. They refused to pay the costs of the prosecution when arrested.

Doomed Man Given Reprieve in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18.—(AP.)—Howard C. Bonham, sentenced to die for slaying Paul Tulapan, a restaurant owner, has been granted a reprieve by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Bonham was scheduled to die in the electric chair, August 15. He constantly has declared his innocence of the killing.

Quake Rocks Manila, Many Reported Hurt

MANILA, July 18.—(AP.)—A severe earthquake alarmed Manila and caused injuries and damage in nearby provinces at 1:03 p. m. today.

Three persons were injured as village houses were toppled over in nearby Batan Province. No damage was reported in Manila.

SEATTLE, July 18.—(AP.)—An earthquake was felt here shortly after 10 p. m. last night, lasting several seconds. Furniture shook and light fixtures swayed. No damage was reported.

Lynn Takes a Single Room When Her Friend Finds Better Quarters

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Sarah said, after a moment, "There's a little apartment on the ground floor in this building. Just one room and bath. The tenant is sailing on October 1 for Europe. She told me that if she could rent it to someone reliable she would be willing to let it go for very little."

"Sarah, that sounds grand!"

"Have you a lease where you are?"

"No; just one of those mouth-to-mouth things. Gosh, I'd love it," said Lynn. "Could I see it some day?"

Having seen it, she told Jennie.

"It's just the thing, awfully cute. It's fitted up as a living room, you know, one of those disguised beds, and there's an electric-plate affair in something not as big as a clothes closet."

"Sounds all right," Jennie admitted, "if you're willing to be under Sarah's eagle eye every minute."

"Oh, she won't interfere with me."

"I'm not so sure," said Jennie. "Lynn, you haven't told Tom—anything?"

"Of course not! What do you think I am? Why?"

"I didn't think you had. But Slim's been getting all hot and bothered about me lately. I just won't see him, that's all," said Jennie, setting her jaw firmly. "I can't afford to. Suppose I get fed up with Jake, and Slim's handy? Lord knows what I'd do. And I don't want to do anything," she added ambiguously.

TOM RETURNS

"Oh, but Jennie, if Slim should find out he wouldn't—I mean, you wouldn't have any more trouble with him."

"Oh, yeah? Well, you're all wet—that is, if you mean that Slim would cut me off his calling list. He wouldn't, naturally, have honorable intentions any more, but——"

Tom came back enthusiastic over his work. But Lynn paid him scant attention. She came straight to the point.

"Tom," she said, "why didn't you tell me Mr. Newton let you out?"

He looked excessively uncomfortable. Of course he might have known she'd find out! Everybody knew, he supposed.

He answered awkwardly, "Gosh, it was all so darned stupid. I didn't want to tell you. You see, I walked into his office all set to tell him I was quitting—and then he sprang at me. About firing me, I mean. Lord, you could have knocked me over with a—a cobweb!"

"But why did he fire you?"

"Oh, I wasn't 'responsible,' he said. I didn't take my 'obligations' seriously."

RAWLSON IN HIS PLACE

Now was the time for her to say, "And didn't you? Did you break your word to me about Rawlson?" But she couldn't say it. She had missed him so much; she had him back again; he hadn't lied to her. Perhaps Sarah had misunderstood Mr. Norton; had taken this talk of obligations and responsibilities to mean a dishonorable discharge.

Lynn said irrelevantly, "Oh, darling, I'm so glad to have you back; I've missed you so much. I wish," she said, low, "that they hadn't fired you."

He kissed her. "So do I," he said cheerfully, "but if I'd said, 'I'm quitting, anyway,' he wouldn't have believed me."

"I suppose you know Bob Rawlson has your job?" she asked.

He looked so aghast that she knew he hadn't known; knew, too, with relief that he hadn't been seeing Rawlson.

"Rawlson!" he exclaimed.

"Yes. Sarah told me that Mr. Norton had given him this chance as he was dissatisfied where he was. Tom, do you think that it was wise of Mr. Norton?"

"Wise?" He frowned, puzzled, then understanding, laughed. "Sure. Thinking of that jackass idea he—I mean, we had? Get it out of your funny little head. Rawlson's forgotten it long ago, I guess."

NEW QUARTERS

Then he doesn't know there's been talk on the street, she thought. She decided not to tell him. After all, what was the use?

By the middle of October Jennie had moved to a Riverside drive apartment, to her amused chagrin. "I held out for Park avenue, or at least the East Side, but nothing doing. Still it's a nice dump," she conceded carelessly, "and it has all the works, including a coffee-colored maid who is probably the biggest gossip in Harlem." She added, "I don't suppose you'll come to see me."

"Why not?" asked Lynn, in her turn.

Tom, learning that Jennie had moved and Lynn was moving, was insistent in his demands for an explanation. "What's the big idea? I thought you two got along like a house afire."

"We did, we do, but Jennie's had a raise," lied Lynn desperately, "and she's had a chance to go into a bigger place with—with someone else."

"Who?"

"Oh, just someone she used to know."

"Look here, what's wrong with you? Come, spill it; what's it all about?"

"Nothing. Whatever it is, it's Jennie's business," said Lynn, "and I haven't inquired into it."

Her tone warned Tom that he was not to inquire, either, but his mind was busy with speculations. A talk with Slim enlightened him not at all. But one day, reporting for work at noon, he saw Jennie leaving the building with a short, dark, dapper man and protecting herself against the slight autumnal chill by a three-skinned scarf of Russian sable.

LYNN IS WARNED

"So that's it!" said Tom, staring.

He told Lynn, when next he saw her, "I'm wise to Jennie's game. Look here, you'll have to cut her out."

Lynn said stubbornly, "I don't know what you're talking about."

"She isn't wearing sables and living on Riverside Drive—oh, Slim knows that much—on what she pulls down upstairs. Don't make me laugh. You—you can't afford to see her, Lynn."

"Is that so? Well," said Lynn furiously, "you can't dictate to me about my friends. I'll see her as often as I want!"

Tom took his troubles to Sarah, stopping in at her office one day. Sarah listened patiently.

"I thought it was something of the kind. Don't antagonize her, Tom," she advised slowly. "She's very loyal. No matter what Jennie does, she won't desert her. And you'll only make her angry. Let me talk to her, instead."

She did so at the first opportunity, coming right to the point. "You mustn't blame Tom," she concluded, after she had explained.

"I don't. Yes, I do! Men make me sick!" said Lynn violently.

"I know you're fond of Jennie," Sarah told her gently, "but can't you see that she has cut herself off from all companionship with you by this step?"

SORRY FOR JENNIE

"No. She was honest with me about it from the very beginning. She was perfectly willing that I should, as you say, cut her off. She wanted me to, rather. But I won't. She's lonely, in a way. I—I don't go there when anyone else is there, Sarah," Lynn told her.

"I see. That's wise, of course." Sarah was silent for a moment. What a rotten hypocrite I am, she thought; what right have I to preach to Lynn about Jennie's morals? Even if it was all over years ago, it happened, didn't it?

There is caste in everything, after all. No man kept me, she thought further, her chin lifted. That was a free gift; this is a—business arrangement.

She said, aloud, "I'll not say any more, and I don't think Tom will. It's up to your own judgment, Lynn."

Now, when Tom came to Lynn's new apartment, she took him up to Sarah's as a rule. But sometimes they couldn't inflict themselves upon Sarah, and so took to going out again for the brief hours belonging to them.

There were not many such hours. With the opening of the fall term Lynn was busy four nights a week.

At a movie one evening, Tom asked, dissatisfied, "What is the big idea of killing yourself?"

She answered, "It isn't settled yet, but if Sarah does change her position I'm in line for hers, you know."

"Gee, that's great!" He said it sincerely, but his eyes flickered anxiously over her small face, a little pale, a little thin. "But you mustn't work too hard. You can't stand it." And then, because Sarah had talked to him, advising, warning, he said awkwardly, "You're not fretting about Jennie, are you?"

She said, "I suppose so, a little. It seems such a waste. I'm so sorry for her."

They were silent as the curtain fell and the house darkened and the film started to unroll, holding each other's hands, like children, for comfort.

Lynn had not encountered David Dwight since the house party save once, when she had seen him outside the bank. His car was driving away, and someone else walking briskly into the bank had presented to her abstracted view a back and shoulders which reminded her of Bob Rawlson. She had seen Dwight only as a figure leaning back in his car. He had not seen her.

She admitted to herself that she was hurt and bewildered by his apparently deliberate neglect. Before the house party, if she had not seen him often, she had at least heard from him occasionally; a note from Washington, Cleveland; flowers; telephone calls.

He was probably dreadfully busy, she decided. Courts were in session; he would be away perhaps most of the time. Still, it was odd . . .

She even spoke of it to Sarah. Sarah, her eyes guarded, said, "He's occupied, I suppose. I saw in the papers the other day that another case had gone against him, on appeal."

Lynn thought, I wish I hadn't spoken. She must think I'm crazy. As if I mattered to him—at all.

The football season was on. Tom was sent out with the announcers to learn the business of outside hookups. He returned from these expeditions full of enthusiasm.

It was, she decided, much too deep for her. But that he was happy was obvious. He was never bored now but eager and ardent, looking forward to the next day's work. Lynn came now and then to the studio and was permitted to observe the programs, and once she went through the control room, which filled her with amazement.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, young and pretty clerk in the Sea Coast Bank and Trust Company, loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the bank's vice presidents. They cannot marry on Tom's salary, so Lynn plans to hold her position. She learns, however, that the bank does not want married women. She seeks the aid of David Dwight, prominent lawyer, whom she met through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Dwight had been Sarah's sweetheart years before, but gave her up to marry wealth. David, attracted by Lynn, offers her a position, but due to Tom's objection, Lynn rejects it. Later, Tom informs Lynn he has an opportunity to become rich by taking advantage of secret information relative to the bank's merger and buying stock. Lynn disapproves on the ground that it is dishonest and Tom reluctantly promises not to speculate. Shortly after, Tom is offered a position at a radio station. Anxious to tell Lynn, he asks if he might call only to learn that she is going away for the week-end with Sarah. Tom is questioned at the bank about the leakage of information concerning the merger. He loses his job, but lets Lynn think that he resigned.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Alan Barkley, piano player "extraordinary," is proving a very popular feature with the youngsters of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club every Saturday. The organlogue which he arranges for the boys and girls has every one in the theater singing at the top of their voices.

Alan Barkley

He is also assisting Miss Ruthie Miller, dancing instructor, in the training of the girls who are to appear in the chorus of the Junior Komic Club frolic which Manager Bill Zeller plans to stage within the next four or five weeks.

The members of the Arsenal Chapter of the club were entertained Sunday with an elaborate stage show titled "Happy Days" with the following boys and girls taking part:

Josephine Baron, Betty Richards, Adeline and Francis Ciancio, Shirley Berger, Helen Sherry, Alberta and Minnie Fundi, Josephine, Ruth and Helen Lang, Steve Delost, Francis and Josephine Kane.

NEW MINSTREL

The members of the Arsenal Chapter are going to start rehearsing a new minstrel show this week. They hope to have it in shape so that they can present it for the first time on August 20.

The Davis Theater, which closed Saturday for the summer, held it's final meeting with a very good attendance. The members were entertained by pupils from Barth's School of Dancing. Those taking part in the program were:

Grace Jansen, toe tap; ose Mary Dobson, recitation and tap dance; Margaret Calogero, in three songs. The Giancola sisters, young stars of WCAE and members of the Davis Chapter, entertained their fellow-members with four harmony numbers. Little Mary Pearlstein officiated as mistress of ceremonies throughout the program.

GUESTS AT RODEO

Hundreds of members of the Junior Komic Club are this afternoon special guests at the Father Cox rodeo and circus at Exposition Park, North Side. It is anticipated that they are getting a real thrill out of the feats of the Western cowboys and cowgirls, their mustangs and ponies, their roping and trick riding, the trained pigs and ducks, the funny clowns and all the other rodeo and circus acts assembled for the Father Cox show which is going to run afternoons and evenings for a full week.

If you are not a member of the Sun - Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

There seems to be some confusion concerning the Republican prohibition plank.

However, the whole matter is cleared up today in a statement from the Republican publicity bureau which states:

"Information to the contrary notwithstanding, that the principles of Americanism for which, no doubt, there are, regardless of opinions otherwise stated, certain exigencies, if not paramount, at least a solution should be forthcoming without equivocation, whereas on the other hand a misapprehension may arise. If not then it is not what it is in case it was."

WHERE YOUR TAX MONEY GOES.

WE believe if more taxpayers would take an interest in how and why the government spends $2,000,000 a minute there would be less grubbling and more gratitude. For example, consider the work of J. Rufus Gillipsie, of the Department of Agriculture. He complains that no one, with the exception of a few lady friends, appreciates what he is doing to tabulate the number of pests in the Middle-West. Gillipsie has a large staff of field workers who are stationed in Harvey House lunch rooms just to count the winks directed at waitresses. If the number of winks compares favorably with the average for this period last year, the government will issue a bulletin to warn farmers' daughters against traveling salesmen.

Public Service Commission Gets Charges That Utility Is Breaking Law.

A suggestion was made in this column a short time ago that the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission should follow the lead of New York in an investigation of the practices of the Associated Gas and Electric System.

The New York Public Service Commission had declared that Associated Gas was charging excessive fees to its subsidiaries in order to increase apparent expenses and to hold its rates at a high level. It also declared that holding companies were being used to keep the commission from learning the true state of affairs in the organization.

Last week a group of minority stockholders of the Metropolitan Edison Company, a subsidiary of Associated Gas, laid specific charges of the violation of laws before the Pennsylvania Commission. Metropolitan Edison serves Reading, Easton and a large part of the southeastern part of the state.

The stockholders declared that the holding company was making improper use of the subsidiary company's funds and urged prosecution of officials if an inquiry develops the fact that officers wilfully violated the law.

In view of these charges, it is difficult to understand how the commission in this state can continue to ignore the alleged actions of Associated Gas and Electric.

The Ax Swings

Kline and Coyne Move to Reduce the Police Force To a Political Machine.

The threatened police shakeup has taken place. It follows the expected program. Mayor Kline, in co-operation with his ally, State Senator Coyne, has moved to further intrench his political strength by firing inspectors who lacked loyalty to the machine.

This discussion is not intended to be a comment on the merits of the officers dismissed from their posts or of the men promoted to fill their places. Merit was not taken into consideration in making the changes. The only consideration given weight, as far as can be determined, was the tightening of the Kline-Coyne grip on the affected police districts.

It will be remembered that the changes in the higher police officers follows closely on the dismissals of subordinate policemen in the interests of "economy" a few weeks ago. At that time the Mayor, in order to insure the political loyalty of the police force, disregarded the wishes of Council that only men eligible for pensions be retired.

Butter and Egg Charlie Kline has established definite standards to be met by our policemen. THE QUESTIONS DETERMINING A POLICEMAN'S RIGHT TO HIS JOB ARE NOT:

Is he honest?
Is he conscientious?
Is he capable of aiding law enforcement?
THEY ARE:
Is he for us?
Does he control any votes?

Vote Machine Mess Worse

Commissioners Told They Must Make Repairs at Expense of County and Then Collect.

The mess into which the county stepped by buying an untested vote machine is made more dubious by the statement of County Solicitor J. P. Fife to Chairman McGovern, of the County Commissioners, to the effect that such mechanical adjustment as is needed must be made at the expense of the county. Then, according to Mr. Fife, the county would have to sue the surety for the manufacturers in an effort to be compensated for what it may spend to make the machine fit for use at the polls.

The whole matter is unfortunate. Perhaps the former board of commissioners can be blamed only for lack of foresight in placing an order for a device that had no record of performance behind it. The order went to the lowest bidder, and it was scarcely possible to foresee that the delivered machines would not equal the performance of the demonstration model used as a sample. Hindsight is better than foresight, and it now appears that the sample should have been tested in an actual election, instead of being handled by a demonstrator, to prove its merit.

However, we have the machines on our hands and it is up to us to make the best of a bad bargain. They must be made serviceable and put into use as soon as possible. Collecting the cost from the surety is something else. The bonding companies have refused to have the work done, but that is no reason why the voters should be kept from using voting machines when they have bought them and they have been delivered.

Hail to Duquesne!

Neighboring City Sets Record by Actually Having an Office That Pursued the Man.

Diogenes sought an honest man. Had he found one, his accomplishment would have been no greater than that of the city of Duquesne. The political idea that the office should seek the man and not man the office has been exemplified in Duquesne.

In the Second Ward of that city a faithful constable decided that he was not physically capable of continuing in his post, and declined to make a run for the office, soliciting his friends to vote for one who had served at times as his deputy. But the voters went right ahead and elected the veteran constable anyway, and he had to have the courts retire him in favor of the other candidate.

It may be a long time ere the office will again seek the man so perseveringly, and Duquesne is not likely to have to forfeit its record soon—at least to any Allegheny County community.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"Dear Little Diary"!

Men are beginning to demand equal rights with women. More still, they are helping themselves to all woman's special privileges, from fancy lingerie to permanent waves and waistlines.

* * *

But the limit was reached when a wealthy New Yorker's "dear little diary" was read aloud in court by his wife's attorney, confessing all his boyish emotions with names and dates.

* * *

A woman just loves to dramatize herself and to spill her soul, her thoughts and her secrets out on paper. That's one way of getting a lot of things out of her system, and if there is no man or woman at hand to whom she can "confess all," then she will tell it to "Dear Little Dairy"—and Little Diary is defenseless!

But the average man has always preferred to keep his secret thoughts, affairs and emotional reactions locked safely within his manly breast. He even hates to waste time writing letters, when he can compress his whole passion on a postcard or into a 10-word telegram.

* * *

A girl felt fairly safe to confide in a man and to trust him with her most precious secrets, knowing that he would forget them to the next day, anyway. But NOW, if men are going in for diaries, watch your step!

* * *

Imagine seeing your name in the morning newspaper, along with a varied list of chorines, Broadway beauties, grass widows and prominent gold-diggers, every time some man got himself into an alimony jam or a breach of promise suit! Fancy finding yourself, all labeled and X-rayed, as follows:

Monday—Saw susceptible Susie, last night—and wish I hadn't! One perfectly good collar wrecked with indelible lipstick. Why are some girls so sure that they are going to be kissed?

* * *

Tuesday—Met Adele at the Beach Club. Gosh! How old IS that woman? Never saw her by daylight before. Forty crows must have walked under her eyes on a wet track. And the mascara didn't blend with the rouge!

* * *

Wednesday—Drove the red-headed Martin girl out to the country, under a swell moon. Bored stiff. But life has its compensations. You can keep 'em quiet by kissing 'em.

Broadway, taking on the Bowery mettle of confusing uncertainties, now has an abandoned store where an old-time herb doctor holds forth with a free show. As a side line, he peddles a magic vermicide which, he declares, destroys everything from canker to weevil. I was among the garmouthed listeners drifting off at the close of his spiel without purchasing. As we melted into the sidewalk crowds he gave vent to this impassioned outcry: "Broadway, street of spendthrifts!"

* * *

Pedro Joe was the herb doctor out our way, roaming in the spring to dig herbaceous potions he brewed in his tin-can lean-to back of Schreck's slaughter house. Joe was a Portuguese with coarse black hair to his shoulders, gorse-bush eyebrows—a mellow brigand down from the hills, with a relish for rye straight, and a gift of blowing tunes on peach leaves. As he hobbled through town we young scalawags jeered: "Joe, Joe, teeadigo foe, tea-legged, knock-kneed, cross-eyed Joe." One noon after a hooting he waited around the corner in an alley and jumped out at me. My shriek started everybody home for dinner. They thought it was the factory whistle.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Many thousands of World War veterans sleeping on the mud, starving on the streets of Washington. Hundreds more marching to join them because they have no place else to go.

You've been hearing about them for weeks. At first it sickened and frightened you. Now, perhaps, it is beginning to seem an old story. You're forgetting them. Don't! There's another side of that story which you haven't heard—the most dangerous side.

Those veterans are asking Washington for jobs or bonus. Washington says "Go home!"

"But where are the homes to go to?" cry the men. "Where are the jobs? Where is the food to keep our starving wives and children alive? You are worrying about the banks and railroads of America; but we are America—the workers and soldiers who made and saved America. Why aren't you worrying about us?"

Many questions the veterans ask the government. The government has no answers. But there are others in Washington who have answers.

Circulating in and out among the veterans move hundreds of other men. They, too, are ex-soldiers; but they are not quite as hungry or ragged as the other soldiers. They do not wear that look of bitter bewilderment. To the contrary, they are quite cool and collected. They are very orderly. They commit no overt acts; utter no threats; make no attempts to "start something."

BUT WHEN THE OTHER SOLDIERS ASK THEIR BITTER QUESTIONS, THESE MEN HAVE THE ANSWERS.

When the men of the B. E. F. say: "We are hungry and unemployed. Why can't the country which we saved give us food and jobs?" these other men answer:

"There is a place where the men who saved their country are not hungry. Ex-soldiers have jobs in that place. They have homes. Their wives and old mothers do not wander homeless in the streets. Their children do not die from neglect

"Railroads and banks do not come first in that country. Citizens come first—laborers, farmers, mechanics. That country is run by citizens for citizens. It is the salvation of workers. It will help even the workers who are not there—who are suffering under other forms of government. It will feed and finance those other workers. There is food and money mobilized in New Jersey and Detroit for those workers—"

Quietly these men circulate about, giving the answer. The police cannot throw them out. They are doing nothing for which they can be thrown out. But the veterans of the B. E. F. listen to them in sullen, hostile silence. They know what these men are.

THEY KNOW THAT THESE MEN ARE COMMUNISTS. THEY KNOW THAT THEY ARE TALKING ABOUT SOVIET RUSSIA.

Those men who saved America do not believe in Communism. They believe in Democracy. They believe in a form of government which gives every individual a fair chance and lets him make the most of it. They fought for that form of government. They would like to fight for it again. They would like to knock all the Communists' arguments down their back teeth. But they can't!

Democracy should work out. Democracy should stand by the men who have fought for it, worked for it, believed in it. But it doesn't. Why?

Those thousands of men prowl through the streets of Washington, waiting for an answer. But Washington has no answer.

WHAT WILL BE THE CONSEQUENCE? IF WASHINGTON SUCCEEDS IN DRIVING THESE MEN AWAY; IF IT SCATTERS THEM IN HOMELESS, HUNGRY HORDES THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY, WHAT MESSAGE WILL THEY CARRY WITH THEM TO THE HUNGRY, HOMELESS MILLIONS THEY WILL MEET?

Think it over. What's your guess?

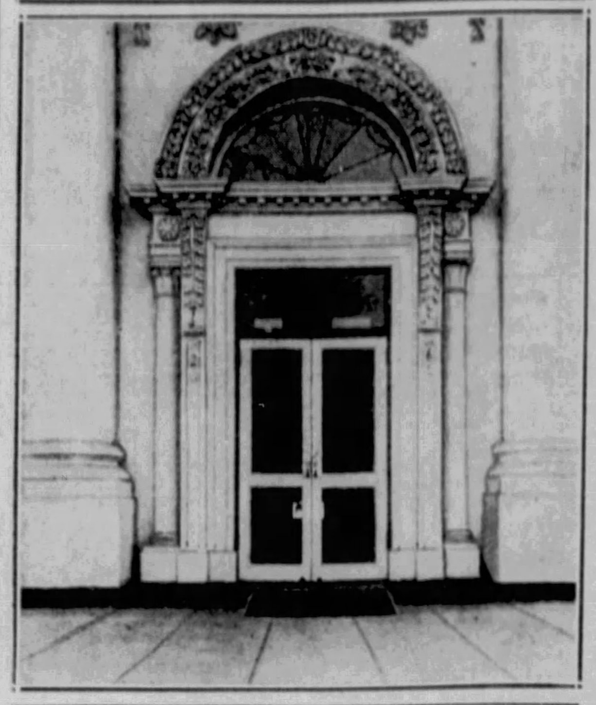
Text For Today Go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.—Matthew, v:24.

(Today's text is suggested by the Rev. Dr. Carl August Voss, pastor, German Evangelical Protestant Church.)

The Door to Greatness

It Is Also the Door to Worry and Heavy Responsibility.



THE WHITE HOUSE FRONT DOOR.

This is the door through which millions of American boys plan to go, as ruler of the house. Only a few in each generation can realize that dream.

Of this beautiful door, with all its possibilities, you might write the words that Dante puts above the entrance to the infernal regions, beginning:

"Per me si va nella cita dolente Per me si va nel eterno dolore."
"Through me you go to the suffering city
Through me you go to eternal sorrow."

Of course, it is not quite as bad as that when you enter the White House, but it is quite certain that the majority of those that have become President, and entered this door as "master of the house," have known more sorrow and suffering than happiness during their White House years.

These two pictures are reproduced, by permission from the current number of Cosmopolitan Magazine, in which Mrs. Mary Randolph, who was Mrs. Coolidge's private secretary, tells of her experiences within this beautiful door.

"The master" during Miss Randolph's stay was Calvin Coolidge, so in her article in Cosmopolitan Magazine she puts his picture above the door.

All real Americans, of whom we have, thank the Lord, more than a hundred million, will look with interest on this picture of the nation's most important door to OPPORTUNITY AND RESPONSIBILITY.

We need not envy the man that enters here as master and head of the nation. We may all wish we had his opportunity to do good, we all should try to appreciate the weight of his responsibility, the difficulties of his position, the added load that public indifference and ignorance often add to the burden on the President's shoulders.

Since the disappearance from power of the world's autocrats, the Czar of Russia and the Sultan of Turkey, there is no doubt that the President of the United States possesses greater authority, and more important authority, excepting, possibly, the three dictators, Mussolini, Stalin and Kemal Pasha, than any man on earth. Our President can start legislation, and by his veto he can thwart it, and the will of Congress. He is always held responsible for what goes wrong, not always given credit for that which goes well.

MARY RANDOLPH, WHO WRITES ABOUT LIFE BEHIND THAT DOOR

Miss Randolph, who hurried to Washington upon the death of President Harding, to take up her White House duties as Mrs. Coolidge's secretary, tells in Cosmopolitan Magazine an exciting and most interesting story of the life within the President's mansion.

Those that follow public questions, and read published criticisms, will agree with John Held, Jr., and Franklin P. Adams, who conduct a monthly "Almanack" in Cosmopolitan Magazine, and express in verse:

"Thought inspired by wondering why men want to be President, to be sung to an old air:

"The President leads a worried life;
It's full of sleeplessness and strife.
He drinks no whisky, beer or wine—
I'm glad the President's lot ain't mine."

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Do you know:

1. What is the question that the Lausanne conference discussed?
2. Who is the only white person to be born within the Arctic Circle?
3. Who is the author of "Penquin Island?"
4. How many drams make an ounce?
